Departmental Course Description

English 7 fulfills the General Education requirements in Qualitative Reasoning (A3). This course integrates the study of reasoning with texts that express the concerns of our diverse culture, so that the student can become aware of, and sensitive to, the role of cultural and individual assumptions in reasoning.

Students will be introduced to the basic concepts of critical thinking: definition of terms, statements of assumptions, the process of inductive and deductive reasoning, distinctions between fact and opinion, use of evidence to support premises, recognition of standards of proof, common fallacies, and misleading logical and rhetorical devices. Students should be especially aware of the role that language plays in persuasive aspects of reasoning. Students will learn these skills of critical thinking by analyzing and discussing culturally oriented readings, which will be a substantial part of the course rather than incidental or supplemental to it.

University Course Goals and Student Learning Objectives (SLO)

The goal of this course is to enable students to critically analyze assumptions, evidence, and arguments in a multi-cultural context. The student learning objectives for this course as defined by general education guidelines are as follows:

SLO 1: Students should be able to locate and evaluate sources through library research, and integrate research through appropriate citation and quotation.
SLO 2: Students should be able to present effective arguments that use a full range of legitimate rhetorical and logical strategies to articulate and explain their positions on complex issues in dialog with other points of view.
SLO 3: Students should be able to effectively locate, evaluate, and synthesize evidence in a comprehensive way in support of one's ideas.
SLO 4: Students should be able to identify and critically evaluate the assumptions in and the context of an argument.
SLO 5: Students should be able to effectively distinguish and convey inductive and deductive patterns as appropriate, sequencing arguments and evidence logically to draw valid conclusions and articulate related outcomes (implications and consequences).

NOTE: The following formal assignments and exams address the following SLOs:

- Essay #1: Argument Analysis SLO: 4 and 5
- Essay #2: Editorial SLO: 2
- Essay #3: Research-Informed Argument SLO: 1-4
- Exam #1: Reasoning and Fallacies SLO: 4 and 5
- Exam #2: Argument Analysis SLO: 4 and 5
- Exam #3: Final Exam SLO: 2, 4, 5

Index cards, either 3X5 or 4X6.

Access to a computer, a printer, and an email account.

Recommended Text: A current, college-level handbook, such as The Everyday Writer, by Andrea Lunsford.

Course Content

Writing: Substantial writing assignments are to be integrated with critical thinking instruction. Writing will lead to the production of argumentative essays, with a minimum of 6000 words required, 4000 of which will receive written feedback. Students shall receive frequent evaluations from the instructor, with substantive comments that address the quality and form of writing. All writing (essays, homework assignments, in-class assignments, etc.) will be assessed for grammar, clarity, concision, and coherence.

Reading: Reading shall include useful models of arguments or position papers about issues of diversity, such as gender, class, ethnicity, and sexual orientation. Readings will also include information on the validity of deductive reasoning, the strength of inductive reasoning, and a consideration of common fallacies in both. Identification and assessment of deductive and inductive reasoning, including formal validity, and fallacies will be assessed.

Grading: A-F. See below for more details.

Professional Policies and Classroom Protocol

Because I respect you and our work, I will be on time and give you and the subject my full attention. I respect diversity of people and ideas, even when there are disagreements. Though I enjoy my work, I take it seriously, offering you constructive criticism and support on your work in class and on your assignments. I am available during my office hours so that you can see me about your work or other issues with the class. I will treat you as an adult and expect you to behave as one. The following are specific expectations I have of you:

- You will be on time to class and stay the entire time. Arriving late or leaving early will result in decreased participation points.
- All electronic devices will be turned off and stowed before entering class, unless you have an exception from the AEC. Electronic devices used during class may be confiscated for the class period.
- You will respectfully respond to both the readings and your colleagues. This class focuses on provocative and challenging readings, and sometimes you may disagree with them or your colleagues' opinions. Your challenge in this class is to voice your own opinion in a convincing yet tactful and logical manner.
- You will not talk or text while someone else is speaking. Not only is this rude, but it is distracting to those around you. If caught, your phone may be confiscated, and if this problem persists, you may be asked to leave.
- You will bring your book(s) or printed excerpts from which we have assigned readings for the day to class, or you may be asked to leave class.
- You will come to class prepared to participate, having read the assigned readings for the day, completed any homework, and prepared questions or comments about the assigned readings. Failure to do so will be evident in your participation grade.
- If you miss a class, ask a classmate what you missed, including assignments, before contacting me.
- If you miss two or more consecutive classes due to illness or other serious issues, please contact me via email to let me know as soon as possible. Even a legitimate absence can become troubling if left undisclosed too long.

Assignments and Grading Policy

There will be three essays and three exams for this class. The essays are designed to give you practice in developing your own arguments and responding to the arguments of others. You will follow MLA guidelines for formatting and citing sources, and your writing must demonstrate both an understanding of the principles of critical thinking we are studying and a command of grammar, syntax, paragraphing, and essay form. The exams are designed to assess your understanding of the concepts taught throughout the semester.

Readings: All readings must be done prior to coming to class for the day they are assigned. Be prepared to discuss the readings in class, bringing pertinent questions or making helpful comments.

Essays: There will be three essays assigned for this class.

- You will receive essay assignments in class or via email, detailing all of the requirements, including due dates and word requirements.
- Essays will follow MLA guidelines for formatting and citations; failure to follow MLA guidelines will result in point deductions.

