dear friends,

THANKS TO YOU, San José State University had a record-breaking year of support from our friends. SJSU depends on the involvement of alumni, partners, businesses and parents to create a vital community that is focused on student success. Your generosity helped us continue to make our teaching and research relevant to Silicon Valley and beyond.

While we celebrate this past year, you may have also heard about recent changes at San José State. I’ve received a lot of positive feedback about the arrival of our new president, Mohammad Qayoumi. He ushers in a new era of moving forward at a powerful pace. His vision for San José State and what we can achieve together in the years ahead is bold and compelling.

In this year’s annual report, you will read about individual and university successes, which are inseparable. The stories show how personal connections transform lives, not just for the individuals involved, but for anyone who has ever been touched by an engineer’s innovation, a nurse’s care or an artist’s creation.

At the heart of these stories are San José State’s people. The relationships we build at SJSU lead to scholarly advances in a wide range of fields and industries and your financial support fosters vibrant interactions and hands-on learning that leave a lasting impression on students, ultimately inspiring the next generation of SJSU alumni.

I am proud to announce that—together—you contributed over $25 million to SJSU in 2010–2011. In fact, Acceleration: The Campaign for San José State University, our first-ever comprehensive fundraising effort, has already received more than $150 million. I encourage you to read more about the campaign and how your support is making a difference at campaign.sjsu.edu.

I hope you will continue to take pride in the SJSU story and the role you play in providing incredible opportunities to a generation of bright young minds. Thank you for your enduring commitment to San José State.

of San José State University
When San José State students move in to Campus Village or sit down in their first life-changing class, they become part of a strong community. They are influenced as much by the people they meet as what they read in textbooks. From professors and residence hall assistants to peer advisors and staff members, the relationships that develop and grow on campus form the foundation for their success.

Your generous support of Acceleration: The Campaign for San José State University ensures that students have opportunities to be introduced to new perspectives, to pursue their passions regardless of obstacles and to realize their ambitions. Without your help, such incredible achievements would not be possible. Thanks to you, San José State is advancing opportunities for our students to become critical thinkers and tomorrow’s leaders.

San José State students dare to imagine bright futures. No matter where they start, the Spartan relationships they build transform their lives in ways they could not have anticipated. Your support helps to power every step forward, every door that opens, and every personal connection that leads our students to dream, to innovate and to achieve.
"It’s not that students who use the Adaptive Technology Center cannot learn. They just learn in different ways. And with online classes and new technology that’s used in classrooms, providing equal access to course materials becomes even more essential."

—WENDY LUN, ADAPTIVE TECHNOLOGY CENTER COORDINATOR

ADAPTIVE TECHNOLOGY CENTER

Leveling the playing field

WHEN NURSING STUDENT Rick Becker found out he was a San José State President’s Scholar, he rushed over to share the news with the Adaptive Technology Center staff. Becker says he wouldn’t have been able to earn a 4.0 GPA without their help. Through the center, Becker was able to test-drive several document readers to find the one that works best with the complex medical vocabulary and diagrams in his nursing textbooks.

Becker learns most effectively by listening to, rather than reading, course materials. He uses document readers, which take digital files and read them back aloud, to stay on top of Nursing’s rigorous coursework. He also uses voice recognition software to compose emails, presentations and evidence-based research papers.

A gift from Linda Starek, ’66 Education, will be used to update the center’s technology and make it available to students like Becker. Every year, about 1,200 students from every college and every discipline—with challenges ranging from cognitive to physical disabilities—go to the center to use and get training on adaptive technology. With the training and technology the center provides, these students overcome barriers to success.

Becker is making a name for himself among his peers and in the state of California. In addition to serving as president of the Public Health Nursing Club, he is also the first undergraduate student ever to hold a voting seat on the California Public Health Association-North’s Governing Council, which influences statewide health policies. Becker is also a member of the association’s Communication Task Force, which, among other things, ensures effective communication to the California public.

“The help from the Adaptive Technology Center has allowed me to excel academically and to branch out,” says Becker. "The center’s staff uncovers what you can actually do.”

"Being here at San José State is a dream come true. And the dream has brought me to places that I never thought I’d be as an undergraduate. What’s ended up happening is that I’ve become a nurse leader. If not for the Adaptive Technology Center, none of this would be possible.”

Charting a steady course

ONE BY ONE, students in the Guardian Scholars program sit down with Connie Hernandez Robbins to check their class schedules at the beginning of the semester. Outside of her office, the others get to know each other, sharing where they're from and what school they went to. There's no talk about having been in foster care, but beneath the conversation, they know they're all connected.

