COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course is an advanced criminal law and correction course with the purpose of more closely examining the criminal justice material provided in introductory courses on criminal justice. The goal of this course is to give the student with a professional career objective in law enforcement or related fields a more comprehensive familiarity with crime, victims of crime, criminal defendants and corrections. While every effort has been made to avoid repetition of material presented in introductory classes, there will be a limited review of the fundamental characteristics of criminal law. The focus in this class will be on California criminal laws, with special emphasis on the laws affecting domestic violence, sexual crimes, homicides, insanity defense and sentencing in California. The determinative sentencing laws and the more recent indeterminate sentencing in the form of the three-strikes and one-strike laws will be thoroughly discussed. Probation and parole standards and policies will be examined.

REQUIRED READING

Required text: None. Reading will include statutes, cases and articles available on the internet. In the early sessions, the additional material will be accessible by hyperlink from the course schedule on line, or by typing the provided web addresses into a connected computer. In later sessions the student should be able to find the material on his or her own. World Wide Web access is a requirement of the course. All documentation and assignments will be posted on the World Wide Web at http://www.danpeak.com/JS111.html, so students should check there regularly.

GRADING

Student’s mastery of the material will be evaluated through observation of the student’s class participation and execution of in-class quizzes and assignments in addition to the student’s performance on a midterm and final examination. There will be several, short, unannounced writing assignments in class related to the reading for that week. These are commonly called “pop” quizzes. Students should attend all meetings of their classes, not only because they are responsible for material discussed therein, but also because active participation is frequently essential to insure maximum benefit for all members of the class. Attendance per se shall not be used as a criterion for grading, but the results of unannounced “pop” quizzes will be included in the final grade.

The assignments will include a short paper on a criminal law or corrections topic of the student’s choice. The student will be expected to make an oral presentation of his or her paper to the class. Communication: Students should not hesitate to contact me by telephone at the above provided number or drop by the office at any time. Email communications are encouraged.

Course Grade: All assignments are graded ABCDF. The final grade will be based on a weighted average of the assignments and test grades. Please note that University and Departmental guidelines require a serious and compelling reason to drop a course. A course cannot be dropped because of grades alone.

If you need course adaptation or accommodations because of a disability, or if you have emergency medical information to share with me, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please see me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities register with the Disability Resource Center to establish a record of their disability (924-6000).
