SCOPE OF THE COURSE. State governments are a unique segment of the United States’ organization of governments. The framers of the Constitution of the United States intentionally reserved substantial powers to the states --- in essence, those powers not enumerated as powers of the federal government. State governments function as both delivery systems for federal programs, and as independent entities with their own constitutions and duties.

The State of California is particularly unique amongst the states of the union. First, it is the largest in terms of population, and it is so by a very large margin. Second, it is growing fast, growing in diversity, and may or may not be ready for the challenges of the 21st century.

This course is intended to provide the student with a more than basic understanding of the governmental structures and politics that constitute recent, current and near term future functions, challenges, strengths and weaknesses of California.

Because this course is offered once each week, for nearly three hours, the class structure will be a bit different than some other classes. Usually, the classroom activities will consist of discussion of the previous week’s reading assignment(s), lecture, and a substantial amount of discussion amongst and between the instructor and students.

INSTRUCTOR

The instructor is a 1974 graduate of San Jose State University.

Mr. Keeley served three terms (maximum number of terms permitted under California’s term limits law) in the California State Assembly representing the Monterey Bay area. He was Speaker pro Tempore of the Assembly, the highest ranking member of the Speaker’s leadership team, under three Speakers. He is recognized for his work during the California energy crisis; hearings that led to the resignation of then-Insurance Commissioner Chuck Quackenbush; and, for his authorship of the Marine Life Management Act, the California Ocean Science Trust Act, and the two largest park and environmental protection bonds in the nation’s history ($4.7 billion). Mr. Keeley also served two four-year terms on the Santa Cruz County Board of Supervisors. Mr. Keeley served for ten years as the elected county Treasurer of the County of Santa Cruz.
Mr. Keeley has served governors of California and other state constitutional officers, on a special project basis. Such projects include serving jointly with the Secretary of State to investigate ethical issues at the state Department of Conservation, Division of Oil and Gas Regulations; as co-chair of the state Treasurer’s Task Force on Public Bond Accountability; and, the Governor’s Task Force on the 21st Century Economy.

Mr. Keeley is on the board of directors of: the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary Foundation; Sempervirens Fund; the Community Foundation of Santa Cruz County; and, Working Partnerships USA.

Mr. Keeley is on faculty at the Panetta Institute for Public Policy at CSUMB. The Panetta Institute was founded and is led by former CIA director and Secretary of Defense Leon Panetta.

Mr. Keeley has, on a consulting basis, served as the ethics consultant for the City of Torrance, California and the City of Santa Clara, California.

Mr. Keeley lives in Santa Cruz, California.

REQUIRED READINGS

Gerston and Christensen, California Politics and Government, Weekly reading and research assignments, mostly of periodicals (newspapers, journals, magazines, blogs).

ATTENDANCE

While attendance cannot be required, it is strongly encouraged because a substantial portion of the course grade will be based on student participation in class, and written assignments in class.

WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS

There will be six written assignments (three in-class, three to be turned in at the beginning of class), in addition to a mid-term examination and a final examination. The three in-class written assignments will be required to be completed before the end of those classes (see schedule for those assignments), and will be assigned at approximately the one-quarter mark in the semester, the three-quarter mark in the semester, and at another time of the instructor’s choosing. These in-class written assignments will be no longer than two pages, and will ask the student to use what they have learned in class, up to that point, to pose a solution to a state governmental problem, from the point of view of any of several parties involved in the problem or issue. The other three written assignments are set forth in the schedule of the class, and will be due at the beginning of the designated date of class. These three written assignments will be either two or three pages in length. Written assignments that are submitted late will be given an automatic 50% value reduction, unless such lateness is caused by a validated medical condition that prevented submission of the assignment in a timely fashion.

EXAMINATIONS

There will be two examinations in this course: A Mid-Term Examination; and, a Final Examination. Both examinations are required for satisfactory completion of the course. Both examinations will be essay format. The student is required to provide a Blue Book and sufficient writing instruments for each examination (or electronic capability to complete and send the assignment via email).

The examinations will provide the student with a sample situation involving an issue of state government, and ask the student to write a paper that displays knowledge of the roles of various participants in the situation, and a possible solution. Both examinations will be in Blue Book format (or electronic email format).

Examinations cannot be submitted on any date other than that established in the course schedule, with the single exception of a validated medical condition that prevented the student from completing the examination in a timely fashion.

ACCOMODATION

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities register with DRC to establish a record of their disability.
