Course Description
This seminar is designed to engage students in an immersive study of Environmental poetry, also known as “ecopoetry.” Ecopoetry is more than poetry about nature or the wilderness; ecopoetics investigates connections between human activity (including poetry) and the environmental impact of human cultures and endeavors. We’ll read poems that include works from earlier periods, that have influenced American Modernism. Then continue reading a diversity of modern and postmodern poems by poets such as: Walt Whitman, Emily Dickinson, Wallace Stevens, Robinson Jeffers, Marianne Moore, Kenneth Rexroth, William Stafford, Elizabeth Bishop, Gary Snyder, W.S. Merwin, Pablo Neruda, Seamus Heaney, Derek Walcott, Robert Hass, Brenda Hillman, Arthur Sze, Jorie Graham, Camile Dungy, C.S. Giscombe, Juliana Spahr, and Craig Santos-Perez, among others.

The seminar this semester is organized around four elemental themes: Fire; Water; Earth; and Air.

The ENGL 254 seminar changes in subject matter focus from semester to semester, depending upon the instructor. ENGL 254 may be taken two times for credit (toward an MA or MFA degree).
Thematic Focus
The evolution ecopoetry: Critical readings of poetry written on environmental themes and environmental justice.

Course Goals
The curriculum will include the practice in close reading/explication of poems. Everyone in the seminar will present:

- Learn to read and appreciate the various styles of modern and contemporary ecopoetry by a diversity of poets who we explore in the seminar’s weekly immersive readings. And to post questions and comments for weekly online (asynchronous) Canvas discussions.
- To explore the differences between nature poetry and ecopoetry.
- To present in-class at least one explication/close reading of a poet’s work making the case for how this work can (or should) be read as ecopoetry. Students may do a second explication for extra credit (with instructor’s permission). (Approximately 10 – 15 minutes).
- A short (5-page) paper (follow-up to the in-class explication) that makes the case for how an individual poet’s work (from the reading list) can be read as ecopoetry. Should include close-readings from the poem(s) discussed in the paper. Students may write a second paper for extra credit (with instructor’s permission).
- A 20 – 25-page (MLA-style) research paper, with Works Cited list, comparing and contrasting the work of two or more poets that you read through the theoretical lens of ecopoetics. Should include close readings of the poems cited in the paper as well as citations from ecopoetic theorists or from published works of ecocriticism and/or geocriticism. The paper should focus on how these poems that you investigated respond to larger or smaller environmental or environmental justice issues.
- Or alternatively: complete a creative assignment based on upon emulating the ecopoetic and stylistic element(s) of a poet’s work (or poets’ works) that you read during the semester. And that you want to more of in-depth. The project should also include a 6 to 10-page analytical essay on how you’ve emulated their work (with an MLA-style bibliography).
- Fourth Unit Enhancement: A 15 - 20-minute presentation (prerecorded) based on material from their paper. Follow conference paper presentation protocol for AWP, MLA, or American Literature Association conferences.

Textbooks (Recommended)
- Camille T. Dungy, Four Centuries of African American Nature Poetry, paper.
- Editors Ann Fisher-Wirth and Laura-Gray Street, The Ecopoetry Anthology.
- Editor, Molly Fisk, California Water and Fire: A Climate Crisis Anthology,
- Forrest Gander, Twice Alive, paper.
- Camile Rankin, Citizen, paper.
- Craig Santos-Perez, Habitat Threshold, paper.
- Janice Lobo Sapigao, Microchips for Millions, paper.
- Patricia Smith, Blood Dazzler, paper.
- Alan Soldofsky, In the Buddha Factory, paper.
Readings in Environmental Justice (Recommended)

- Elizabeth Kolbert, The Sixth Extinction, paper.
- Dorceta E. Taylor, Toxic Communities: Environmental Racism, Industrial Pollution, and Residential Mobility, paper.

Each class member is urged (strongly) to buy at least one book that you’ve enjoyed reading for this class who you want to keep in your personal library.

English Department Students Learning Goals

This course supports several of the English Department’s Student Learning Goals. The Department of English and Comparative Literature seeks to foster the intellectual development of its majors by encouraging study of literature and writing—whether creative, technical, or other professional writing. The Department strives to make its majors familiar with a wide range of works of British, American, and World literature, including folk and popular forms; and with the nature of the canon and of canon-formation, including issues of culture, history, race, ethnicity, gender, and sexual orientation.

MFA Program Learning Objectives:

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

Reading Required
- Weekly readings from select chapters in Can Poetry Save the Earth; and other critical essays to be read online.
- Weekly poems listed in the “Playlist.”

