Course Description

This Advanced Drawing course will concentrate on cultivating an individual investigation of drawing, by employing traditional and experimental techniques, along with a philosophical and unique approach to the historical and aesthetic interpretation of drawing, in a modern and contemporary context.

Through an investigation of different thematic structures and relationships, the student's approach can be anything from simulating contemporary culture, challenging traditional boundaries, or formally interpreting ideas concerning narrative, figuration, or abstraction. Through a curiosity and openness to experimentation, each student will create a body of work over the course of the semester that will articulate their unique voice and individual development. Formal drawing approaches that can range from subtlety, directness and immediacy, while employing a diversity of methodology and mediums, will enhance the student's growth in communication and invention through drawing.

Each student, in the process of employing these concerns to their practice, will create a body of work that expands their own philosophical and meaningful approach to the beauty of interpretive drawing, while stimulating curiosity, communication, and discussion amongst their peers.

The challenge of the course will be in self-direction and discipline, by developing a unique and personal body of work that is cohesive, personally expressive, and challenging.

The first month of the semester will require an investigation of small and large format considerations, which will be discussed in class the first day. All students are required to complete this first assignment before they begin their personal projects.

Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives:

- ✦ Students will be introduced to a wide range of media and materials, along with a variety of papers, size considerations regarding scale and continuity, edge, and that will be employed in further enhancing their ability in creating a unique and cohesive body of work.
- ✦ Each student will be responsible for their own personal investigation regarding the articulation and approach in developing a body of work over the semester, which could emphasize a narrative, figurative, abstract, or cultural interpretation of contemporary ideas.
- ✦ Students will develop an awareness and sensitivity to the process of drawing, and its core fundamental attributes, through a rigorous personal investigation that utilizes expression and risk-taking.

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

SLO 1: Create a body of work that investigates a personal and communicative expression of ideas, theory, and formal application encompassing a wide range of issues articulated through contemporary drawing

SLO 2: Investigate and reflect on the practice of creating a body of work, in researching the historical and interpretive analysis of contemporary drawing, and its contextual place in communicating theoretical concepts and formal concerns through an individual practice.

SLO 3: Discovery of new approaches to drawing: through experimentation, risk-taking, and personal expression. Develop a personal voice and philosophical methodology in practice and transformation, through materials, scale considerations, and overall continuity demonstrated through a diverse openness to new challenges.

SLO 4: Communicate ideas through a written statement considering the body of work in a contemporary context, and reflect on the historical and cultural significance of the work analytically and theoretically. Articulate a personal vocabulary, both philosophically, and independently.

SLO 5: Upon completion of a body of work, stimulate discussion and debate, and engage in a critical analysis of the work within the context of drawing, in terms of a contemporary practice.

Required reading and homework assignments

Every two weeks students will be asked to read a brief essay that will be found on the Art158 Canvas link, which will be discussed, very briefly, along with a slide lecture, during the scheduled Zoom class critique. Throughout the semester, students will be asked to write a few responses to these essays.

In addition, each student will be required to write an artist statement that reflects and articulates their individual approach to the body of work they produce over the course of the semester. The instructor will work closely with each student, on an individual basis, helping them form a relevant and cohesive analysis of their practice and voice.

Critiques

Every three weeks the class will engage in an informal class critique via Zoom, which will hopefully ignite discussion, and form the basis for an ongoing critical and aesthetic interpretation of each student's ongoing work and process. These are meant to stimulate each artist in their development throughout the semester, and create a group dynamic that is essential for articulating response, philosophical inquiry, and interpreting each individual's approach to their practice. The following class after the scheduled critique will be individual meetings with the instructor via Zoom.

Attendance

Attendance via Zoom is mandatory and extremely important. Maintaining a level of seriousness and completing the course work is instrumental to success in the course.

Requirements

Regular attendance and work during class time, along with participation in class critiques and discussions, is mandatory. All assignments must be handed in on time. Any assignments handed in late will be graded down a whole grade.

Online Class Protocol

All classes will meet via Zoom during the regular class hours. Questions and comments may be entered anytime during the session in the “chat” box. Students are asked to remain on mute until called on to speak. Students wishing to speak should use the “hand raise” icon in the participant list. It is optional to have video on. However, anyone with video on should be seated and properly dressed for classroom attendance. Students are asked to arrive punctually for the Zoom classes. Late arrivals may have to wait a few minutes before entering the Zoom session as late admission requires intermittently checking the “waiting room.” All sessions will be recorded and uploaded to Canvas.”

(Note: According to University policy F69-24, “Students attend all meetings of their classes, not only because they are responsible for material discussed therein, but because active participation is frequently essential to insure maximum benefit for all members of the class. Attendance per shall not be used as a crriterion for grading.”)

Grading

Grades will be determined by the following percentages:

Individual ongoing class practice, and cohesive body of work completed at the end of the semester – 80%
