OPPORTUNITY YOUTH ACADEMY

The Opportunity Youth Academy (OYA) offers a high school diploma completion opportunity for 16- to 24-year-olds.

Students who have not yet graduated high school are offered a blended program of teacher directed instruction and online credit accrual and recovery options.

OYA Students...

- ✓ Complete high school graduation requirements/credits
- ✓ Benefit from the academic services of credentialed teachers, counselors and support staff
- ✓ Attend an OYA program at sites in San Jose or Gilroy
- ✓ Schedule academic appointments or "drop ins" to monitor their diploma completion status

Each student meets with an OYA teacher and counselor to develop an Individual Learning Plan.

- An OYA Liaison begins the registration process into the program, guides the student to the nearest OYA site, and encourages and motivates students as they become familiarized with the program.
- An OYA Counselor reviews school transcripts with the student to identify graduation requirements and set credit accrual goals.
- An OYA Navigator provides side-by-side support identifying barriers to the student's progress and securing needed resources to achieve success.
- An Employment Coach collaborates on a school-to-work/college plan and assists the student in identifying and applying for programs of interest.

Who should apply?

A Potential OYA Student

- ... wants to return to school and complete their high school diploma;
- ... wants to identify and explore possible college or career paths;
- ... is not currently enrolled in a school or educational program (including a charter school); and
- ... is willing to create short- and long-term goals towards completing education, as well as transition plans that may include attending community college, trade schools, CAL-Works, or CTE classes, or gaining employment.