"All the students, like me, struggle with their past and having to grow up really quick," says computer engineering student Israel. "Guardian Scholars provides an atmosphere where we feel like we can succeed in life."

Rather than focusing on his time in foster care, Israel prefers to concentrate on school and his future. He has already completed two summer internships at Hewlett Packard’s office in Houston, Texas. During the school year, he works part time, is active in the Society of Electrical Engineers and Scientists student club, and has been a peer advisor for Community Engineering Learning and Listening (CELL).

Since the program started, Guardian Scholars, which is part of the Educational Opportunity Program, has helped over 3,000 former foster youths like Israel to see college as a strong reality. The program provides the kind of help most students count on from their families for: help transitioning to college, finding housing, and navigating admissions, financial aid and academic advising. None of this would be possible without generous support from alumni David Amoroso, Connie L. Lurie, and Jan Terry who has also supported the program and has taken a personal interest in Israel and the other students.

"It’s great when that fire inside you that was dying slowly is lit up again because you see that people care for you and want to help," Israel says.
“Giving to the Humanities Honors Program is funding an intangible. It’s funding what everyone longs for: the possibility for students to become educated and to know how to learn for the rest of their lives. It’s supporting the potential of all these wonderful young students.”
—CYNTHIA ROSTANKOWSKI, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR AND HUMANITIES HONORS PROGRAM DIRECTOR

“Often, when people go to college they’re involved in one particular field. There’s not much crossing of borders. The Humanities Honors Program offers the crossing of borders that leads to the larger view. You get a sense of what it means to be human.”
—MARK TANSEY, ARTIST

HUMANITIES HONORS PROGRAM

Gaining new perspectives

ON ANY GIVEN DAY, Humanities Honors Program students examine the arts, literature, philosophy and history, and toss around questions like, “What is truth?”

Artist Mark Tansey says Humanities Honors was the crucial course of his college education—an experience that has continued to inform his art practice.

Tansey’s highly complex paintings often include thought-provoking visual puzzles. “The Innocent Eye Test” (1981), for example, contains an image of the famous 17th-century painting “The Bull” by Paulus Potter. Humanities Honors Program students might wonder: What is the painting about? What is its historical context? Is its meaning relevant today? The conundrum of the painting within the painting gets students thinking, questioning and sharing their ideas.

In the late 1960s, Tansey came to San José State specifically for the humanities program that his father, Dick Tansey, helped to found with three other faculty members in 1954. With a generous gift from Maxine Hunt Fink, ’43 Elementary Education—whose husband, Jack, was another of the program’s founders—the Humanities Honors Program will continue to inspire young people to think critically, to ask questions and to be open to multiple perspectives.

“The best thing higher education can do is to offer knowledge—not just of one specialty, but an overview of how all of the specialized departments are connected,” says Tansey. “I thank the Humanities Honors Program for the most practical and highest quality education possible.”
The Tower Foundation

THE TOWER FOUNDATION IS SAN JOSÉ STATE UNIVERSITY’S AUXILIARY ORGANIZATION DEDICATED SOLELY TO PHILANTHROPY. FORMED IN APRIL 2004, THE FOUNDATION ENCOURAGES PRIVATE GIFTS, TRUSTS AND BEQUESTS FOR THE BENEFIT OF SAN JOSÉ STATE, AND FULLY MANAGES, EXPENDS AND ACCOUNTS FOR ALL UNIVERSITY DONATIONS.

By serving on the Tower Foundation Board of Directors, prominent alumni and citizens are engaged in the life of the university. Board members play a critical role in advising the university president on campus issues and in shaping philanthropic strategy. They work closely with university leaders to reach out to graduates and businesses to build support and funding for San José State. Board members are the university’s philanthropic leaders, and make annual contributions to San José State.

The Board of Directors is composed of up to 35 community members, most of whom are San José State alumni. The university president appoints members for three-year terms, and members may serve up to two consecutive terms. Board members elect officers who serve one-year terms. Five ex officio members, including the San José State president and his senior cabinet, also serve on the board.

The board’s five committees include Executive, Finance & Investment, Nominating & Governance, Campaign, and Audit Committees. Committees advise the foundation on campaign development, investments, audit compliance, public relations and long-range planning. The board meets four times a year and committees meet as needed.

“San José State has the vision and potential to achieve great things. All it needs is support from alumni who care.”

Financial Overview

For the year ending June 30, 2011, the Tower Foundation was audited by McGladrey & Pullen, Certified Public Accountants. The audit was conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards and, in their opinion, the financial statements presented fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Tower Foundation as of June 30, 2011. The independent auditor’s report expressed an unqualified opinion, and conformed with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States.