- All essays must be turned in on time, at the beginning of the class on the day they are due. I do not accept emailed or faxed essays.
- Late essays will not be accepted for full credit.
- The penalty for late essays is a 10-point (10%) deduction for each calendar day late, until the next class meeting. After that, late essays will not be accepted and will receive a grade of F.
- In addition to turning in the hard copy of the essay, essays must be uploaded to www.turnitin.com prior to coming to class on the day they are due. Keep the emailed receipt of uploading from turnitin.com. Failure to upload the essay will result in a grade of F.
- Uploading the essay up to five days late will result in a 10-point (10%) deduction. After five days late, the essay will receive a grade of F.
- Peer-edited essays must be turned in with the final essay or there will be a 10-point (10%) deduction.

Please note: Essays will be graded with a rubric that will be discussed in class prior to the due date. Essays and rubrics will be commented upon and marked to help you improve your writing and thinking. It is your responsibility to understand all comments and show improvement in subsequent assignments. So if you don't understand the comments, please ask!

All written work (essays, reader responses, homework assignments) must demonstrate competency in the grammatical, syntactical, and mechanical conventions of Standard English in order to receive a passing grade. In this course, a grammatically, syntactically, and mechanically competent piece of writing is one that contains no more than two errors that impede clear transmission of meaning and does not repeat an error marked on a previous assignment.

Exams: There will be three exams for this class. You will receive information in class on what will be covered for each exam with ample time to study. One exam will cover deductive and inductive reasoning and fallacies. The other two exams will ask you to analyze arguments, and the final exam will ask you to assess and participate in a written debate. You will stay in class for the duration of the exam.

NOTE: Exams cannot be made up unless you provide written documentation of an emergency or compelling reason for missing the exam. You must notify me via email as soon as possible of missing an exam. Exams must be made up within one week; if not made up within one week, you will earn a zero for the exam.

There is a 48-hour waiting period to see me about an essay or exam grade.

Keep all of your graded work throughout the semester.

Workshops: The essays will be workshopped in class prior to the essay due date.

- The workshop protocol will be distributed and discussed in class prior to the first workshop.
- A completed rough draft will be finished prior to the workshop; outlines, incomplete, electronic, and/or handwritten essays are not acceptable.
- Workshops cannot be made up.

Homework: There will be homework assigned every week in class or via email.

- You will bring a question and/or thoughtful comment on the readings for every class meeting that has assigned readings, written on an index card.

- All other homework must be typed and turned in on time by the due date and will be used for class participation.
- Homework cannot be made up.

Class Participation: Your presence in class is necessary for participation. Class participation will be made up of in-class exercises, quizzes, and discussions based on the readings and homework. Class participation and homework are assessed on a point basis. Points are cumulative for the semester, and will be turned into a letter grade by dividing the number of points earned by the total number of points possible. Points will vary each class period, based on activities and homework assignments. See the scale below for attributes of different grade levels:

- A = Regular, helpful questions and comments; fully engaged; all tasks completed fully, accurately, and demonstrates competent writing;
- B = Occasional, pertinent questions and comments; good listening; all tasks completed; demonstrates competent writing, though may contain a minor error;
- C = Infrequent, tangential questions or comments; attentiveness questionable; most tasks completed; demonstrates fair writing, perhaps including a major error or a few minor errors;
- D = Rare interaction; disengaged from discussion; not prepared for class; tasks incomplete; demonstrates weak writing, including several errors;
- F = Regularly absent, physically or mentally; tasks incomplete or mismanaged; demonstrates weak writing, including errors that impede meaning.

In-class activities cannot be made up if you miss a class, regardless of the reason.

There is no extra credit for this class.

Grading System to Determine Course Grades

Essay #1: Argument Analysis	1500 words	10%
Essay #2: Argument/Editorial	750 words	12%
Essay #3: Research-informed Argument	1250 words	20%
Exam #1: Deductive and Inductive Reasoning and Fallacies	500 words	8%
Exam #2: Argument Analysis	1000 words	10%
Exam #3 (Final): Debate Analysis, Assessment, and Participation	1000 words	25%
Class Participation and Homework:	variable	15%

Grading: A-F, based on a percent scale: 93-100=A, 90-92=A-, 87-89=B+, 83-86=B, 80-82=B-, 77-79=C+, 73-76=C, 70-72=C-, 67-69=D+, 63-66=D, 60-62=D-, 0=59=F.

The Department of English reaffirms its commitment to the differential grading scale as defined in the official SJSU Catalog (“The Grading System”). Grades issued must represent a full range of student performance: A = excellent; B = above average; C = average; D = below average; F = failure.

The following are the criteria by which essays are typically evaluated in first-year writing and writing-intensive courses:

An “A” essay is organized and well-developed, demonstrating a clear understanding and fulfillment of the assignment, written in a unique and compelling voice. It will show the student’s ability to use language effectively with a solid command of grammar, mechanics, and usage.

A “B” essay demonstrates competence in the same categories as an “A” essay, but it may show slight weakness in one of these areas. It will respond to the topic suitably and may contain some grammatical, mechanical, or usage errors.

A “C” essay will complete the requirements of the assignment, but it will show weaknesses in fundamentals, such as development. It may show weakness in mastery of grammar, mechanics, usage, or voice.

A “D” essay will neglect to meet all the requirements of the assignment or may be superficial in its treatment of the topic. It may lack development or fail to stay on topic. It may contain grammatical, mechanical, and/or usage errors that interfere with reader comprehension.

An “F” essay does not fulfill the requirements of the assignment.

SJSU Writing Center

The SJSU Writing Center is located in Clark Hall, Suite 126. All Writing Specialists have gone through a rigorous hiring process, and they are well trained to assist all students at all levels within all disciplines to become better writers.
