Course Format

Technology Intensive, Hybrid, and Online Courses

This course adopts a completely online instruction format. You must have Internet connectivity, and access to a computer, to participate in the classroom activities and/or submit assignments. All assignments must be uploaded to Canvas in .doc or .docx format to be graded due to the limitations of the grading software in Canvas. Please save or export documents created in other formats (such as Google.docs) to Word before submitting the assignment. Please be aware that the Canvas App does not include the full functionality of Canvas as seen on a computer screen and you will not be able to fully participate in the class if using the app only. See University Policy F13-2 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/F13-2.pdf> for more details.

Course Description

Anthropologists have long studied social change brought about in pre-industrial or small-scale societies through ongoing interactions with the nation states of the industrialized world. Often this kind of change has been conceptualized as “culture contact” or “acculturation,” even when the term “catastrophic change” is perhaps more appropriate. Anthropologists now recognize that in order to understand change, we must pay attention to the very real issues of dominance, subordination, and dependence that characterize colonial experiences, and the many situations of encounter by two or more cultures. Anthropology now complicates older understandings of social organizations in terms of nationalism, colonialism, institutionalized racisms, and the diverse forms that global capitalism takes.

Drawing on a survey of contemporary cultures (with some historic examples for a comparative perspective), this course will examine situations of culture and conflict that have arisen in the process of modernization and development, globalization, and war. The three case studies we will study in depth come from very traditional societies: 1) Aborigines, foragers and the indigenous peoples of Australia, 2) Somalis, pastoralists in Africa, and 3) the Hmong, swidden agriculturalists from Laos who now live in diasporic communities throughout the United States. Our goal is to develop a theoretical framework for understanding these case studies and the issues they raise, and analyze how anthropologists and world citizens can positively affect the issues affecting small-scale societies. The course will challenge students to understand how power, vulnerability, and personhood are experienced beyond the boundaries of the United States. Students will encounter not only the diversity of lives and perspectives that is the hallmark of anthropology, but also grasp the relevance of anthropological writing about power and conflict in the contemporary global world.

Course Goals

To be able to examine cultural systems, especially political economies, and select predictive elements to anticipate cultural development

To be able to critically analyze the assumptions underlying various projections of social issues

To comprehend the links between cultural values and technological choice

To understand the links between cultural values and social organization

To understand the shifting worldviews dominating various global regions in different times and places

To be able to visualize how societies change and create new cultures

To systematically analyze issues from the perspectives of the different actors involved

To be able to engage in cooperative learning activities

GE Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Upon successful completion of this program, students will be able to:

1. Analyze historical, social, and/or cultural significance of creative works of human expression (examples include, but are not limited to, written works, images, media, music, dance, technologies, designs), from at least one cultural tradition outside the United States;
2. Examine how creative works of human expression [as defined in #1] outside the United States have influenced the United States' cultures;
3. Explain how a culture outside the U.S. has changed in response to internal and external influences; and
4. Appraise how the study of creative works of human expression from outside the United States shapes one's own understanding of cultural experiences and practices.

Course Learning Outcomes (CLO)

1. The student will learn how to understand events within a broad worldwide framework.

2. The student will practice comparing and contrasting today's global issues with those of other historical periods.

3. The student will learn to critique different assumptions and reviewing a range of perspectives on global issues.

4. Students will discuss competing definitions of "globalization."

5. Students will analyze the impacts of trade, technology, migration, and conflict on cultural change.

6. Students will develop the skills needed to anticipate and shape future scenarios.

SJSU Credit Hours

“Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally three hours per unit per week) for instruction, preparation/studying, or course related activities, including but not limited to internships, labs, and clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.”

Course Requirements and Assignments

This course requires extensive reading and in class discussions. The primary assignment is the sequential paper project. The sequential project will be completed in 3 stages, allowing you time to gather information, reflect on it in light of the other readings we are doing in the class, and then go back to write another piece of your project. You may choose to learn more about a group that comes up in our reading or you may choose a group or topic on your own—either way use this as an opportunity to extend and intensify your own knowledge. Though I welcome you to include your own ethnographic research in the project, for most of you this will be a library research paper. As such your main sources will be academic journal articles and books, especially those written by anthropologists. These materials may be supplemented by non-scholarly sources such as magazines like Newsweek or The New Yorker, or by Internet sources and films/videos available through the Instructional Resources Center on campus, but in general your paper must draw the majority of its material from academic resources (academic journals and books). More information about this project will be posted on the Anthropology 146 Canvas site.

Sequential Paper Project

A three part paper described in the Sequential Paper Project document on canvas.

