Course Description:
"Analyze meanings and practices of human rights violations and promotion by exploring the social consequences of issues such as war crime, sexism, migrant rights, and social displacement and by reflecting on prevailing and alternative institutions for social justice" (SJSU course catalog).

This course is designed for students to explore questions such as:
How has the concept of "human rights" evolved?
How are human rights defined through international law?
Who gets to decide what these rights are and how they are realized?
How have people struggled to define and realize fundamental rights and/or dignity for human and non-human animals? To what effects?
How does a discourse of fundamental "right" and/or “dignity” affect the way we understand, articulate, and respond to various social problems?
How do struggles and dialogs over human rights shape culture, policy, and social activism in our local communities?
Most importantly: How can we apply the long history of human rights struggles and scholarship to address social problems and human right abuses in our local and global communities?

Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives:

Course Learning Objectives (CLOs)

Upon successful completion of this course students should be able to:

- (CLO1) Recognize and access human rights instruments defining “human rights” according to international law (such as the Universal Declaration of Human Rights [UDHR]) via online and library resources.
- (CLO2) Recognize and access the reports of central oversight agencies, such as Amnesty International [AI] and Human Rights Watch [HRW], that report on human rights abuses to the United Nations and global populace via online and library resources.
- (CLO3) Compare and contrast “universal” and “relativist” approaches to human rights. This will require students to recognize the unique nuances of “Western,” “non-Western,” and indigenous concepts of fundamental right and dignity. This also requires students to identify the historical context of human rights and human rights concepts as they have developed.
- (CLO4) Compare and contrast how “rights” and “dignity” have been defined for human and non-human animals by various cultures throughout the world.
- (CLO5) Apply a human rights discourse to analyze social problems, policies, and practices in the US—particularly in the SF Bay Area.

Suggested, Related Readings and Resources for Further Reference and Research:

General Works On the Philosophy, Sociology, and History of HR:

Human Rights Documents and Reporting (International Law):

- Amnesty International: More information on Amnesty International can be found at: http://www.amnesty.org.

General Works on Environmental and “Non-Human Animal” Rights:

Library Liaison:

For help with library resources and library research (including the use of databases and online research materials—such as journal search engines), students are strongly encouraged to contact the Sociology Subject Librarian: Kathryn Blackmer Reyes, Kathryn.BlackmerReyes@SJSU.edu.

Classroom Protocol:

1. This course depends on participation and interaction. Students are expected to be on time to class out of respect for your colleagues and instructor.
2. All classroom participants are expected to foster an environment that encourages participation, rather than silencing others (be respectful to one another, do not insult or intimidate others, and so forth).

3. Students are expected to complete all readings and assignments by the dates indicated on the syllabus.

4. Students are responsible for any and all notes and materials missed in their absence.

5. Cell phone, PDA, and Laptop/Internet use will not be tolerated during class time unless they are part of class activities or necessary to field an emergency.

Adding and Dropping:

Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drops, academic renewal, and so forth. http://www.sjsu.edu/gape/

Students should be aware of the current deadlines and penalties for adding and dropping classes.

Assignments and Grading Policy:

Readings

Students are expected to complete readings by the class session indicated on the course schedule. Students should come to class prepared to discuss the assigned readings such that class time is not wasted, and we can engage the material together. Though readings are not a graded assignment per se, the final exam will certainly focus on students’ ability to recall, understand, and integrate readings in their responses. Substantively, the readings in this course are designed to expose students to international and domestic tensions and perspectives on how fundamental rights and dignity for human and non-human animals might be defined and realized. Readings are intentionally designed to represent the culturally and politically diverse field from which discussions of fundamental rights and dignity emerge.

In Class Essays

Purpose: On assigned days (see course schedule), students will be required to write (approximately 20 mins.) responses to a given prompt or question assigned by the instructor that day. Students, having properly prepared for class (completing assigned readings and films), will demonstrate their ability to critically reflect on course material and its relevance through these assignments. Though students will not be expected to provide citations (they should freewrite), written work is expected to be clear (make sense) and legible. In-Class Essays cannot be “made-up” in any instance, for any reason. Exceptions will only be made for extreme circumstances (such as serious prolonged illness)—these cases should be presented to the instructor immediately.
Grading: Essays will be graded on a 10-point scale. These assignments will be evaluated on content, clarity, thoroughness, and the extent to which students can articulate the relevance of the subject matter under examination. All essays will be returned with written comments, in part to help on future essays and the final exam. In-Class Essays will be worth 60% of the final course grade.

Extra Credit
Students can speak to the instructor at any time to arrange appropriate extra credit work. Extra credit assignments will typically involve a written analysis of some sort, but students are encouraged to be creative and propose their own ideas.

Final Exam
There is no mid-term exam for this course, where In-Class Essays and classroom activity will serve as evaluative substitutes. The final will be a take home exam. We will discuss the expectations and parameters for the final exam in class. Students are encouraged to complete and take notes on class readings and classroom activities for use on the final. In general, the final exam will require students to recall and apply human rights discourse and instruments to analyze contemporary social problems (domestic and international). Students should expect the final to cover all significant class readings and activities, including films, lectures, class activities and so forth. The final exam will count for 40% of the final course grade.

The website for Student Conduct and Ethical Development is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/judicial_affairs/index.html.

Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person’s ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include in your assignment any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU’s Academic Policy F06-1 requires approval of instructors.

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act:

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities requesting accommodations must register with the DRC (Disability Resource Center) to establish a record of their disability.
