Course Description

The lyric poem always walks the line speaking and singing. – Edward Hirsch

This semester’s workshop theme is “Singing School”: Lyric Poetry and Song Lyrics. Some poems rhyme and some song lyrics don’t (and vice versa). In this MFA-level poetry workshop, we will explore the links and blurred boundaries between lyric poetry and song lyrics (in pop, rock, jazz, and new classical genres). Students will create a portfolio containing at least eight new original poems, two of which are written as or could be converted into song lyrics. Students will also write weekly blog entries based on close readings of assigned poems and song lyrics (from print and online sources); in addition, students will be required to give two in-class presentations on examples from a poet’s or poet/songwriter’s work. We will practice close reading and evaluating published poems and lyrics in the workshop, in addition to critiquing class members’ original poems and lyrics. Students who are not enrolled in the MFA program should send samples of their poetry and/or song lyrics to the instructor to receive permission to enroll in the workshop.

Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives

Course Goals:

• Complete a portfolio consisting of a minimum of six finished (revised) original poems and two finished song lyrics—in any style or mode. In addition, write one song lyric in collaboration with another class member.
• Workshop peers’ poems and song lyrics on a weekly basis, finding ways to improve the work through critique and successive revisions.

- Write weekly blog entries close reading various traditional, modern, and postmodern poems, (composed in a variety of forms and styles) published in the Singing School anthology and referenced in other readings assigned each week for the workshop.
- Read and listen to/watch performances of songs assigned for the workshop, then comment about them in weekly blog entries.
- Give two multimedia in-class presentations, evaluating and analyzing texts of individual poems and/or songs (contained in the anthologies and playlists required for the workshop) through close readings; also share the texts and performances using the incubator classroom’s digital tools and the Canvas learning management system.

Learning Objectives:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

Course Methods and Activities:

The Digital Workshop

Poet Charles Bernstein writes, “Poetry is like a swoon, with this difference, / it brings you to your senses.” A good poetry workshop also brings poets to their senses—in a multiple ways. The kinds of close readings of our peers’ work we practice in the workshop makes us more aware of the nuances of diction, rhythm, music, image, rhetoric, and tone from which poems are constructed. And it heightens one’s awareness of what works and what doesn’t work in the text of the piece, based on understanding what the poem or lyric is seeking to do. The goal is to find out what readers/listeners are—and are not—responding to. And to understand how the text of the poem or lyric is—or could be better—crafted.

The workshop will be divided into three small groups that will rotate presenting their poems and lyrics in-class on a weekly basis (see calendar).

Small Groups: Group members will post early drafts of their work for other small group members’ comments using the workshop’s Small Group Workshop discussion board on the Canvas LMS. Posting new work on the Small Group discussion boards will be on going throughout the semester.
In-Class Workshops: When it’s your small group’s turn to be workshopped, post the poem or lyric you want to present on that upcoming week’s Workshop discussion board on the Canvas LMS. You should post your poem early in the week—by Wednesday if possible—to give your classmates time to closely read and comment on your work. If you post more than one poem, the instructor will select which one will be workshopped. (If time permits, a class member may have two short poems or workshopped the same week.) When your work is workshopped listen to the discussion without interrupting or being defensive. You should allow yourself to be open to suggestions for your poem, even if you’ll not act on them. Your purpose is to hear what you didn’t know about your poem, and to consider possibilities for revision you hadn’t thought of before the workshop critique. You will be given a few minutes at the end of the workshop segment on your poem to ask your questions.

Playlists: Are links to poems, song lyrics, song performances (audio and video), interviews, and panel discussions. These will be viewed and discussed very briefly in class, though not all will be included for in-class viewing. Many of the poems anthologized in Singing School will appear as links to online versions of the texts in the Playlists. You are urged to spend time outside of class looking at these links as they are chosen to be good models for your own work and to inspire you.

Blogging About Readings and Playlists
You are expected to write weekly blog posts, commenting on the poems and lyrics listed in the weekly reading assignments viewed in class on the Playlists. Close read a few lines or passages from each poem or lyric assigned. Explain which are your favorites. This blogging exercise is designed for you to practice the art of close reading and get in the habit of reading and thinking about poetry every day. The practice of reading will closely influence your writing practice. Writing poems is to be engaged in the larger conversation about poetry going on among poets all over the world. This conversation is often shared on the Internet.

