

Dear College of Health and Human Sciences Faculty -

Welcome to Fall 2019! Below you will find information to support your research, scholarship and creative activities (RSCA) as well as information about workshops that may be helpful for CHHS faculty preparing RTP dossiers. If you have any questions about this information or about RSCA support here at SJSU and in CHHS, please contact me (laurie.drabble@sjsu.edu).

RSCA SUPPORT

WORKSHOP

Finding Funding: Searching for and Evaluating Foundation and other Grant Opportunities

Presenter/Facilitator: Michelle Smith, Tower Foundation

Friday, October 18, 10am to noon OR

Thursday, October 24, 2:30 to 4:30pm

Location: MQH 438A

Please RSVP to laurie.drabble@sjsu.edu

Many CHHS faculty are involved in practice-based and pedagogical scholarship that may be more of a match for foundation or other private funding. This “hands on” workshop will provide guidance and tips related to searching for and evaluating a wide range of potential grant opportunities, including foundation funders. Participants will learn about current SJSU resources for finding, assessing, and applying for funding with a special focus on using the Pivot database – a useful tool that is available for free to all SJSU faculty. Participants are encouraged to sign up for a Pivot account in advance of the workshop and then to bring their laptops to the session, along with some keywords related to their project interests. To create your Pivot account, you can go to the A-Z library databases, select Pivot (under “P”), and follow instructions. You can also go directly to the web link https://pivot.proquest.com/funding_main, and use your SJSU email to set up an account.

CARHS Services: Editing and/or Statistical Consulting

The Center for Applied Research on Human Services (CARHS) is a resource center for CHHS faculty. Editing and statistical consulting services are available for free. More information about RSCA support can be found on <http://www.sjsu.edu/carhs/>. Contact CARHS director Giselle Pignotti (giselle.pignotti@sjsu.edu) for referral.

RTP WORKSHOPS

RTP workshop – Tips for packaging your dossier

In-person: Wednesday, September 4, MQH 438A 10:00 am to 11:00 am,

Zoom Option 1: Monday, September 9, 2:30 pm – 3:30 pm

Zoom Option 2: Friday, Sept 13, 11:00 am to noon

Faculty preparing a dossier or other RTP materials for submission this year are invited to an optional training created by members of the 2018-19 college and university RTP committees. Based on experiences reviewing dossiers last year, the committee created a presentation on putting forth a package that will be well-received by reviewers. The training includes a demo of a Faculty180 feature enabling you to view your submission from the reviewers' perspective.

Presenters: Amy D'Andrade, Deepika Goyal, Giselle Pignotti

RSVP appreciated: laurie.drabble@sjsu.edu

There is a recording of an online version of the workshop; if you would like that, please email Laurie (email above) for a link.

RSCA TIPS & WORKSHOPS FROM THE SJSU LIBRARY

Get an ORCID identifier for funding and publishing purposes

ORCID is a persistent digital identifier for researchers and scholars. It will travel with you throughout your career no matter where you work, if your name is common, changes, or similar to another researcher, or if your research topic changes - no more mistaken identities! Also, today, many funders and publishers require an ORCID identifier to apply for a grant, submit a manuscript for review, or to be a peer-reviewer. Having an online ORCID profile with your works listed also improves recognition and discoverability of your work. Registration and more information about ORCID is available on the RSCA Impact Guide. If you have any questions, please contact the Research Impact Librarian at yen.tran@sjsu.edu.

OTHER USEFUL RSCA RESOURCES

The SJSU eCampus workshops provide in-person and online training on various technologies used in teaching and learning as well as refreshers and training on research tools such as SPSS refresher, Qualtrics, and NVivo.

National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity

SJSU has an institutional membership to NCFDD, which provides faculty with access to webinars and other resources focused on increasing both productivity and work-life balance. Many CHHS faculty have found the core curriculum webinars and “Monday Motivator” emails to be very helpful. To access the resources, take the following steps:

- Go to www.FacultyDiversity.org/Institutions/SJSU
- On the institution's landing page, click Activate My Membership
- Complete the registration form using your SJSU email address
- Activate your account by confirming your email address.

External Funding Opportunities

You can find links to external funding opportunities, organized under four broad topics areas, on the Research Foundation website.

RSCA REMINDERS

TRAVEL. If you are planning travel to a conference, don't forget to submit your Request for Authorization to travel. (and review current Travel Policies and Procedures). Here is the link to the university travel policies:
