"I come from a family where gravy is considered a beverage."

— Erma Bombeck

Course Theme

“Food, glorious food,” extols the classic number from the musical Oliver!. Indeed, humans have long sung the virtues of food, endowing it with qualities ranging from religious to artistic to sexual. Clearly, we are a species that lives to eat. But while eating is something we need, and want, to do, it can also be a source of great anxiety. As food has become increasingly abundant and more readily available, many Americans have developed a love/hate relationship with it, resulting in epidemics of everything from obesity to eating disorders. With constant concerns about what and how much to eat—even “What should we have for dinner?” perplexes many on a daily basis—food is so complicated today that some now strive to simplify it once again. Still, one thing has not changed: food plays a vital part in how we function, and even define ourselves.

This fall’s 1B course will focus on food writing. We will explore the roles food plays in our society and attempt to decipher why, for better or for worse, we are a food-obsessed culture.

Course Description

English 1B is the second course in SJSU’s two-semester lower-division composition sequence. Beyond providing repeated practice in planning and executing essays, and broadening and deepening students’ understanding of the genres, audiences, and purposes of college writing, English 1B differs from English 1A in its emphasis on persuasive and critical writing (with less attention paid to the personal essay), its requirement for fewer but longer essays, and its requirement for writing informed by research. Students will develop sophistication in writing analytical, argumentative, and critical essays; a mature writing style appropriate to university discourse; reading abilities that will provide an adequate foundation for upper-division work; critical thinking skills; proficiency in basic library research skills and in writing papers informed by research; and mastery of the mechanics of writing.

Course Goals

Building on the college-level proficiencies required in English 1A, students shall achieve the ability to write complete essays that demonstrate advanced proficiency in all of the following:

- Clear and effective communication of meaning.
- An identifiable focus (argumentative essays will state their thesis clearly and will show an awareness, implied or stated, of some opposing point of view).
- Application of critical thinking skills.
- An appropriate voice that demonstrates an awareness of audience and purpose.
- Careful attention to review and revision.
- Effective and correct use of supporting materials, including independent research (e.g., quoting, paraphrasing, summarizing, and citing sources);
- Effective analysis, interpretation, evaluation, and synthesis of ideas encountered in multiple readings.
- Effective organization and development of ideas at paragraph and essay levels.
- Appropriate and effective sentence structure and diction.
- Command of conventional mechanics (e.g., punctuation, spelling, reference, agreement).

Student Learning Objectives (SLOs)

Students will demonstrate, orally and in writing, proficiency in the Area A3 Learning Outcomes. Students will be able to:

1. Locate and evaluate sources, through library research, and integrate research through appropriate citation and quotation.
2. Present effective arguments that use a full range of legitimate rhetorical and logical strategies to articulate and explain their positions on complex issues in dialogue with other points of view.
3. Effectively locate, interpret, evaluate, and synthesize evidence in a comprehensive way in support of one’s ideas.
4. Identify and critically evaluate the assumptions in and the context of an argument.
5. Effectively distinguish and convey inductive and deductive patterns as appropriate, sequencing arguments and evidence logically to draw valid conclusions and articulate related outcomes (implications and consequences).

The Everyday Writer and Writer’s Help 2.0 for Lunsford Handbooks (WHLH)
This year, we will utilize the new fifth edition of Andrea A. Lunsford’s The Everyday Writer with Exercises. Additionally, San José State University has paid for your four-year access to Writer’s Help 2.0 for Lunsford Handbooks (WHLH). This book will prove an invaluable reference in every other course that assigns writing or research. Log in instructions were emailed to you just before the start of the semester.

The Writing Center
The SJSU Writing Center is located in Clark Hall, Suite 126. All Writing Specialists have gone through a rigorous hiring process, and they are well trained to assist all students at all levels within all disciplines to become better writers. In addition to one-on-one tutoring services, the Writing Center also offers workshops every semester on a variety of writing topics. To make an appointment or to refer to the numerous online resources offered through the Writing Center, visit the Writing Center website @ http://www.sjsu.edu/writingcenter.

