Reference assistance
Selection and purchase of materials to support the programs
Online subject guides for departments and specific classes

3. The Library facility

The Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Library is a result of collaboration between the San Jose State University and the San Jose Public Library.

The King Library is open to the San Jose community and university community until 9pm. However, during the semesters, SJSU faculty, students & staff have extended hours until midnight, Sundays through Thursdays and 24/7 during finals.

The University Library holds the only circulating state-adopted textbook collection in Northern California.

A benefit of the collaboration between the public and university libraries is that the King library has a Children's room, providing Education students and faculty the opportunity to review materials from pre-K – junior high. A teen center (YA) on the 3rd floor has materials appropriate to young adults. The Children's and YA offer an extensive in print books, ebooks and audio books that support children's literature research.

The University Library offers free scanners; laptops; and soon, iPads for use by faculty and students in the building.

The University Library is a federal and state government depository offering many materials and training for faculty and students.
