Course Description

This upper-division undergraduate course examines contemporary art with an emphasis on the viewer's relationship to the artwork and its materiality.

Over the course of the semester students will become familiar with a variety of artists and media while reading texts that explain, describe, and theorize various approaches to art and objects. While some of the assigned texts fall into the category of art history, others propose foundational theories of the object, such as anthropologist Marcel Mauss's notion of the "gift," sociologist Pierre Bourdieu's construction of habitus, Martin Heidegger's idea of the "tool" and Karl Marx's theory of the "commodity."

The first half of the course concerns different types of objects and object-systems with a particular emphasis on contemporary art practices inspired by earlier art movements. The second half of the course will focus on strategies for looking at or engaging with objects in contemporary art, such as museum intervention, relational aesthetics, and hybridity.

Course Learning Outcomes (CLO)

The study of contemporary art history requires individuals to explore the recently produced works to ask why each looks the way it does. The objective of this course is for students to acquire a broad perspective on the changing technologies, cultural ideals, and popular tastes that have influenced art produced since 1970. A secondary goal is to develop the communication skills necessary for translating your visual perceptions into words and, more generally, to securing your academic and professional success.

You will: □

- Conduct self-directed study of basic terminology and concepts using required course readings and Study Guides available on the Course Website (at <http://arth.sjsu.edu/courses/index.php>);
- Memorize terms, names, dates, and historical facts about iconic works of contemporary art; □
- Recognize the dominant period-styles of contemporary art through the characteristics of each one; □
- Use required readings, lecture notes and on-line Study Guides to increase knowledge of the concepts and □ contexts of iconic works, major artists and key movements; □
- Complete a written research project on an artwork; papers will □ require careful reading of course materials and independent research on the artwork; □
- Translate your visual perceptions of artworks into papers and essays; □
- Develop critical thinking skills by engaging in in-class discussion and writing about contemporary art; □
- Develop your verbal communication skills through in-class discussion and in-class presentations; and □

ARTH 191A Issues in Contemporary Art: The Thing

- Write clearly, effectively, and critically using terminology appropriate to contemporary art history. □

Course Requirements and Assignments

SJSU classes are designed such that in order to be successful, it is expected that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week), including preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at: <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf>.

There will be a midterm, a group research paper on an assigned topic, an individual paper reflecting on course readings, and a final exam. Papers will be subject to peer review prior to submission. Grading criteria for all writing assignments is posted to the Course Website, as are writing guides intended to help with structure and citation formats. All papers will be evaluated and returned with instructor comments intended to improve future writing assignments;

- All papers will require scholarly research as well as analytical and affective responses to contemporary art. Inasmuch as is possible, they will require observing, describing and discussing actual examples of contemporary art (as opposed to reproductions); □
- Required paper formats. Type all written assignments with one-inch margins and a 12-point font. Use Chicago Style citation formats. Double-space, use page numbers, and put your name, title and assignment number on a cover page (see Course Website writing guides for example). Use separate pages for captioned illustrations of featured works and include these pages at the end of the paper and before the bibliography. Staple pages together at the upper left-hand corner. Keep a printed copy and a back-up disk of all your work. Papers must be received in hardcopy.

Students are urged to remain current by taking effective lecture notes and researching and writing out answers to the on-line Study Guides as they are posted. It is recommended that students form study groups outside of class as this is a highly effective means of assimilating information into knowledge.

Midterm and Final Examination

Material covered on exams will derive from class lectures and assigned readings from the course textbook, assigned readings, and ARTH-DSGD 191A Course Website. Exam format consists of a combination of slide identification and analysis of artworks and comparisons of works with effective use of terminology. Both the Midterm and Final will follow the same format. Part I will be the identification and significance of single artworks and Part II will be comparisons of artworks. □

Determination of Grades

- There are no extra credit options in this course. □
- There are no early exams. There are no make-up exams or late assignments without prior approval or valid excuse (i.e., documentation such as a doctor's note). Unexcused missed exams and late assignments will receive a grade of "0". Lack of documented active participation on the group research paper will result in a group paper grade of "0". □

Classroom Protocol

- Attendance and active participation are essential to your success in this course as they represent your opportunity to apply what you have learned, to articulate your ideas clearly and effectively, to develop analytical and critical thinking about art, and to learn about additional perspectives on our topics of study. Please arrive punctually with all required materials and stay for the entire class. Discussion will typically center on images shown in class and not all of these will be available in the texts. □
- To prevent classroom distractions that interfere with student learning, students are asked to turn off cell phones and to limit laptop use to taking notes. Students who use their computers or other electronic devices for non-classroom related activities, or who hold private conversations during lectures or other presentations, will be asked to leave class and may be referred to Judicial Affairs; □
- Papers must be original to this class (no "recycling"), meet all assignment requirements, and provide proper in-text source citations for all sources used (including textbook) for credit. All final papers must be submitted with draft versions for credit. No late papers accepted without valid documentation; □
- Group assignments and in-class activities require the full participation of all group members. Documentation of active and legitimate participation is required from each member in order to receive the overall group grade. Absence of any or all supporting materials will result in a group grade of "0"; and □
- Papers copied in whole or in part from Internet sources will receive a grade of "0." In addition, and per University protocol, all incidents of plagiarism will be reported to the Office of Judicial Affairs. A second offense in this or any other class will result in administrative disciplinary action, which can potentially involve expulsion. See "Avoiding Plagiarism: Mastering the Art of Scholarship," on-line at <<http://sja.ucdavis.edu/files/plagiarism.pdf>>.