Writing Required
- Ten Weekly (minimum) Canvas Discussion posts on various topics. The content of your posts should include your reasons for preferring to write about a particular poet/poem you’ve selected as an example of ecopoetry to discuss (or reply to) in your post.
- One short 3 – 5-page review where you read a poet’s work (one or two sample poems), making a case that this poet’s work functions as an example of ecopoetry. (You may write on poems from the Canvas PLAYLIST or poems included in one of our anthologies that you choose (with the instructor’s approval)—reading the work through its ecopoetic themes or through the “lens” of ecopoetic theory.)
• In-Class live presentation and close reading of how one or more poems/poet you read during the week can be read as ecopoetry. (Same material you cover in your review-essay.) (10 – 15 minutes.)

• One 20 – 25-page (MLA-style) term paper comparing the work of two or more poets. Must include an MLA Works Cited list. Post draft in-progress for class to workshop on Canvas and in two scheduled class-meetings.

• OR Alternative Creative Assignment:
  A group of at least 4 poems based upon emulating or imitating some element(s) of an ecopoem.
  o Or you can write a series of “postcard” poems (with appropriate graphics included) adapted from the Kundiman Asian American Writers Workshop’s prompt. (If you write postcards, please post at least one each month during the semester to our Canvas site.)
  o Base your emulations on poems/poets you selected from poems contained in anthologies or collections on the required list.
  o Include a 6 to 10-page analytical essay analyzing how you’ve emulated the other poet(s)’ work (accompanied by an MLA-style Works Cited list). Post draft in-progress for class to workshop on Canvas and in two scheduled class-meetings.

• Fourth Unit Enhancement: A prerecorded 15 - 20-minute presentation based on material from your term-paper or alternative assignment. Follow conference paper presentation protocol used for AWP, MLA, or American Literature Association conferences.

One-on-One Office Consultation Required
Before starting work on your culminating term paper or alternative creative assignment, students are required to have a 20-minute consultation with the instructor to discuss the paper’s topic, poets/poems to be considered, and possible claims to make in the paper. I will set up a Zoom or phone discussion with you as you go forward. Before the consultation meeting, fill out the term-paper notes form I will distribute the first week of the term.

Dates/times for consultations: Aug. 30 – Oct. 15, virtual office hours. You should have your research paper or alternative creative project topic and focus approved by Oct. 15.

1-Unit Credit Enhancement:

20-Minute Presentation Based on Full-Length Research Paper Or Creative Project
Each class member will give a twenty-minute “conference-style” presentation based on pared-down version of your culminating research paper or creative project. The presentation should be done in a manner similar to conference protocols for AWP, MLA, or American Literature Association conferences. Include slides, notes, and other graphics/handouts with your presentation. Record your presentation, including slides and other visual materials, then post it to receive comments from class members on Canvas.

Or you may give an “AWP” annotated reading of from your creative project, emulating or imitating some element(s) of an ecopoem. Should you choose to, you may present a series of “postcard” poems, in which you emulated poets’ work you’ve read this semester. You can follow the prompt provided by Kundiman, the Asian American Writing Workshop.

Class members will view the presentation asynchronously, then make comments and ask questions, posted as comments on Canvas. Students are encouraged to use various digital tools to enhance their presentation and to present samples of texts, visuals, videos, etc. Use platforms such as Canvas has on its Studio tool; or use Google Slides, PowerPoint, Keynote, or Acrobat, etc. You can use Zoom screen sharing or post notes, slides, etc. as attached files. (Fulfills SLO’s 3, 4.)

Presentations will be scheduled for posting following Thanksgiving, unless someone wishes to post earlier to get more feedback.

- If possible, we will group these presentations into virtual “panels” addressing related topics, environmental issues, or themed by the four elements.
- If you have elected to write a creative alternative assignment, read your original poems and the poems by the poet(s) on whom you’ve modeled your work. Add commentary as you read, describing how the elements from the model poems you’ve emulated.
- Each presentation should include some close reading from the poems you discuss in your paper.

(You may with instructor’s permission give your paper synchronously if that works better for you. And the instructor can schedule it during final week.)

Workload

As ENGL 254 is a 4-unit course, students can expect to spend a minimum of 12 hours per week doing the assigned and supplemental reading, writing, participating in in online Canvas activities (synchronous and asynchronous) expected in this seminar, and completing required course activities. Careful time management will be essential to maintain the schedule of reading and writing necessary for success in this course and to comment on work posted by other students. You are urged to read ahead in the course calendar, and read to select the poets you want to investigate to write your term-paper.

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally 3 hours per unit per week with 1 of the hours used for lecture) for instruction or preparation/studying or course related activities including but not limited to internships, labs, clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Due Dates

- Fridays after each class (weekly): Canvas discussion posts on poems read during the week with question, answers, comments, etc.
- Sept. 20 – Dec. 13: In-class close-reading presentation of poem through an ecopoetic lens. (Informal presentation in-class). Final Due Date. Dec. 13
- Oct. 4: Proposal (abstract) for your culminating research paper project or alternative creative project (250 words).
- Oct. 18: First Workshop submission date: Draft of Semester Term-Paper or Alternative Creative Assignment (in-progress) for workshop/discussion on Canvas.
- Nov. 22: Second Workshop submission date: Draft of Semester Term-Paper or Alternative Creative Assignment (in-progress) for workshop/discussion on Canvas.
• By Dec. 6: Short close-reading of an ecopoet/ecopoem paper: Due on Friday date after you give you in-class presentation.
• Dec. 17: Final Copy: Term-paper or Alternative Creative Assignment. No late papers accepted (without prior arrangement).

