CS131: Processing Big Data, Fall 2022
San Jose State University, Department of Computer Science
Professor William B. Andreopoulos

Tuesday-Thursday 3:00PM - 4:15PM (online)

Learn how to:
- Use the UNIX/Linux command line for big data processing
- Do essential data manipulation
- Perform essential system administration tasks
- Customize environment and user accounts
- Do data science like a power user
- Build data analytics pipelines
- Write shell scripts to automate repeated tasks
- Run bioinformatics applications