Class Response #1: Anthropological view of History and Subjectivity

This 2-3 page paper will require students to demonstrate the ability to distill concepts and arguments from the first section of the course regarding history, politics, and culture. Ideas can be generated from the films, readings and lecture.

Class Response #2: Neoliberalism and Class in US Culture

This 2-3 page paper will address the culture of neoliberalism in United States with particular attention to the production of new communities and inequalities. Respond to the film Bombies or the reading “Neoliberalism and the Restoration of Class Power” by David Harvey.

Movie Summaries

For a movie summary, you must write at least 200 words and submit over canvas. Movies will be streamed via canvas and assigned via weekly discussions.

Final Examination or Evaluation

The final exam will be cumulative and are made up of multiple choice, short answer, and an essay.

Grading Information (Required)

- 3-part sequential project (50 pts each)
- Class Response 1 (20 pts)
- Class Response 2 (20 pts)
- Movie Summaries (20pts)
- Daily Discussions(5pts)
- Midterm (100 pts)
- Final exam (100 pts)

Participation points will be based on movie summaries, class discussion, participation in peer review editing, and possible in-class writing responses. E-mailing the professor does NOT count as participation.

Each sequential paper project section is based on a 50-point scale. The following scores are roughly equivalent to these grades: 45-50 = A, 40-44 = B, 35-39 = C, 30-34 = D, below 30 = F. When assigning your scores, the following are the grading/feedback sheets I will use, so you should pay attention to the areas that they cover, and make sure you’ve addressed them.

The sequential paper will be graded using the following rubric:

Score for Section 1:

- 1) Use of Research / Content of Paper (possible points: 25) _____
- 2) Connection to subject matter of course (5) _____
- 3) Use of sources: _____

Determination of Grades

A-plus 98>, A 94 97, A-minus 90 93 (percent)

An "A" demonstrates originality, addresses the tasks effectively, shows effective organization and logical argumentation, uses clear, appropriate and accurate examples and a high level of writing competence and knowledge. Completes the task and consistently gathers and uses data beyond that required in class readings that is self initiated. Papers are fully referenced.

B-plus 88 89, B 84 87, B-minus 80 83 (percent)

A "B" may show a good level of competence, but uneven development of tasks. It may be generally well organized, uses appropriate examples, displays facility, with a few gaps, in argumentation, and demonstrates a good level of writing and knowledge. Writing is still original and does not challenge "fair use." Completes the task and does some extra work guided by the instructor. Referencing is adequate.

C-plus 78 79, C 74 77, C-minus 70 73 (percent)

A "C" may show a fair level of competence, but may be uneven. It will address the task adequately, but only with parts of the task. It is adequately organized and may occasionally use examples. Argumentation may be inconsistent and writing and knowledge competence may be unclear. Referencing is spotty. (percent)

D-plus 68 69, D 64 67, D-minus 60 63, F < 60 (percent)

A "D" will demonstrate poor competence with inadequate organization, task and argumentation development and inappropriate examples. It will display difficulty in using adequate academic language and errors in knowledge will be in evidence. Writing is at the border of "fair use" of other scholars' work. A failure will only occur if no effort is made to address the question or topic or if plagiarism is detected.

Grading Information for GE Area V

Passage of the Writing Skills Test (WST) or ENGL/LLD 100A with a C or better (C- not accepted), and completion of Core General Education are prerequisite to all SJSU Studies courses. Completion of, or co-registration in, 100W is strongly recommended. A minimum aggregate GPA of 2.0 in GE Areas R, S, & V shall be required of all students.

Classroom Protocol

Classroom Etiquette: If you come late to class or leave early, please enter and exit quietly. Cell phones must be turned off and put away – no text messaging in class. Computers may be used only for note taking – if I find you surfing the web in class, you will be asked to leave. Students wishing to use computers should do it at the front of class.

University Policies

Academic integrity

Students should know that the University's Academic Integrity Policy is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/download/judicial_affairs/Academic_Integrity_Policy_S07-2.pdf. Your own commitment to learning, as evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University and the University's integrity policy, require you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The website for Student Conduct and Ethical Development is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/judicial_affairs/index.html. Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person's ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include in your assignment any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU's Academic Policy F06-1 requires approval of instructors.

Campus Policy in Compliance with the American Disabilities Act

If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability, or if you need to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please make an appointment with me as soon as possible, or see me during office hours. Presidential Directive 97-03 requires that students with disabilities requesting accommodations must register with the DRC (Disability Resource Center) to establish a record of their disability.
