

COLLEGE OF APPLIED SCIENCES AND ARTS

Invites you to apply to participate in the NEW!

INSTITUTE FOR COLLABORATIVE RESPONSE*

Victims of Crime

TRAINING IN COLLABORATION

The goal of the Institute for Collaborative Response is to provide a new model of education and training that will inspire students to work collaboratively among related disciplines to provide a better response for victims of crime. Students who participate in the Institute will receive specialized training in areas of victimization to raise awareness of victims' rights and needs for services through a collaborative model.

INTERNSHIPS

Students will also participate in multidisciplinary internship placements through their respective departments within CASA. Through participation in ICR, students will learn to jointly respond to victimization issues and provide collaborative crisis intervention. As a participant in this innovative program, you will learn state of the art interventions in diverse settings within a coordinated community response for victims of crime.

CERTIFICATE

Through your participation in ICR, you will earn a certificate in collaborative response from the College of Applied Sciences and Arts Dean's office.

THE PROGRAM INVOLVES:

- Attending special workshops on collaboration, understanding aspects of coordinated community response and interdisciplinary response to victims of crime.
- Participating in special interdisciplinary discussions
- Working in qualified field placements
- Completing a special project that reflects your collaborative experience
