English 259 will address a broad range of topics having to do with the teaching of college writing—assignments, grades, theories of composition, ESL, Basic Writing, assessment, and more. Our primary shared work throughout the semester will be to read and discuss the essays reprinted in Cross-Talk in Composition Theory. You will also write a paper and give an oral presentation based on independent research. Finally, you will be expected to complete several smaller assignments as detailed below.

TEXTS

Recommended: Tina Lavonne Good and Leanne B. Warshauer, In Our Own Voice: Graduate Students Teach Writing. Allyn & Bacon.

PAPER
A hard copy of a seminar paper (target length 4000 words) is due the last day of class, December 9; we will discuss topics and expectations in class and office hours. Please use current Modern Language Association style. Except in extraordinary circumstances, late papers will be penalized as follows: papers that are one day to one week late will be marked down one full letter grade (e.g. B to C); beyond one week papers will not be accepted. Never assume that I will grant you an incomplete.

ORAL PRESENTATION
In connection with your research paper, you will make a presentation of approximately 20 minutes, to be followed by Q&A and class discussion. Further information and a schedule to be announced.

"LOCAL LANDSCAPE" REPORT
Working with another student, you will give one 20-minute introduction to some facet of the writing programs here at SJSU. Together these will give us an idea of how one large institution handles writing curricula, placement, testing, and minimum competencies.
PRACTICE TEACHING

I’ll ask you to teach two 10-15 minute segments suitable to a freshman writing course (not a graduate seminar). Details to be announced. The first will be ungraded; the second counts 10% toward the course grade.

OBSERVATIONS/REFLECTIONS

Please arrange to visit two composition classes this semester, at SJSU or elsewhere; one of these may be taught by a TA, but not both. As evidence that you have observed the classes and thought about them, please type up short, informal reflections on what you saw (target length 500 words). Please keep the names of the instructors you observe confidential. I will use “contract grading” for this assignment: for an A, complete two observation reports; for a B, do one; for an F, none.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

No form of academic dishonesty will be tolerated. Sanctions range from receiving an “F” on an assignment to permanent expulsion from the University. If you have any questions whatsoever about how to document any sources you use, see me. Keep a hard copy of your paper as well as all notes, rough drafts, computer files, and research materials for at least six months after the conclusion of the class. Here is the recommended greensheet statement from the Office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development: “Your own commitment to learning, as evidenced by your enrollment at San José State University, and the University’s Academic Integrity Policy require you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty are required to report all infractions to the Office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The policy on academic integrity can be found [online].”

SPECIAL NEEDS

Students who require accommodation for special needs (physical, learning disability, etc.) must personally contact the Accessible Education Center (formerly the DRC, Administration 110, ph. 924-6000). The Center can provide a variety of resources including note takers and sign interpreters. The Center approves all individual accommodations. Here is the Academic Senate’s greensheet statement on disabilities: “If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment to meet with me as soon as possible or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities register with the AEC to establish a record of their disability.”
