Engaging Students with the Under-Served Homeless Community: Service and Research

Winifred Schultz-Krohn with graduate and undergraduate occupational therapy students

This presentation will describe a unique service and research partnership with the under-served community of homeless families. Presenters will describe how this project began and grew over time, and what kind of supports are provided to students. A diverse set of student projects will be presented, projects that help students connect theory to practice while meeting a need within the community.

Winifred Schultz-Krohn is a Professor in the Department of Occupational Therapy. She has degrees in Occupational Therapy, Neuroscience and Human Science.
