COURSE DESCRIPTION

History of legal issues and definitions of individual and institutional discrimination. Laws relating to women, ethnic and cultural minorities, gays and lesbians and the disabled in education, labor market, criminal justice system and family relations. Recent court decisions on affirmative action and reverse discrimination. Solutions explored for structured equality and inequality in the U.S.

Note 1: This syllabus has been prepared with the kind assistance of Prof. Ann Lucas. Students should anticipate that, as this course progresses, there will be announcements of minor variations from this syllabus in the order of readings, dates, or other specifics. Students should expect supplemental reading assignments.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the time of the final exam, students should be able to:

1. Define concepts of different cultural/social identities and theories of prejudice and discrimination from a multidisciplinary and multicultural perspective.

2. Describe the legal history and current legal context of minority group and gender discrimination.

3. Identify the structural sources of inequality and equality in major societal institutions; family, education, labor market, criminal justice, and religion, and how these inequalities and equalities are reflected in the law.

4. Analyze case law and constitutional guidelines in reviewing claims of discrimination by women and men, by racial/ethnic and religious minority groups, by the aged, the disabled, and by persons of different sexual orientation.

5. Analyze competing legal rights of men and women in domestic relations including marriage, reproduction, adoption, child custody and divorce.

6. Analyze legal and social developments in issues relating to sexual harassment, hate crimes, and affirmative action/reverse discrimination.

7. Identify social and political movements offering solutions to structured inequality between people of different race, ethnicity, gender, class, religion, age, sexual orientation and ability.

8. Recognize one’s own and others’ attitudes towards racism, sexism and discrimination of all groups.

9. Recognize and appreciate constructive interactions between people from different cultural and social groups and identities in the U.S.

10. Gain greater competence in research and writing skills.
11. Gain greater verbal articulation skills, and ability to communicate with people of different background and identities.

REQUIRED TEXTS

CLASS REQUIREMENTS

Because this is an advanced GE course, a total of 3500 words of writing is required for credit in the class. Three exams are required; two midterms and final administered in class during the final examination period. Each exam will consist of essay and/or short answer questions. A research paper 8-10 pages in length (2000-2500) words is also required for a total of 3500 or more words. A handout on the paper will be provided outlining topics, research requirements, APA format, outlines, due date and grading procedures. The professor will provide feedback on research paper drafts that are submitted at least two weeks before the term paper’s due date. Small-group discussions will be scheduled every couple of weeks and participation in the group will be evaluated by the instructor.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION

Regular class attendance is expected. Outstanding class participation may result in the improvement of the final grade by as much as 1/2 grade point. Assigned readings must be completed prior to the class meeting to promote understanding and informed class discussion. Students must bring the appropriate textbook to class. Check the greensheet to ensure you are prepared. If you are absent, you must rely on classmates for notes. Do not ask the instructor for notes. Missed exams and in-class assignments may only be made up for compelling reasons, at the discretion of the instructor. The instructor should be given prior notice of absence.
