Reflecting critically on our beliefs about learning

There is a widespread belief that we each have a particular learning style, a way in which we learn best. In this interactive session, we will carefully unpack the myths about learning styles, and discuss the current thinking about how people learn and how to teach in support of learning. This presentation is based on the NSF-funded Transforming STEM Teaching Faculty Learning Program from UC Berkeley.

For more information: Prof. Radlauer at madalyn.radlauer@sjsu.edu or Prof. Simocko at chester.simocko@sjsu.edu