Fall 2017
CS 22A: Python Programming for Non-Majors (Section 2)

This course is an introduction to Python Programming. The course will cover the fundamental programming constructs and their applications in the analysis of biological and biomedical data. Section two is mainly for life science students interested in pursuing a Minor in Bioinformatics:

Prerequisite: This course is intended for students who have no prior programming experience. This course is not open to computer science majors or minors or software engineering majors.

Instructor: Sami Khuri   www.cs.sjsu.edu/faculty/khuri
Meetings: Tuesdays and Thursdays 3:00 – 4:15pm in MH 422.
Questions? Please email the instructor: sami.khuri@sjsu.edu or Professor Miri VanHoven: miri.vanhoven@sjsu.edu