Class members have a blog site created for them on Blogger:

In-Class Presentations
Each member is required to make two class presentations, enhanced by the digital tools available in the Incubator Classroom. The first presentation must be completed before Week 9. The second presentation must be completed by Week 13. Class members will select at least two poems or lyrics to close read for each presentation, contained in the course anthologies (Best of the Best American Poetry, The Third Rail or from other works on the required or recommended reading lists. Class members will sign up on the Canvas Presentation Calendar, listing what poems and/or song lyrics on which they will present.

Sign up at least two weeks in advance in order that all class members can read the poems in advance of the presentations. The instructor will work with each presenter to post links to these poems in the weekly activity pages on Canvas. Presenters can use Canvas, Blogger, YouTube, Power Point, and/or other digital tools to give their presentations. Contact the instructor after you sign-up to be sure the poems/songs you’ve chosen to present will work for the class.

To sign up, use the Canvas sign-up calendar. Sign up on as early as you possible, listing the poem(s) you will present.

A Note on Grades: In English Department courses, instructors will comment on and grade the quality of student writing as well as the quality of the ideas being conveyed. All student writing should be distinguished by correct grammar and punctuation, appropriate diction and syntax, and well-organized paragraphs (stanzas).

Grades given conform to the English Department and university grading policy. The Department of English is committed to the differential grading scale as defined in the official SJSU Catalog ("The Grading System"). Grades issued must represent a full range of student performance: A = excellent; B = above average; C = average; D = below average; F = failure.

A Note on Plagiarism: Any case of suspected plagiarism or academic dishonesty will be reported to the office of Graduate Studies for further investigation.

University Policies

Academic integrity

Avoiding Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of somebody else’s words or ideas and is considered an instance of academic dishonesty that instructors must report. Repeated instances of plagiarism will result in a student’s expulsion from the University. You commit plagiarism by:

1. Buying, stealing, or borrowing a paper or creative work;
2. Hiring someone to write a paper or creative work;
3. Building on someone’s ideas without providing a citation;
4. Or copying from another source or using a source too closely when paraphrasing.

In other words, submit only your own work. To learn how to cite sources accurately and forthrightly, consult your handbook.

Students should know that the University’s Academic Integrity Policy is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/download/judicial_affairs/Academic_Integrity_Policy_S07-2.pdf. Your own commitment to learning, as evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University and the University’s integrity policy, require you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The website for Student Conduct and Ethical Development is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/judicial_affairs/index.html.

Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person’s ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include in your assignment any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU’s Academic Policy F06-1 requires approval of instructors. The instructor reserves the right to revise the requirements and to notify students of such revision in a timely manner, e.g., "subject to change, announced at least one class meeting in advance."
Campus policy in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act

"If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities register with the DRC to establish a record of their disability."

Dropping and Adding

Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drops, academic renewal, etc. Information on add/drops are available at http://info.sjsu.edu/web-dbgen/narr/soc-fall/rec-324.html. Information about late drop is available at http://www.sjsu.edu/sac/advising/latedrops/policy/. Students should be aware of the current deadlines and penalties for adding and dropping classes.

More University Policies (You Should Know)

Estimation of Per-Unit Student Workload: Success in all courses is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical, and practical. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Recording policies: Common courtesy and professional behavior dictate that students obtain the instructor’s permission to make audio or video recordings in class. Such permission allows the recordings to be used for private, study purposes only. Course material developed by the instructor is the intellectual property of the instructor and cannot be shared publicly without his/her approval. Students may not publicly share or upload instructor generated material for this course such as exam questions, lecture notes, or homework solutions without instructor consent.
Student Technology Resources: Computer labs for student use are available in the Academic Success Center located on the 1st floor of Clark Hall and on the 2nd floor of the Student Union. Additional computer labs may be available in your department/college. Computers are also available in the Martin Luther King Library. A wide variety of audio-visual equipment is available for student checkout from Media Services located in IRC 112. These items include digital and VHS camcorders, VHS and Beta video players, 16 mm, slide, overhead, DVD, CD, and audiotape players, sound systems, wireless microphones, projection screens and monitors.

English Department Student Learning Goals

This course supports several of the English Department’s Student Learning Goals. The Department of English and Comparative Literature seeks to foster the intellectual development of its majors by encouraging study of literature and writing—whether creative, technical, or other professional writing. The Department strives to make its majors familiar with a wide range of works of British, American, and World literature, including folk and popular forms; and with the nature of the canon and of canon-formation, including issues of culture, history, race, ethnicity, gender, and sexual orientation.

Calendar of Readings (In the South Bay Region)
