in the CROSS-CULTURE STUDIES IN MEXICAN AND AMERICAN EDUCATION MAJOR

In California's public school classrooms, Hispanics currently out-number Caucasians and are expected to form the majority – over half of all students - by the 2009-2010 school year. If your goal is working with children in California as a teacher, social worker, counselor or through a nonprofit, the CCSE major is for you!

This major provides undergraduates with opportunities to:

- Improve Spanish Language Skills
- Study in California Classrooms
- Study Abroad in Mexican Public and Private School Classrooms
- Develop a greater awareness of the values, attitudes, behaviors, and cultural, ethnic, linguistic, and economic backgrounds of students in California and Mexico

CCSE is an interdisciplinary major providing future education professionals and scholars with multi-disciplinary and cross-cultural program of study in education and society.
