Course Description
This graduate seminar provides an overview of significant topics in contemporary art. The course is organized around issues that have been and continue to be relevant to the arts such as modernism/postmodernism, issues of gender and race, and the role of popular culture and new technology. By the end of the semester students will be able to read complex essays, discuss, and write about culture with an understanding of the theoretical and practical stakes involved, and situate contemporary artists within these intellectual currents.

Course Learning Outcomes
On successful completion of this course students shall be able to:
CLO 1) understand major ideas that currently inform art practice and theory;
CLO 2) be able to articulate and debate these ideas in verbal discussion;
CLO 3) be able to elaborate upon these ideas through written argumentation.

Required Texts/Readings
1) Theory in Contemporary Art since 1985, Second Edition, editors Z. Kocur and S. Leung (London: Blackwell Press, 2010). You ought to order the book ASAP online or purchase at the Spartan bookstore. This is the required textbook for this course.

2) Additional texts will be made available via online links in the course schedule.

Library Liaison
Rebecca Kohn, rebecca.kohn@sjsu.edu or (408) 808-2007.
Course Requirements and Assignments
It is expected that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week), including preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf.

1) Weekly In-Class Assignments (CLO 1, 2): This is 30% of the final grade. The assignments are graded Pass/No Pass.

   Each week students will need to read the assigned essays at least twice before class, take notes, and prepare the weekly assignment for in-class presentation. The “Assignment” listed on the course schedule will be the topic of discussion for the second half of the class. Be prepared to discuss your response to the reading and assignment. Participation is mandatory.

2) One Class Presentation (CLO 1, 2): This presentation is 30% of the final grade.

   A) Preparation for your presentation:
   The two students assigned to present together for a designated class ought to meet and discuss the assigned essays outside of class. Analyze the text(s) together. Ask questions. Debate the ideas. After discussing the essay(s) and summarizing the argument and key terms from the reading your team will choose a contemporary artwork(s) that you would like the class to consider in relation to the readings. (If the schedule lists an artwork in relation to the week’s topic you must address this work but can choose another as well.)

   B) On the day of your presentation in class from 3:15-4:15pm:
   On the day of your presentation your team should prepare to:
   1) define the essay(s) argument and points; 2) define at least three significant terms; 3) discuss one exemplary quotation from the essay; and 4) project and discuss examples of contemporary art that you believe productively complicates the essay.

   Note: If you would like to use a projector on the day of your presentation you must be sure to reserve it with Bob in Art 139. Be sure to let Bob know if you need speakers too. Your group is responsible for fetching the projector, bringing a laptop, setting up/breaking down, and returning the projector to Art 139 at the end of class.

3) Theory/Praxis Final Paper (CLO 3): The final 10-page paper is due on the final day of class and is worth 30% of your final grade.

   Your final paper concerns the relationship between theory and praxis. You will analyze one of the essays discussed during the semester. (You may choose an essay not assigned in class with the instructor’s prior consent.) You are responsible for explaining the essay’s topic and argument, and for conducting research on a contemporary artwork(s) that addresses—and usefully complicates—this argument. In your conclusion you are to reconsider the essay’s argument in light of your example. Does the art example challenge the theoretical argument? Introduce new information? Confirm the author’s view? Or, on the contrary, does the theoretical argument reveal aspects of the artwork that were not apparent? The paper is to be a minimum of 10 and maximum of 15 pages, typewritten in 12-point font, with 1” borders, and footnote citations. See the Chicago/Turabian Manual of Style for issues regarding style and formatting: http://www.wisc.edu/writing/Handbook/DocChicago.html. If you have questions about writing make an appointment at the Writing Center, Clark Hall, 408/924-2308. Contact Rebecca Kohn, the library liaison, at rebecca.kohn@sjsu.edu or (408) 808-2007 for information about research.

4) Summary (CLO 3): A 2-page summary and creative presentation of your paper topic is 10% of your final grade.

A two-page summary of your final paper is due a week before the final paper. Along with your summary you should be prepared to provide a creative response to your topic in a medium other than writing.

Grading information
No late assignments are accepted except in the case of a medical emergency. In the case of a medical emergency students will need an original, signed and dated doctor’s note explaining the condition and declaring that you are unable to attend class and complete work. No make-up credit for late or incomplete assignments. Students must be present in class to receive credit for in-class assignments.

Assignment Weight
- In-class Assignments Pass/No Pass: 30%
