

ESSAY 2: VISUAL NETWORKS

Second Draft

Due: Tues, 10/18

Reading: Read Hacker, Sections S6b, S7, W2, W4

Second Draft (Introduction & Conclusion):

You have now put together a first rough draft. And, you have already begun to receive feedback from your peer review partner regarding organization of your ideas and validity of the argument in your thesis statement. For the second rough draft, add an introduction and a conclusion.

For your introduction, include the thesis statement and any general information that you would like your reader to know. Make sure you explain connections between ideas in this introduction. Also, please remember that your title and the introduction act as a “contract with the reader,” which introduces them to your topic and argument.

For your conclusion, avoid summarizing your essay. (This is unnecessary because your reader has already read through your essay.) Instead, in your conclusion, try to make your reader think about your topic in a different way. Think about the conclusion as a starting point where your reader will be inspired to continue researching or thinking about your ideas.

For Thursday, bring two copies of only your Introduction and Conclusion.