Grades

- 10%: Weekly Canvas Discussion participation: Contributing to (or posting questions for required 10 separate, weekly ecopoesy discussions (100 points total).
- 15% In-class close reading and of an ecopoem or two shorter ecopoems (150 points).
- 20% Short review-essay on an individual poet (or comparison/contrast of two poets (200 points).
- 20% Culminating term-paper or alternative creative project with MLA-style Works Cited list (200 points).
- 10% Posting/participation for culminating term-paper or alternative creative project Canvas discussion and in-class workshop (100 points).
- 15% Prerecorded seminar presentation posted on Canvas (150 points).
- 10% In-Class (Zoom) participation (100 points):

A NOTE ON GRADES: In English Department courses, instructors will comment on and grade the quality of student writing as well as the quality of the ideas being conveyed. All student writing should be distinguished by correct grammar and punctuation, appropriate diction and syntax, and well-organized paragraphs (stanzas).

Grades given conform to the English Department and university grading policy. The Department of English is committed to the differential grading scale as defined in the official SJSU Catalog (“The Grading System”). Grades issued must represent a full range of student performance: A = excellent; B = above average; C = average; D = below average; F = failure.

University policy requires Graduate Students to maintain a minimum 3.0 GPA to remain in good standing in their degree program.

In English Department courses, instructors will comment on and grade the quality of student writing as well as the quality of ideas being conveyed. All student writing should be distinguished by correct grammar and punctuation, appropriate diction and syntax, and well-organized paragraphs, stanzas, or poetic form. University Policies

Academic integrity

Avoiding Plagiarism: Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of somebody else’s words or ideas and is considered an instance of academic dishonesty that instructors must report. Repeated instances of plagiarism will result in a student’s expulsion from the University. You commit plagiarism by:

1. Buying, stealing, or borrowing a paper or creative work;
2. Hiring someone to write a paper or creative work;
3. Building on someone’s ideas without providing a citation;
4. Or copying from another source or using a source too closely when paraphrasing.

In other words, submit only your own work. To learn how to cite sources accurately and forthrightly, consult your handbook.

The instructor reserves the right to revise the requirements and to notify students of such revision in a timely manner, e.g., “subject to change, announced at least one class meeting in advance. Students should know that the University’s Academic Integrity Policy is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/download/judicial_affairs/Academic_Integrity_Policy_S07-2.pdf. Your own commitment to learning, as evidenced by your enrollment at San Jose State University and the University’s integrity policy, require you to be honest in all your academic course work. Faculty members are required to report all infractions to the office of Student Conduct and Ethical Development. The website for Student Conduct and Ethical Development is available at http://www.sa.sjsu.edu/judicial_affairs/index.html.

Instances of academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Cheating on exams or plagiarism (presenting the work of another as your own, or the use of another person’s ideas without giving proper credit) will result in a failing grade and sanctions by the University. For this class, all assignments are to be completed by the individual student unless otherwise specified. If you would like to include in your assignment any material you have submitted, or plan to submit for another class, please note that SJSU’s Academic Policy F06-1 requires approval of instructors.

English 254: Genres in American Literature Seminar
Course Calendar with Readings

- Frist two class meetings (before Labor Day) will be 100 percent remote learning via Zoom and Canvas.
- We have planned weekly in-person/hyflex (“Zoom-in-a-room”) synchronous seminar meetings from until Sept. 13 (or whenever the university lifts in-door mask requirements) until the end of the semester. Students may attend some or all meetings remotely Please complete the assigned readings and post comments on Canvas prior to the seminar meetings.
- The class member(s) presenting close reading/explications of a poem during the weekly meeting should post their notes, slides, etc., to Canvas (where designated) by the Friday prior to the seminar meeting.
- Post asynchronous comments and replies or questions about poems assigned on the Playlist within the week of the class meeting. (These discussions won’t be closed, but as the weeks move on, these comments, questions, etc. will be of lesser interest.)
- Class members posting prerecorded presentations should post on Canvas in the designated Discussion upload.

Before the semester starts:
- Please read the following:
  “Why Ecopoetry? There’s no Planet B,” John Shoptaw.
  “Teaching Ecopoetry at a Time of Climate Change,” Craig Santos-Perez
  “Care in such a world: Introduction,” John Felstiner (Can Poetry Save the Earth)

View This Video: Ecopoetry: A Brief Introduction

Be sure to have completed the reading before each weekly synchronous seminar meeting. This semester is about immersing yourself in reading ecopoetry and environmental poetics. The poem titles in BOLD are most likely to be cited in a synchronous seminar meeting.
