Course Format: This is a lecture course. Students will be expected to explore their thoughts through the processes of critical reading, lecture, discussion, journal writing, exams, and a research paper. As this class involves lecture-related assignments attendance is mandatory.

Course Description

Introduction to Visual Culture examines the visual culture that pervades everyday life in our increasingly complex image-saturated age. From painting to advertisements, from the Internet to posters, we come across visual culture in a variety of ways and forms. This course will take up key ideas and debates pertaining to visual culture through an interdisciplinary study that critically considers art and media as significant social forces. The course will discuss the role visual culture plays in contemporary life and will provide methods with which to read images, understand cultural context, and assess changes in spectatorship and distribution that have ensued due to new forms of image production and dissemination.

Course Goals

After taking this course students will gain a critical understanding of how visual culture informs everyday life and experience. Readings, lectures and discussions will introduce theoretical and historical approaches to the study of visual culture while examining key issues in the study of media, art history, and culture at large. Students will learn techniques for analyzing images and objects encountered in art and culture. C1 Arts courses will enable students to recognize aesthetic qualities and processes that characterize works of the human intellect and imagination, and respond to these works of art in writing and discussion.