Total Tower assets increased by $21.1 million from fiscal year 2010 to fiscal year 2011, primarily due to gains in the investment portfolio and donor contributions to the endowment. This compared with an increase of approximately $9.1 million from 2009 to 2010, which was primarily due to gains in the investment portfolio. Current assets increased by $5.0 million from 2010 to 2011, primarily due to increased pledges and gifts receivable. Current and noncurrent liabilities remained about the same from 2010 to 2011.

Gifts and pledges increased by $11.3 million from 2010 to 2011 and decreased by $3.7 million from 2009 to 2010. Nonmonetary gifts decreased significantly from 2010 to 2011, from $4.4 million to approximately $592,000, and grew by approximately the same amount from 2009 to 2010. Tower’s administrative fee income increased by $4,29,000 from 2010 to 2011, primarily due to the increased value of the investment portfolio and increased expenditures for campus programs. Other operating revenue decreased by $164,000 from 2010 to 2011 due to a decrease in funds held off campus being transferred to Tower.

Expenses shown as “Support Activities of SJSU” represent the campus’s use of gift funds for scholarships and academic programs. The funds represented $10.7 million in 2011, an increase of $4.1 million from 2010. General and administrative expenses increased by $508,000 from 2010 to 2011, and they represent 5.1 percent of operating revenue.

Endowment Report

Market Value
In fiscal year 2010-2011, San José State’s endowment continued to grow—to $73.1 million. The growth was due to $11.8 million from continued improvement of investment returns, and $9.6 million from new gifts.

Market Performance
The year ending June 30, 2011 was another productive one for Tower Foundation’s endowment investment portfolio. Our portfolio’s growth was very positive again last year, comparable to our Policy Index. Its value grew to $73.1 million and it achieved a 22.8 percent investment return, slightly less than our benchmark of 23.7 percent. We continue to work closely with our investment firm, Beacon Pointe Advisors, to monitor asset allocation, capital commitments and risk management.

The Tower Foundation has been able to recoup more of the losses that characterized fiscal year 2008-2009. The ten-year return is 4.5 percent, the seven-year return is 5.1 percent and the five-year return is 2.8 percent. Returns over the past several years are muted by the 2008-2009 global financial crisis, and the changing economy may present further challenges in the year ahead.

Endowment Investment
The Tower Foundation Endowment Policy frames our investment work and establishes asset classes in a mix of common stocks, bonds, cash equivalents and other alternative investments. The Tower Board of Directors, management team and investment advisors are focused on long-term results relative to the policy, believing that they are the most meaningful in preserving value of the endowment for the future. We recognize that in order to achieve our investment objectives over extended periods performance has to substantially exceed the objective during some periods in order to compensate for shortfalls during other periods. Regardless of challenging short-term investment performance, the Tower Foundation makes an annual distribution to the endowment’s designated programs in order to ensure steady and predictable support to the campus.

While the past year was positive, the return to rapid and sustained growth is likely to be a gradual process that will take many years to recoup the losses sustained in previous years. We are confident that the endowment investment portfolio is positioned well, from both a risk and a return perspective, to support the university and its programs into the future.

Annual Contributions
New gifts continue to be added to the SJSU endowment even in the current challenging times. In fiscal year 2010-2011, over $11.8 million in new principal was added to the endowment. During the past three years, $19.8 million was added to SJSU’s endowment.

Annual Distribution
Our endowment spending rate strikes a balance between generating a predictable stream of annual support for current campus needs and preserving the value for future generations. Protecting and growing our endowment is an essential investment in the long-term quality and health of San José State.

The 2010-2011 distribution of $1,603,195 that the Tower Foundation Board of Directors approved was based on the average market value of the endowment over the previous three years. In response to ongoing economic challenges, the endowment spending rate was maintained at 3 percent.

Use of Funds
A healthy endowment allows San José State to dream, to sponsor big ideas, to be responsive and agile, and to provide support to deserving students. During the 2010-2011 fiscal year, a total of more than $493,000 in grants and scholarships was distributed to students. About $430,000 of those funds came from SJSU’s endowment. Another $57,000 from the endowment went to scholarships for our student-athletes. And more than $1 million supported SJSU’s outstanding faculty and programs.

Whether you have given to support scholarships, professorships, programs or partnerships, every dollar that you have invested benefits San José State students. Thanks to our donors, SJSU’s endowment is growing—as are opportunities for our students.

