Course Description

Many key works of twentieth-century American literature seem to straddle the border between a short story collection and a novel. Writers such as Jean Toomer, Louise Erdrich, and Sandra Cisneros have used genre-bending styles to represent ethnic American communities and experiences. This course will explore both the impact of ethnic Americans in shaping the genres between short story collections and novels and the impact of these boundary-defying genres on ethnic American literature. It will be a semester-long examination of the interrelationship of form and content. While we will discuss the various definitions of these forms, the emphasis of the class will be on exploring the aesthetic and political uses of a variety of American authors’ choices, rather than on determining set genre definitions.

Student Learning Outcomes and Course Goals

This course will engage four of the five learning outcomes for the MA program:
1. Students will demonstrate an appropriate level of expertise in literary history, literary theory, and rhetoric.
2. Students will demonstrate high-level proficiency in literary research and in the synthesis of research.
3. Students will demonstrate critical and analytical skills in the interpretation and evaluation of literary texts.
4. Students will demonstrate a command of written academic English, including the abilities to a) organize and present material in a cogent fashion, b) formulate and defend original arguments, c) employ effectively the language of their discipline and d) write under time constraints.

and three of the six learning outcomes for the MFA program:
3. Students will demonstrate an appropriate level of knowledge of literary history, literary theory, and craft and theory of creative writing.
4. Students will demonstrate critical and analytical skills in the evaluation and interpretation of literary texts.
5. Students will demonstrate a command of written academic English, including the abilities to: a) organize and present material in a cogent fashion; b) formulate and defend original arguments; c) employ effectively the language of their discipline; d) write under time constraints.

Course Learning Outcomes for English 254:
Upon successful completion of this course, students will 254 CLO 1: acquire a deeper (if still introductory) understanding of American literature, ethnic American literature, and how form has shaped American literary culture and history as a whole. (see MA PLO 1 and MFA PLO 2)
254 CLO 2: be able to demonstrate the ability to evaluate sources and perform professional level research in support of their analyses of literary text (see MA PLO 2 & 3 and MFA PLO 3)
254 CLO 3: demonstrate critical and analytical skills in the evaluation and interpretation of American literary texts (see MA PLO 3 & MFA PLO 4)
254 CLO 4: demonstrate a command of written academic English, including the abilities to: a) organize and present material in a cogent fashion; b) formulate and defend original arguments; c) employ effectively the language of their discipline. (Verbatim from MA PLO #4 & MFA PLO 5)
CLO 1 will be acquired via the reading assignments and class participation, while CLO’s 2-4 will be acquired and demonstrated through each and every one of the written course assignments.

Grading is based on A [90-92=A-, 93-96=A, 97-100=A+] = Excellent: The "A" essay is articulate and well developed with fluid transitions and a clear and persuasive use of evidence, which is drawn from the literary text itself, lecture materials (when appropriate), and research materials. An "A" essay contains a fresh insight which teaches the reader something new about the subject matter.

B [80-82=B-, 83-86=B, 87-89=B+] Above average: The "B" essay demonstrates a good understanding of its subject, a clear and persuasive use of evidence, a certain level of ease of expression, and solid organization. However, it usually lacks the level of originality and creativity that characterizes the insight found in an "A" essay.

C [70-72=C-, 73-76=C, 77-79=C+] = Average: The "C" essay makes a good attempt at all the assignment's requirements. It has a reasonable understanding of its subject matter but its ideas are frequently simplistic or over-generalized. The writing style is also more bland and repetitive than the style shown by "A" and "B" essays and it often contains flaws in grammar, punctuation, spelling and/or word choice. It may also use textual evidence out of context.

Please note that graduate students have to a have 3.0 GPA or better to obtain their degree.

The following statement has been adopted by the Department of English for inclusion in all syllabi:
In English Department Courses, instructors will comment on and grade the quality of student writing as well as the quality of ideas being conveyed. All student writing should be distinguished by correct grammar and punctuation, appropriate diction and syntax, and well-organized paragraphs.

The Department of English reaffirms its commitment to the differential grading scale as defined by the SJSU Catalog (“Grades-Letter Grading”). Grades issued must represent a full range of student performance: A+/A/A- = excellent; B+/B/B- = above average; C+/C/C- = average; D+/D/D- = below average; F = failure. Within any of the letter grade ranges (e.g. B+/B/B-). The assignment of a + or – grade will reflect stronger (+) or weaker (-) completion of the goals of the assignment.

Late Penalties and Extension Policy
As long as you give me the request in writing (complete with a new deadline) before the assignment's due date, most requests for an extension will be granted. If the original deadline is passed by a student who has not received an extension or an extended deadline has been passed, 10% of the total points possible will be taken off for lateness. If the original or extended deadline is passed by 14 calendar days, the assignment will not be accepted. Please note that anything which receives an extension (or is simply late) will not be graded and returned to its author until after all of the papers for that assignment which were turned in on time are graded.

Library Liaison
Contact Toby Matoush via email: Toby.Matoush@sjsu.edu, or phone: (408) 808-2096 if you have library research questions that have not been answered in class.

Classroom Protocol
Students are expected to arrive on time with at least one question on that day’s reading written out. As it is a seminar, students will be expected to be fully engaged in class discussion. The student’s role will be as a participant, not as an observer. Unless instructed otherwise, please turn cell phones and internet connections off during class. In English 254, in addition to literary genre, we will be discussing some very controversial subjects such as race and religion. Please keep in mind the necessity of the academic classroom to be a safe, civil and comfortable space for open discussion when interacting with your classmates or the instructor.

University Credit Hour Requirement Policy
“Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.”

Final Examination or Evaluation
Please note that we will meet during finals week for the second half of our presentations. This is a required meeting.

University Policies
Per University Policy S16-9, university-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. will be available on Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs’ Syllabus Information web page at http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/’