Class Protocols
- In an effort to make you a better editor of your own work, I will sometimes make sentence-level corrections to only one page or paragraph of your essay. You should assume that the corrections I’ve made are applicable to your entire essay.
- All writing assignments are due on the dates indicated on EauZone, which contains the most up-to-date schedule and information.
- In order to assist you in keeping track of your grade, I have provided you with a blank grading log. It can be found inside the chart under the “Course Work” section of this syllabus.
- I will not accept any assignments that are unstapled.
- Late assignments must be emailed to me no later than the following class after the due date. However, they will be lowered one letter grade—I will not accept an assignment beyond this point.
- Assignments submitted via email, will be graded as any other. However, no marked-up hard copy will be returned to you.
- Without prior notification, missed in-class essays and presentations cannot be made up. If you must miss your presentation date, make prior arrangements with a classmate to switch days.
- You will automatically be docked 5 points off your final draft grade for coming to class on a writers workshop day without an essay.
- There is a participation component to your grade. Though only 20 points, it could mean the difference between letter grades. To receive all or most of these points, it is important that you actively engage in the classroom experience (e.g. frequently asking questions and/or commenting). Simply attending class is not sufficient to garner full points, as they are based on active participation, not attendance.
- If extra-credit is offered, it will only be once, so please stay up-to-date on your assignments.
- The use of laptops during class is restricted to note taking only—absolutely no social media during class time.
- I consider it highly disrespectful to sleep in class. If you fall asleep in class, you will be awoken and asked to leave.
If you come to class after the first 15 minutes, please wait for an appropriate moment to enter so as not to disturb the class. Likewise, please do not pack up before our class time is over—I’ll be sure to get you out of class on time.

I am always happy to correspond via email. However, please:

- Please indicate your section number in the subject line or somewhere in the body. This helps me reply to your email more quickly.
- Email me individually rather than as a reply to a group message because I can easily miss these responses.
- Note that due to the high volume of email I receive daily, it may take me a day (or more) to respond.
- Do not message me to ask what happened in class on the day you were absent. As soon possible, obtain the email addresses of at least two other members of the class. They should be able to fill you in on any relevant information.
- Do not contact me if you miss class unless it affects an in-class essay or presentation.

MLA Style

As is standard in American English classes, all typed work must be submitted in MLA Style. Samples are located in both The Everyday Writer (p. 457) and online at EauZone. Again, unstapled work will never be accepted. Please follow this sample heading for all typed work:

EauZone

I maintain the EauZone (eauzone.blogspot.com) as a centralized location for assignments, reminders, documents, important dates, links, and general class information. It also contains an easy-to-reference archive of the course work. In addition, this website will be the location of the course’s eReader (eR). These Web articles are required to complete some assignments.

On the homepage, click on “English 1B: Eat Your Words” under “Fall 2014 Courses” to be routed to our page. Feel free to use the “Comments” function in each posting; it is often a helpful way to communicate with classmates.
Editing Marks Guide

Here is a guide to some of the editing symbols (some standard, some my own) you’ll be seeing on your papers this semester. Additionally, you will find the corresponding page in The Everyday Writer for many of the marks.

Grading Criteria

Grading: A-F. To take the Writing Skills Test and move on to upper-division coursework, students need a C or better in English 1B.

Essays will be graded by the following criteria:

- An “A” essay is organized and well-developed, demonstrating a clear understanding and fulfillment of the assignment, written in a unique and compelling voice. It will show the student’s ability to use language effectively with a solid command of grammar, mechanics, and usage.
- A “B” essay demonstrates competence in the same categories as an “A” essay, but it may show slight weakness in one of these areas. It will respond to the topic suitably and may contain some grammatical, mechanical or usage errors.
A “C” essay will complete the requirements of the assignment, but it will show weaknesses in fundamentals, such as development. It may show significant weakness in mastery of grammar, mechanics, usage, or voice.

A “D” essay will neglect to meet all the requirements of the assignment or may be superficial in its treatment of the topic. It may lack development or fail to stay on topic. It may contain grammatical, mechanical, and/or usage errors that interfere with reader comprehension.

An “F” essay does not fulfill the requirements of the assignment.

Course Work

Class sessions will employ a combination of lectures, group discussions, presentations, and writing workshops that will cover a range of activities, including analyzing, interpreting, outlining, revising, and editing. All typed essays are approximately three pages (750 words) and must be in MLA Style. Also, unless otherwise noted, all typed essays must always include a works cited page.
