applying for a Ph.D?

The Urban Planning Coalition, the urban planning student group at SJSU, is hosting a Ph.D panel to assist students who are interested or curious about applying for Ph.D programs. A panel of San Jose State University professors from the College of Social Sciences will discuss:

- Ways to make your application more competitive
- Factors to consider when deciding whether or not you wish to pursue a PhD
- Factors to consider when choosing the schools to which you might want to apply.

The panel will be followed by a Q&A, and there will be lots of time to ask questions. All majors are welcome!

Panelists

Professor Asha Weinstein Agrawal, Urban and Regional Planning
Professor Julia Curry, Mexican American Studies
Professor Gregory Feist, Psychology
Professor Karthika Sasikumar, Political Science
