Course Description
From Catalog: “This course is a lower division introduction to the history of human rights as a concept and body of international law, and to the complicated role of human rights in contemporary social justice campaigns.”

The class seeks to answer these questions: Who are the thinkers and philosophers who cultivated the theories of human rights? What events, actors and instruments of human rights were created over the decades? What were the most egregious violations of human rights, why did they happen, and who were the instigators and what were their instigating philosophies? What was the world’s response in indoctrinating human rights after these atrocities and genocides? How did human rights develop in the U.S.? How were the League of Nations and United Nations created? What is the impact of the United Nations and other international bodies like the World Health Organization? How have international criminal courts worked in preserving human rights? How is U.S. immigration policy, and the treatment of people of color, particularly African Americans, seen through a human rights lens? How have the Trump administration and previous U.S. presidents treated human rights and the United Nations? How are human rights handled in the world today? How should first-world countries balance their needs for security and assure international human rights at the same time? What motivates developing countries to adhere to human rights? What is the outcome of the theory of human rights and its clash with how it works in practice? What should be done in the future to safeguard human rights? What are the weekly and daily events that challenge and shape human rights today?

12. CLO7: Appraise how human rights violations of the past have led to a crisis of human rights in today’s most violent societies.
13. CLO8: Explore the motives for human rights violations and the psychological impact violations not only have on oppressors but also their victims.
14. CLO9: Feel what it’s like to examine an issue and derive a plan of action to address a human rights violation or problem.

Required Texts/Readings

Textbook
Carlos, John, Zirin, Dave, The John Carlos Story
Steinbeck, John, The Moon is Down

Other Readings
Will be assigned on Canvas.
Course Requirements and Assignments

1. Students will form groups and each week a different group will address the human rights situations in the U.S. and throughout the world by reviewing the top international, national and local news stories of that week. In the process the group will apply a concept we’ve learned in class to the news events.
2. Class participation will be graded and will be based upon group presentations and participation in class.
   The grade will be largely based on questions and comments to your fellow students as they present on the news of the week. Don’t leave your fellow students hanging!
3. Student groups will create posters for the ISSSC research fair by reading The John Carlos Story and applying what they’ve learned in class to the project.
4. A midterm will include multiple choice and short answer questions and be derived from lectures, films, readings and student presentations.
5. Students will again form groups and create a plan of action around a human rights issue. The group will research organizations and individuals who are spreading awareness or leading resistance to a specific violation of human rights. Students will then create flyers and distribute them around campus. The group will then present to the class the issue they have chosen, the action they decided to take, and the reaction they received from distributing the flyers.
6. The final will consist of a multiple-choice exam based on lectures, films, and student and instructor presentations. The final will also include an in depth exploration of a human rights issue or concept studied in class. Final projects could be research papers, slide presentations, screen plays, works of art, one-act plays, cell-phone videos, interviews, book, film, or lecture reviews. If you decide to do something creative, make sure it’s approved by me. The final will be graded on the effort and mastery of your particular project.

Justice Studies Reading and Writing Philosophy: The Department of Justice Studies is committed to scholarly excellence. Therefore, the Department promotes academic, critical, and creative engagement with language throughout its curriculum. A sustained and intensive exploration of language prepares students to think critically and to act meaningfully in interrelated areas of their lives—personal, professional, economic, social, political, ethical, and cultural. Graduates of the Department of Justice Studies leave San José State University prepared to enter a range of careers and for advanced study in a variety of fields; they are prepared to more effectively identify and ameliorate injustice in their personal, professional and civic lives. Indeed, the impact of literacy is evident not only within the span of a specific course, semester, or academic program but also over the span of a lifetime.

University Policies Per University Policy S16-9: University-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. will be available on Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs’ Syllabus Information web page at http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/”

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability (e.g. additional time on the quizzes), please contact me as soon as possible. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities requesting accommodations must register with the SJSU Accessible Education Center (AEC) to establish a record of their disability. You will need to email me a copy of your AEC form so that I can provide you with the appropriate accommodations. Academic Integrity Students should know that the University’s Code of Student Conduct which can be found at http://www.sjsu.edu/studentconduct/docs/Student%20Conduct%20Code%202013.pdf. Your own commitment to learning, as evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University and the University’s integrity policy, require you to be honest in all your academic course work.
