GE Area A3 Course Description

In critical thinking courses, students will understand logic and its relationship to language. Courses include a series of integrated reading, writing, oral, and research assignments that engage students in complex issues requiring critical thinking and effective argumentation. Students will develop language that distinguishes fact and judgment; articulates elementary inductive and deductive processes; parses fact, assumption and conclusion; integrates rebuttal and qualification as appropriate. Students will develop the ability to analyze, criticize, and advocate complex ideas, reason inductively and deductively, research and rebut information and arguments, and reach well-supported factual conclusions and judgments.

ENGL 2 Course Description

General Course Description

English 2 focuses on the relationship between language and logic in composing arguments. Students develop strategies that incorporate critical reading and thinking skills into the writing process. Drawing on systems of analysis from rhetorical theorists and logicians (for instance, Aristotle, Rogers, and Toulmin, among others), students learn systematic reasoning so that they can lay out premises clearly, provide evidence, and draw valid conclusions. Reading a variety of texts, students study conventions of formal writing as well as textual cues that control the development of logical inferences.

Section-Specific Course Description

The theme of the class is “Arguing on and around Campus.” You will read and write about hot topics covered in the on-campus periodical, Spartan Daily. Using the terms and concepts expounded in Everything’s An Argument you will analyze the arguments produced by your fellow Spartans and judge how effective student writers are at supporting their claims. What makes a piece persuasive and/or convincing? In addition you will participate in a field study of an activist group and evaluate its methods – whether positive or negative – of argumentation. Is the group able to garner support for its cause and initiate change, or is its argument too laden with activist jargon? During this project, and over the course of the semester, you will also consider the terms “compassion fatigue,” “armchair philanthropy” and “slacktivism,” and in doing so determine if “traditional” activism continues to thrive on college campuses.

ENGL 2 Learning Outcomes

GE Area A3 Learning Outcomes (GELO)

Students will demonstrate, orally and in writing, proficiency in the Area of A3 Learning Objectives. Students will be able to

1. locate and evaluate sources, through library research, and integrate research through appropriate citation and quotation;
2. present effective arguments that use a full range of legitimate rhetorical and logical strategies to articulate and explain their positions on complex issues in dialogue with other points of view;
3. effectively locate, interpret, evaluate, and synthesize evidence in a comprehensive way in support of one’s ideas;
4. identify and critically evaluate the assumptions in and the context of an argument;
5. effectively distinguish and convey inductive and deductive patterns as appropriate, sequencing arguments and evidence logically to draw valid conclusions and articulate related outcomes (implications and consequences).

ENGL 2 Course Learning Outcomes (CLO)

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to

1. discuss complex ideas clearly, logically, persuasively;

2. state a clear position while taking into account other points of view, integrating both qualification and rebuttal as appropriate;
3. identify the different kinds of argument and the kinds of evidence appropriate to each one;
4. integrate research logically and ethically; analyzing, interpreting, synthesizing, and documenting information and ideas gleaned from reliable sources;
5. use appropriate paragraph and essay conventions to organize arguments into clear, readable logical sequences that are both coherent and persuasive;
6. control syntax, grammar, and punctuation to develop prose that is readable, logical, and clear;
7. identify formal argumentative structures (warrants, evidence, qualification, rebuttal, enthymemes and syllogisms) and distinguish common logical fallacies;
8. draw and assess inferences and recognize distinctions among assumptions, facts, inferences, and opinions.

ENGL 2 Course Content

Diversity:

SJSU studies include an emphasis on diversity. Students will engage in integrated reading, writing, and oral assignments to construct their own arguments on complex issues (such as diversity and ethnicity, class and social equity) that generate meaningful public debate. Readings for the course will include writers from different ethnicities, gender, and class.

Writing:

Students will write a series of essays informed by research and articulating fully developed arguments about complex issues. Assignments emphasize those skills and activities in writing and thinking that produce the persuasive argument and the critical essay, each of which demands analysis, interpretation, and evaluation. Writing assignments give students repeated practice in prewriting, organizing, writing, revising, and editing. This class requires a minimum of 6000 words, at least 4000 of which must be in revised final draft form. Assignments include both inclass writing as well as revised out-of-class essays.

Logic:

Students will learn methods of argument analysis, both rhetorical and logical, that will allow them to

- distinguish denotation from connotation, abstract from concrete, literal from inferential;
- identify logical structures (such as warrants, evidence, qualification, rebuttal; enthymemes and syllogisms) and distinguish common logical fallacies;
- recognize and evaluate assumptions underlying an argument;
- draw and assess inferences and recognize distinctions among assumptions, facts, inferences and opinions;

- distinguish the role of audience, context, and purpose in shaping argumentation strategies;
- evaluate rhetorical appeals to understand the role of emotion and ethos in relation to logic as part of effective argumentation.

Oral:

Students will present a multimodal group project about the substance of claims being made by a well-established activist group. The assignment will be graded on content, presentation and the effectiveness of the analysis conducted. In addition, each student will give a short presentation on one of the top twenty mistakes in student writing found in The Everyday Writer.

Reading:

Students will learn about different types of and approaches to formal and informal argumentation via specified readings in Everything's An Argument (required textbook) and The World Is A Text (readings posted on CANVAS). The terms and concepts addressed in the readings will then be applied to analyses of articles and illustrations from Spartan Daily and other publications.

Research:

ENGL 2 includes a library orientation conducted or approved by a trained librarian to introduce the library and basic research strategies that students will need to complete upper-division coursework, including locating materials, using them effectively (e.g., quoting, paraphrasing, summarizing), and citing them properly.

Required Texts/Readings Textbook

Lunsford, Andrea, and John Ruszkiewicz. Everything's An Argument. 6th ed. Bedford: New York, 2013.

- Print Edition: ISBN #978-1-4576-0606-9; available at the Spartan Bookstore
- Electronic edition is available online at Bedford/St. Martin's (www.bedfordstmartins.com)

Other Readings

For the course students will be required to pick up copies of the on-campus periodical, the Spartan Daily. In addition they will be asked to print out articles and illustrations from other news outlets. For the argumentative essay students will need to incorporate secondary sources. Before conducting research, students will be given a tour of the library (library orientation) tailored to meet the demands of the essay prompt.

ENGL 2 Course Requirements and Assignments

SJSU classes are designed such that in order to be successful, it is expected that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week), including preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf>.

Grading Policy

1000-900 = A

899-800 = B

799-700 = C

699-600 = D

599 and lower = F

- “A” essay: To receive an “A” you must fulfill the requirements of the prompt. You must be able to discern what is being asked and to answer accordingly. In addition your writing should demonstrate your ability to form well-organized paragraphs with precise use of syntax, diction and grammar. The “A” essay should show syntactic variation, correct implementation of idiomatic expressions, and careful attention to punctuation. Where applicable, you must have a clear thesis statement and textual support of your claims. Where applicable, you must effectively incorporate secondary sources into your essay.
- “B” essay: To receive a “B” you must fulfill the requirements of the prompt. You must be able to discern what is being asked and to answer accordingly. In addition your writing should demonstrate your ability to form well-organized paragraphs with mostly correct use of syntax, diction and grammar. The “B” essay may show less syntactic variation, etc. Where applicable, you must have a locatable thesis statement. Where applicable, you must effectively incorporate secondary sources into your essay.
- “C” essay: To receive a “C” you must show an understanding of the prompt and an effort to answer accordingly. The “C” paper may demonstrate some weakness in structure as well as syntax, diction and grammar. