Course Description

Anthropologists have long studied social change brought about in pre-industrial or smallscale societies through ongoing interactions with the nation states of the industrialized world. Often this kind of change has been conceptualized as “culture contact” or “acculturation,” even when the term “catastrophic change” is perhaps more appropriate. Anthropologists now recognize that in order to understand change, we must pay attention to the very real issues of dominance, subordination, and dependence that characterize colonial experiences, and the many situations of encounter by two or more cultures. Drawing on a survey of contemporary cultures (with some historic examples for a comparative perspective), this 3-unit lecture course will examine situations of culture and conflict that have arisen in the process of modernization and development, globalization, and war.

Course Learning Objectives Students who successfully complete this course will be able to:

1. Understand theoretical frameworks and anthropological perspectives on change, conflict, and development;
2. Grasp of several key ethnographic case studies of societies experiencing conflict and change;
3. Write about a particular culture and its experience of change and conflict, including a recommendation for how policy-makers should deal with the problems with which this group is faced;
4. Reflect critically on the processes of, and theories about, culture and conflict.

SJSU Studies: Culture, Civilization & Global Understanding Area V

For students beginning continuous enrollment in Fall 2005 or later, completion of, or coregistration in, a 100W course is required for enrollment in all SJSU Studies courses. Courses used to satisfy Areas R, S, and V must be taken from three separate SJSU departments, or other distinct academic units.

Classroom Protocol

Cell phones must be turned off during class to avoid disruption and out of sight or else the instructor will collect the device from the student until the end of class. Text messaging is strictly prohibited. Any student who allows a cell phone to ring during class, or who texts messages will be given a formal warning by the instructor. A second infraction of this rule will be promptly reported to the Office of Student Conduct with a recommendation that the student be immediately expelled from the course. Students should be aware that according to Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, "Standards for Student Conduct," grounds for student discipline includes: "Participating in an activity that substantially and materially disrupts the normal operations of the University," {Section 41301(b)(4)} which could include use of electronic devices in classroom settings.

All assignments must be completed in order to pass. I will not accept late assignments nor will I administer makeup exams unless documents can be presented as evidence of illness, death in family, jury duty, etc. No assignments will be accepted via e-mail—I must receive hard copies of all assignments.

Exams: There are three exams. The first two exams are take-home. Exam 3 (final) is in-class. They will consist of essay questions. Each exam will consist of 2 or 3 questions, and your response should not exceed 4 pgs. I will announce the exam questions one week prior to the due date.

Short Responses: There will be several unannounced 'short response' writing exercises throughout the Semester. The short responses will constitute 15% of your grade. These will serve to ensure that you are attentive during lecture, and always ready to intellectually engage with the readings.

Credit Hours

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica.
