TEACHING: Outstanding teaching is required. The successful candidate should demonstrate experience, understanding, and/or potential for excellence in teaching. Integration of teaching and research is expected. Candidates should infuse all courses with an international perspective.

RESEARCH: The successful candidate should have publications and/or strong potential for publications. The Department engages in applied economic research with local and statewide impact. Please review the Department website for an indication of the level and quantity of publications currently accomplished by tenure-track faculty.

Successful candidates are expected to have completed the Ph.D. in economics or a closely related field by August 2007. Teaching excellence, publication in refereed journals, and active university and community service are required for tenure and promotion.

Applicants should demonstrate a commitment to promoting global education, utilizing appropriate technologies, and interacting effectively with Silicon Valley communities. Applicants should have awareness of and sensitivity to the educational goals of a multicultural population as might have been gained in cross-cultural study, training, teaching and other comparable experience.

Responsibilities:

- Teaching assignment is 12 hours of classroom instruction per semester.
- Teaching and developing curriculum in their field and in introductory courses.
- Teaching and advising of graduates and undergraduates.
- Committee work at the department, college, and university level
- Service to the community through, for example, media interviews.

Candidate must address the needs of a student population of great diversity – in age, cultural background, ethnicity, primary language and academic preparation – through course materials, teaching strategies and advisement.

Salary Range: Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Starting Date: August 2007

Eligibility: Employment is contingent upon proof of eligibility to work in the United States.

Application

Procedures: For full consideration send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching interests/philosophy and research plans, and at least three original letters of reference with contact information by November 1, 2006 to:
