GLOBAL SKILLS SEMINAR FOR SJSU ALUMNI

Developing Global Leadership in Yourself and Others

Are your leadership skills as global as they need to be in today's workplace?

Business surveys consistently report that companies have a scarcity of current and future global leaders who are capable of dealing with the complexity they face in the global environment. SJSU's College of Business was one of the first to respond to this need by creating the innovative Global Leadership Advancement Center and its unique assessment center, the GLLab. We partnered with world-renowned experts to design the GLLab learning experience which includes highly effective assessments, simulations, and extensive feedback. The GLLab has educated over 550 students from SJSU and foreign universities since its inception in 2008, earning top evaluations from them. By popular demand, GLAC is delighted to offer the GLLab experience to SJSU Alumni.

This interactive and engaging seminar is designed to make you more competitive in the global talent pool by teaching you how to:

- Assess your global competencies
- Become an expert global leader
- Communicate effectively across cultures and with multicultural teams
- Develop global leadership expertise in yourself and others

Dr. Joyce Osland, Seminar Instructor

is the Lucas Endowed Professor of Global Leadership and Executive Director of the innovative Global Leadership Advancement Center (GLAC) at San Jose State University. She is a prolific scholar who specializes in global leadership development. Dr. Osland has received numerous awards for teaching, research and career achievement. She is a consultant and trainer for global companies and a senior partner in the Kozai Group.

SEMINAR FEEDBACK

"What makes this [seminar] so great and unique is that you will learn more about yourself than you can imagine."

-Francisco M.

"The activities in this [seminar] provided unique insights into how people work as a team to solve global problems. It was one of the best opportunities I've had to observe a variety of decision making and leadership skills in action."

-Vilas V.

"I learned a lot about intercultural awareness through the simulations, and about organizational, global interdependencies and the necessary communication tactics for dealing with them effectively. The day flew by."

-Steve H.

"I really had a great time in the GLLab and am thankful I got the chance to participate. I benefited from the knowledge I gained, both for my studies and for life in general."

-German Exchange Student
