You will need to access Canvas to check updates, read additional materials, and submit most of the assignments. You are responsible for regularly checking Canvas and the messaging system through MySJSU at <http://my.sjsu.edu> (or other communication system as indicated by the instructor) to learn of any updates.

Course Description

SJSU Catalogue text: Theoretical foundations of literacies; strategies and approaches to teaching academic reading and writing to culturally and linguistically diverse classes in college and other postsecondary contexts.

Instructor's description: This course will help students prepare to teach college level academic reading and writing courses to diverse audiences in both the US and international contexts. While the main focus will be on teaching English reading/writing, students may also gain knowledge and skills for teaching reading/writing in other languages.

Course Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. articulate a role for themselves as teachers of reading/writing, including specific reflection on power relations in the teaching context;
2. identify how students' backgrounds, institutional policies, and the larger social context intersect and affect the reading/writing classroom;
3. describe and critique different approaches to teaching reading and writing at the college level (e.g., product, process, genre, etc.);
4. explain the theoretical bases for the different approaches;
5. assess student needs in a real (or hypothetical) reading/writing class;
6. evaluate materials for teaching reading/writing;
7. describe strategies they would use in teaching a particular reading/writing class.

- Other late assignments will be assessed a 10% penalty for each day late. No assignments will be accepted more than 7 days after the due date. No assignments due on the final exam date (12/14) will be accepted late.

Library Liaison

Toby Matoush is the SJSU library liaison for linguistics. You can reach her by email (toby.matoush@sjsu.edu) for any questions you may have regarding research and library resources.

Department Policy on Professional Behavior in Field Experiences or Internships

Students in the LLD and Linguistics programs often are required to complete field experiences as part of their course assignments. Such field experiences may include, but are not limited to, observations, interviews, language data collection, and student teaching. When they carry out these tasks, students play an important role in the community because they represent not only themselves, but also the University. Thus, they are expected to behave in a professional manner in all interactions with language informants, interviewees, teachers whom they observe, teachers in whose classes they do their practice teaching, ESL students whom they observe or teach, program coordinators or supervisors, and other people with whom they have professional interactions in the community. Behaving in a professional manner includes treating people with respect and dignity, being on time and well organized, following through on commitments, communicating to others clearly, and refraining from any activities, comments, or jokes that could be construed as sexually harassing, racist, ethnocentric, or in any way culturally insensitive.
