Course Materials
Students in this class can find all relevant course materials on Canvas, the new (and improved) learning management system at SJSU. There you will find a full version of the greensheet/syllabus, additional assigned readings, reading quizzes, study and exam guides, and grades. Please contact the Help Desk on the ground floor of Clark Hall if you have problems accessing this site and its materials.

Course Description
This course explores aspects of everyday life and culture in Southeast Asia. We first focus on the diversity of the region, rice and ritual, indigenous belief systems, and indigenous notions of power and authority. We will sample the long-term engagement of local peoples with Chinese, Indians, and the world system through religion, trade, European colonialism, and nation-state formation, to consider the “plural societies” that emerge from those encounters.

The course surveys also specific aspects of daily life and forces of change, as the region has experienced nationalism and war, postwar reconstruction, refugees, modernization, and the strains of globalizing economies and local insurgencies.

As ethnographers, we will examine critically some of the major theoretical concepts applied to (and derived from) Southeast Asian societies: “imagining the nation,” “patron-client relations,” “a moral economy,” “hilltribes,” “men of prowess,” “gender complementarity,” and “cultural citizenship.” To encourage appreciation for the region’s rich expressive culture, we will integrate folklore, literature, music, art and food into the lectures, assignments, and class discussions.

We will survey both island and mainland Southeast Asia. We will, however, concentrate on Vietnam, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, the Philippines, and Indonesia. Support and resources will be available for students wishing to focus on other Southeast Asian societies.

Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives
• Be able to think critically, especially using comparative frameworks, analyze processes and discover assumptions.
• Be able to recognize and analyze the interaction of social institutions, culture, and environment with individual and collective behavior.
• Be able to analyze forces of change and their impacts in different historical contexts.
• Appreciate the contributions of anthropologists to understanding aspects of everyday life in a specific region of the world.
• Understand the connections between the peoples and histories in Southeast Asia and our own society.
• Gain a working knowledge of how cultural anthropologists conduct field research through completing an ethnographic research project.

Goals of the Anthropology Department (* relevant to this course)

Knowledge
• Understanding culture as the distinguishing phenomenon of human life, and the relationship of human biology and evolution.
• Awareness of human diversity and the ways humans have categorized diversity.*

• Comprehension of migration, colonialism, and economic integration as significant phenomena shaping global society.*

Skills
• Ability to access various forms of anthropological data and literature.*
• Awareness of importance and value of anthropological knowledge in contemporary society, and the ability to apply it to social issues.*
• Knowledge of the research methods of cultural anthropology.*
• Ability to present and communicate anthropological knowledge and the results of anthropological research to different audiences.*

Professional Values
• Knowledge of political and ethical implications of social research.*

Dropping and Adding
Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drops, academic renewal, etc. Information on add/drops are available at http://info.sjsu.edu/web-dbgen/narr/soc-fall/rec-324.html. Information about late drop is available at http://www.sjsu.edu/sac/advising/latedrops/policy. Students should be aware of the current deadlines and penalties for adding and dropping classes.

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act
If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities requesting accommodations must register with the DRC (Disability Resource Center) to establish a record of their disability.

Workload – Credit Hours
Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course (for this 3-unit course, 9 hours per week including class time) for preparation, reading course assignments, studying, writing and instruction.
Writing Activities
The first writing assignment will be a 5-page paper on a Southeast Asian novel, short story, or film – using these materials as sources for ethnographic information about everyday life. I will provide a list of possible resources.

Honing your anthropology skills, you will have the opportunity to do ethnographic research in a setting shaped by Southeast Asian practices and values. The research will require observations and at least two full interviews and a 10-page analysis, incorporating academic sources. I will provide comprehensive prompts for this assignment.

Ethics
All ethnographic data must conform to the University’s and the discipline’s code of research ethics. All participation by informants must be voluntary and confidential. Minors will not directly participate in this project. All written material must be original, and based on both ethnographic observations and appropriately cited written resources.

Deadlines
Plan on turning in your papers on time. You must submit a hard copy; I will not print out e-mails for grading. If you arrange with me in advance, extensions are possible. Otherwise, you will lose 2 points for each class day the paper is late.

Format
All papers should be typed and fully referenced, with numbered pages. AAA style can be found at http://www.aaanet.org/publications/guidelines.cfm. Writing should be clear and correct. All papers should be proof-read. I suggest reading the draft aloud to catch errors and unwieldy writing. Each assignment uses certain analytical skills and requires comprehension of cultural themes. Your grade will depend on your accuracy, originality, depth of understanding and overall effort in both field research and analysis. Spelling and correct grammar count! See class website for further details on assessment.

Plagiarism
Plagiarism occurs when you use the words of another author – a phrase, sentence, or paragraph -- without giving credit to that author with quotation marks and a citation. This practice misrepresents your writing. SJSU policy forbids plagiarism. It will be punished. If found plagiarizing, you WILL receive a zero for your assignment and I WILL report you. Please read the Statement on Academic Integrity and consult me if you have questions on this issue.

As a double check on plagiarism, you will submit your papers to Turnitin.com, through Canvas. Details to follow.

Exams
You will complete regular, weekly quizzes on the readings and one take home final exam, based on questions provided in advance. SO….completing the assigned reading is both required and essential to your success in the class. In addition, you’ll take a map quiz on-line – geography is crucial here.