By giving through Acceleration: The Campaign for San José State University, you ensure the university’s ability to imagine an extraordinary future. Gifts from alumni, friends, parents, students, foundations and corporations make a critical difference. Combined with public funding, private support allows the university to supply current and future students with an affordable education, first-rate programs and ever-expanding opportunities to serve, lead and grow.

Your gifts help the university respond more creatively and flexibly to the emerging needs of students and to build a stronger community. With your help, students have access to the mentors, programs and services that propel them toward graduation and into their careers. Your generous gifts facilitate the relationships students need to achieve their goals and realize their dreams.

We thank you for moving us closer to our campaign goal of raising $200 million. San José State supporters recognized in the 2010–2011 Donor Honor Roll have helped to ensure the success of the campaign. Annual contributions of all sizes impact students and faculty members in all of the university’s colleges and divisions. You have made a tangible difference—on campus and beyond.
San José State University’s Donor Recognition Societies celebrate alumni, parents and friends for their high level of personal commitment to the university. Cash gifts are recognized on the following pages. Through annual and cumulative giving, recognition society members provide the means for the university to continue a tradition of academic and athletic excellence. Matching gifts from employers, corporations and foundations are included when determining recognition, raising the level of an individual’s society membership. Undergraduate alumni who have graduated within the last five years enjoy benefits with half the minimum giving level for each recognition society. All gifts and pledges recognized in this report are counted toward Acceleration: The Campaign for San José State University, our ambitious $200 million fundraising effort.

San José State instructors model what it’s like to work and give service to the community because it’s what they do. The proof of San José State’s effectiveness is how many people I know who have gone and are successful in what they’re trying to do.

Matching Gifts

Matching gifts from employers are included when determining recognition, raising the level of an individual’s society membership. Such programs typically match all or a percentage of employee contributions to charitable organizations, making the employer a partner in employees’ personal philanthropy.

“The President’s Society and the 1857 Fellows recognize the strong ties between donors and San José State,” said SJSU President Paul J. Vain. “This recognition is a thank you for their support, and an opportunity to build on the corporate and foundation giving of these donors.”

Through the Senior Gift program, San José State seniors and graduate students leave a legacy for those who follow.

Friends, parents, and the faculty and staff also use the senior gift to honor students. These gifts help San José State University to continue its long tradition of serving the community and enriching the lives of students through a quality education.

Donor’s name is in bold
Ways to give
Your support makes a difference

When you make an outright gift to SJSU, your contributions can be put to work immediately—either providing funding for current programs or creating a reliable source of future income by expanding the university’s endowment.

An outright gift may be composed of almost any asset of value.

CASH GIFTS are the simplest and easiest gifts you can make. They can be made through credit/debit transactions, outright cash, or personal checks, cashier’s checks or money orders made payable to the Tower Foundation of San José State University and mailed to:

TOWER FOUNDATION
San José State University
One Washington Square
San José, California 95192-0256

Give online at sjsu.edu/giving.

GIFTS OF APPRECIATED SECURITIES, stocks and bonds also provide considerable tax advantages when transferred to the university before they are sold. Avoid long-term capital gains taxes by giving stocks, mutual funds or bonds to San José State.

DEFERRED OR PLANNED GIFTS include bequests, real estate, life-income agreements, charitable trusts and other options for your estate.

FOR MORE INFORMATION on how to give securities, stocks and bonds, and how to increase your income and reduce your estate taxes, contact your development officer in University Advancement, 408-924-1473.

“I have great pride and satisfaction in having earned my bachelor’s degree from SJSU. For what I learned and what I have accomplished over the years, I am eternally grateful to the faculty.”
—DONN A. BURCH, ’72

THIS DONOR HONOR ROLL REFLECTS ALL WHO HAVE SUPPORTED SAN JOSÉ STATE UNIVERSITY BETWEEN JULY 1, 2010 AND JUNE 30, 2011. WE HAVE MADE EVERY EFFORT TO ACCURATELY AND COMPLETELY LIST NAMES IN RECOGNITION OF CONTRIBUTIONS. PLEASE ACCEPT OUR APOLOGIES FOR ANY OMISSIONS OR ERRORS, AND CONTACT US SO THAT WE MAY CORRECT OUR RECORDS: STEWARDSHIP@SJSU.EDU OR 408-924-2278.
Thank you to our 2010–2011 donors, whose support keeps San José State moving forward at a powerful pace.

Your commitment to the university has a lasting impact on the lives of the nearly 30,000 extraordinary students we serve.

Most of all, thank you for investing in what promises to be a dynamic and exciting tomorrow.
