Course Description: Field-based course to measure competency in a special education setting.

Knowledge Base
All student teaching placements involve child-, family-, team-, interagency-, transition-, or inclusion-related services. Involvement in family-related services provides students with the opportunity for working with family members as partners in planning and implementing intervention services by listening reflectively, questioning effectively, analyzing feelings and content, and integrating information. Students also are involved in situations which allow them to use strategies that promote social interactions between parents and their children. The goal of child-related services is to allow students to demonstrate that they are capable of encouraging young children to develop cognitive, social, and effective skills in home, self-contained, and inclusive programs. Students are responsible for collecting naturalistic and formal data on young children and for completing child and family developmental assessments. Additionally, students design learning environments and implement strategies that encourage social engagement and interaction. Early interventionists must have an understanding of the instructional and clinical opportunities related to the health care disciplines that are offered to a family with a young child with disabilities (e.g. Speech and Language Pathology, Occupational Therapy, & Physical Therapy). Team-related services allow students to experience and to integrate the knowledge and recommendations of multiple disciplines into the daily routine of the child and family. Early interventionists are asked frequently to act as, or to assist parents in becoming, advocates for the services that young children with disabilities need. Through the interagency-related services, students become familiar with the community programs that are available for families and develop well-blended intervention plans. A family with a young child who is disabled continually experiences transitions from one situation to another. Some families are required to quickly transition from being a “typical” family to being a “special” family when they discover that their child is disabled. Other families must transition from having a child in a long-term hospital care center to having services for their child provided at home. As children become older, families and children transition from home-based programs to center-based programs, and then from center-based programs to school-based programs. During each of these transitions professionals support the families as they adjust to their different roles and responsibilities. Transition-related services provide students with the opportunity to develop the interpersonal and management skills involved in coordinating activities that occur when a family transitions from one setting to another. Both Part B (preschool services) and Part C (infant-toddler services) of the Individuals with Disabilities Educational Act (IDEA, 2004) require that young children with disabilities be provided services in the least restrictive environment. Inclusion-related services encourage students to combine their knowledge of the needs of young children who have disabilities with their understanding of the varied range of community programs. Student teachers will be challenged to design appropriate service plans that meet the individual inclusive needs of the children and their families. While participating in the Student Teaching Practicum, students observe children and families, participate in activities with guided feedback from the Master Teacher and University Supervisor, and independently practice and evaluate their teaching strategies.

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to demonstrate skills in family, child and team-related services, individualized assessment, instructional planning, transition and inclusion-related services and data-based decision making through satisfactory completion of their student teaching practicum (EDSE 154).

CCTC Standards

Program Standard 15: Field Experience in a Broad Range of Service Delivery Options
The program will ensure that candidates have planned experiences and/or interactions with the full range of the service delivery system, the providers of such services, and parents and families, including experiences in general education. The experiences must reflect the full diversity of grades/ages, federal disability categories and the continuum of special education services outlined in the specific credential authorization. The experiences are planned from the beginning of the program to include experiences in general education, experiences with parents and families, and experiences with a broad range of service delivery options leading to an extended culminating placement in which the candidate works toward assuming full responsibility for the provision of services in the specific credential authorization and is of sufficient duration for the candidate to demonstrate the teacher performance expectations for special educators. The culminating placement may be in any school, agency or program as defined in Education Code Sections 56031, 56360, and 56361 for the purpose of providing special education services.

Intern Program Delivery Model: This standard may be met by activities embedded in coursework and/or visits/interactions with service providers. It is not intended that interns leave their work assignments for an extended period to meet this standard.

Program Standard 16: Assessment of Candidate Performance
Prior to recommending each candidate for a teaching credential, one or more persons responsible for the program shall determine on the basis of thoroughly documented evidence that each candidate has demonstrated a satisfactory performance on the full range of Teaching Performance Expectations (TPEs) as they apply to the subjects and specialties authorized by the credential. During the program, candidates are guided and coached on their performance in relation to the TPEs using formative processes. Verification of candidate performance is provided by at least one supervising teacher and one institutional supervisor trained to assess the TPEs. At least one assessor shall hold authorization in the candidate’s credential area. An individual development plan will be written before the candidate exits the Preliminary Credential Preparation Program and will include recommendations for further study during the candidate’s Induction Program. (TPEs may be found on pages 73-86 of this document).

