Course Description

In this advanced drawing class we will make a sustained semester long engagement producing a body or series of related drawings. Students will be asked to make this series of work based on a stated subject of inquiry. In the beginning of the semester students will research why they want to make these drawings. This research could manifest as preliminary experiments with formal processes or ideas that drive a conceptual approach or perhaps a combination of both. Students will present their preliminary work and research in dialogue with the class and then spend the remainder of the semester producing a body of drawings based on this subject.

The class will be supplemented with presentations of ambitious historical and contemporary drawing projects, guest artists and technical demonstrations.

Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives:

Students will be introduced to a wide range of media and materials, along with a variety of papers, size considerations regarding scale and continuity, edge, and that will be employed in further enhancing their ability in creating a unique and cohesive body of work.

Each student will be responsible for their own personal investigation regarding the articulation and approach in developing a body of work over the semester, which could emphasize a narrative, figurative, abstract, or cultural interpretation of contemporary ideas.

Students will develop an awareness and sensitivity to the process of drawing, and its core fundamental attributes, through a rigorous personal investigation that utilizes expression and risk-taking.

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

SLO 1: Create a body of work that investigates a personal and communicative expression of ideas, theory, and formal application encompassing a wide range of issues articulated through contemporary drawing

SLO 2: Investigate and reflect on the practice of creating a body of work, in researching the historical and interpretive analysis of contemporary drawing, and its contextual place in communicating theoretical concepts and formal concerns through an individual practice.

SLO 3: Discovery of new approaches to drawing: through experimentation, risk-taking, and personal expression. Develop a personal voice and philosophical methodology in practice and transformation, through materials, scale considerations, and overall continuity demonstrated through a diverse openness to new challenges.

SLO 4: Communicate ideas through a written statement considering the body of work in a contemporary context, and reflect on the historical and cultural significance of the work analytically and theoretically. Articulate a personal vocabulary, both philosophically, and independently.

SLO 5: Upon completion of a body of work, stimulate discussion and debate, and engage in a critical analysis of the work within the context of drawing, in terms of a contemporary practice.

Required reading and homework assignments

Students will be asked to read several short essays on artists that will be discussed along with a slide lecture during the scheduled Zoom class critique. Throughout the semester, students will be asked to write a few responses to these essays.

In addition, each student will be required to write an artist statement that reflects and articulates their individual approach to the body of work they produce over the course of the semester.

The instructor will work closely with each student, on an individual basis, helping them form a relevant and cohesive analysis of their practice and voice.

Critiques

Every three weeks the class will engage in an informal class critique via Zoom, which will hopefully ignite discussion, and form the basis for an ongoing critical and aesthetic interpretation of each student's ongoing work and process. These are meant to stimulate each artist in their development throughout the semester, and create a group dynamic that is essential for articulating response, philosophical inquiry, and interpreting each individual's approach to their practice. The following class after the scheduled critique will be individual meetings with the instructor via Zoom.

Online Class Protocol

Attendance

Attendance via Zoom is mandatory and extremely important. Maintaining a level of seriousness and completing the course work is instrumental to success in the course.

Requirements

Regular attendance and work during class time, along with participation in class critiques and discussions, is mandatory. All assignments must be handed in on time. Any assignments handed in late will be graded down a whole grade.

Online Class Protocol

All classes will meet via Zoom during the regular class hours. Questions and comments may be entered anytime during the session in the “chat” box. Students are asked to remain on mute until called on to speak. Students wishing to speak should use the “hand raise” icon in the participant list. It is optional to have video on. However, anyone with video on should be seated and properly dressed for classroom attendance. Students are asked to arrive punctually for the Zoom classes. Late arrivals may have to wait a few minutes before entering the Zoom session as late admission requires intermittently checking the “waiting room.”

(Note: According to University policy F69-24, “Students attend all meetings of their classes, not only because they are responsible for material discussed therein, but because active participation is frequently essential to insure maximum benefit for all members of the class. Attendance per shall not be used as a criterion for grading.”)

Grading

Grades will be determined by the following percentages:

Individual ongoing class practice, and cohesive body of work completed at the end of the semester – 80%

Required reading, essays, individual statement, and participation in class critiques – 20%

Grading breakdown:

4.0 – A	2.2 – 2.7 - C
3.7 – 4.0 – A-	2.0 – 2.2 – C-
3.5 – 3.7 – B+	1.7 – 2.0 – D
3.2 – 3.5 – B	0.0 – 1.7 - F
3.0 – 3.2 – B-
2.7 – 3.0 – C+

Materials to consider for Contemporary Issues in

Drawing

A variety of different materials, papers, and approaches will be discussed on the first day of class, along with various stores for purchasing, and overall potential cost factor.

Students will decide what is appropriate for them in terms of their personal investigation throughout the semester.

Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drop, grade forgiveness, etc. Refer to the current semester's Catalog Policies section at <http://info.sjsu.edu/static/catalog/policies.html>. Add/drop deadlines can be found on the current academic calendar web page located at

For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include your assignment or any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU's Academic Policy S07-2 requires approval of instructors.
