But there is one thing my collection does. It holds up to me a constant mirror of my ignorance. When I am faced with what I don’t know a kind of despair sets in. . . . But you would love the books. Of course the casual books come flowing in but the designed library is a staunch bastion. I have lost all sense of home, having moved so much. It means to me now—only that place where the books are kept.

—John Steinbeck to Carlton Sheffield (2 March 1964)
CONTENTS

Preface ix
Acknowledgments xiii

Introduction
  John Steinbeck: The Varieties of Reading Experiences xix

Abbreviations lxvii

Notes on Catalogue Usage lxxi

Catalogue of Steinbeck's Reading 1

Explanatory Notes 127

A Selective Bibliography of Primary and Secondary Works 183

Indexes
  Author Index 209
  Title Index 219