Re: Travel Fund for Students Presenting at Conferences

The Psychology Research Committee has allocated up to ten (10) travel scholarships of $500 each for students who are first-author presenters of papers or posters at professional association meetings during the current academic year.

Students should use this form to apply. If you have more than one student who qualifies, additional forms may be submitted. However, no more than one student can receive funding for a particular project. If there are more applicants than funds, the Research Committee will make the selections.