ECSE Standard 10: Field Experience in Early Childhood Special Education Programs
The program provides an opportunity for each candidate to document observations in a variety of settings from birth to pre-kindergarten. Additionally, each candidate has field experiences in early childhood settings with family’s young children who have a range of abilities and needs including in home experiences with families of infants and toddlers with IFSPs and inclusive, developmentally appropriate center based preschool/pre-kindergarten settings that include children with IEPs. Each candidate demonstrates skill in working with young children individually and in small and whole group settings.
ECSEAA Standard 4: Experience in ECSE Programs

The program provides an opportunity for each candidate to document observations in a variety of settings from birth to pre-kindergarten. Additionally, each candidate has field experiences in early childhood settings with family’s young children who have a range of abilities and needs including in home experiences with families of infants and toddlers with IFSPs and inclusive, developmentally appropriate center based preschool/pre-kindergarten settings that include children with IEPs. Each candidate demonstrates skill in working with young children individually and in small and whole group settings.

University Policies

General Expectations, Rights and Responsibilities of the Student
As members of the academic community, students accept both the rights and responsibilities incumbent upon all members of the institution. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with SJSU’s policies and practices pertaining to the procedures to follow if and when questions or concerns about a class arises. To learn important campus information, view University Policy S16-15 and SJSU current semester’s Policies and Procedures. In general, it is recommended that students begin by seeking clarification or discussing concerns with their instructor. If such conversation is not possible, or if it does not address the issue, it is recommended that the student contact the Department Chair as the next step.
Workload and Credit Hour Requirements
Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Attendance and Participation
Attendance per se shall not be used as a criterion for grading. However, students are expected to attend all meetings for the courses in which they are enrolled as they are responsible for material discussed therein, and active participation is frequently essential to ensure maximum benefit to all class members. In some cases, attendance is fundamental to course objectives; for example, students may be required to interact with others in the class. Attendance is the responsibility of the student. Participation may be used as a criterion for grading when the parameters and their evaluation are clearly defined in the course syllabus and the percentage of the overall grade is stated. The full policy language can be found at http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/F15-3.pdf

Accommodation to Students’ Religious Holidays
University Policy S14-7 states that San José State University shall provide accommodation on any graded class work or activities for students wishing to observe religious holidays when such observances require students to be absent from class. It is the responsibility of the student to inform the instructor, in writing, about such holidays before the add deadline at the start of each semester. If such holidays occur before the add deadline, the student must notify the instructor, in writing, at least three days before the date that he/she will be absent. It is the responsibility of the instructor to make every reasonable effort to honor the student request without penalty, and of the student to make up the work missed.

Dropping and Adding
Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drop, grade forgiveness, etc. Add/drop deadlines can be found on the current academic year calendars document on the Academic Calendars webpage. Students should be aware of the current deadlines and penalties for dropping classes (Late Drop Information). Information about the latest changes and news is available at the Advising Hub.

Consent for Recording of Class and Public Sharing of Instructor Material
University Policy S12-7 requires students to obtain instructor’s permission to record the course and the following items to be included in the syllabus:
- “Common courtesy and professional behavior dictate that you notify someone when you are recording him/her. You must obtain the instructor’s permission to make audio or video recordings in this class. Such permission allows the recordings to be used for your private, study purposes only. The recordings are the intellectual property of the instructor; you have not been given any rights to reproduce or distribute the material.”
- In classes where active participation of students or guests may be on the recording, permission of those students or guests should be obtained as well.
- “Course material developed by the instructor is the intellectual property of the instructor and cannot be shared publicly without his/her approval. You may not publicly share or upload instructor generated material for this course such as exam questions, lecture notes, or homework solutions without instructor consent.”
Academic integrity

Your commitment, as a student, to learning is evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University. The University Academic Integrity Policy F15-7 requires you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. Visit the Student Conduct and Ethical Development website for more information.

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours.
