Course Format

This is a Technology Intensive Course

For this class you will need internet access by means of desktop, laptop, tablet, smartphone, etc. Martin Luther King Jr. Public Library has access to computers on the 3rd and 4th floors. There are also computers available for student use in Clark Hall.

Course Description

The origins of current rhetorical traditions trace its roots back to hip-hop music. Adam Banks explains this position in his book Digital Griots, stating that “we live in and write in a ‘remix culture’...DJ Kool Herc, Afrika Bambaataa, and legions and lineages of other DJs… are responsible for the conceptual framework that forms our response to the challenges of digital, multimedia writing… For all of our academic affection for citing major theorists… in the Hip Hop tradition… lived theory and created writing practices… helped make postmodern conceptions of writing possible.”

English 1A is an introductory writing course that helps students understand the writing process and the goals, dynamics, and genres of written communication. Through interpretation and analysis of texts, students learn to think clearly and write effectively as they give form and coherence to complex ideas. Students practice these skills by writing for various audiences and rhetorical situations. This course will cover writing on several different platforms including both in academic and new media settings. Specifically, we will be examining different forms of writing and how one must adapt to the platform in terms of formality, professionality, and creativity. Our overarching goal is to write with authority and claim ownership over all of the projects in this class. This semester we will write, edit, revise, and reflect on our writing with the support of your teacher and peers. The course will be demanding and a portion of the readings will be dense. The texts we will be covering will be multimodal, ranging from hip-hop albums, to graphic novels, to formal academic papers. Multimodal, New Media, and Socio-cultural pedagogies challenge the way we think about the world and what it means to read. By studying different types of media through Multimodal practices, we will explore the different ways writing affects change in the world. In addition, through studying New Media, we will learn how to represent ourselves professionally and intellectually on online platforms in order to communicate through 21st century platforms. Finally, through Socio-cultural pedagogical practices, we will interpret these texts through our own personal lenses. The texts chosen speak authoritatively on several different subjects. We will be analyzing these texts and learning to write authoritatively through our own lived experiences.

Course Goals

1. To analyze and evaluate a variety of different kinds of writing
2. To learn how to write within word and content restraints
3. To understand the differences between a variety of audiences and platforms
4. To engage in productive discussions respectfully
5. To practice modes of academic inquiry
6. To gain a personal understanding of one’s own beliefs and identity in relation to the texts

GE Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Students shall achieve the ability to write complete essays that demonstrate college-level proficiency in all of the following:

1. read actively and rhetorically.
2. perform the essential steps in the writing process (prewriting, organizing, composing, revising, and editing) and demonstrate an awareness of said performance.
3. articulate an awareness of and write according to the rhetorical features of texts, such as purpose, audience, context, and rhetorical appeals.
4. integrate your ideas and those of others by explaining, analyzing, developing, and criticizing ideas effectively in several genres.
5. use college-level language with clarity and grammatical proficiency.

Prerequisite: Completion of Reflection on College Writing
Satisfies GE Area A2: Written Communication I (with a grade of C- or better)

Grading Policy

All work must be submitted on time. Any unexcused late work will be graded down a full letter grade for every day it is late. If there is a reason you cannot make a deadline, contact me BEFORE THE DEADLINE. You must turn in all assignments to pass the class. Course grades will be calculated using the following scale:

Participation

For a class like this one, much of the learning happens in class. Therefore, it is imperative that you be in class every day and participate in class activities and discussions. Class participation entails: (1) demonstrating that you’ve completed the readings/assignments, (2) contributing to class discussions, and (3) completing in-class assignments.

Please note: sometimes projects and class discussions will include material of a sensitive nature. In this course, students may encounter materials that differ from and perhaps challenge their understanding of reality, their ideas, and their beliefs. Students are encouraged to discuss issues that may arise from such material with the instructor.

Please ALSO note: If you have special needs or accommodations requests, see me as soon as possible. Failure to do so may result in your forfeiture of the accommodations you may deserve. Feel free to talk to be about any concerns.

Classroom Protocol
Please show up on time and ready to participate in class. Attendance is essential to the course as we will be doing many in-class activities. Laptops, tablets, and other smart devices will be encouraged in class, as much of our work will utilize the internet. However, I do not want them to be a distraction. If your devices become a distraction to other students, I will request that you put them away and look on with a classmate. There will be times in class when devices are necessary and times when they are not. Sensitive language, such as the n-word, or other derogatory language, will be discussed in class. The use of these derogatory terms shall only be used in context while quoting lyrics. Any other use of these words is unacceptable.
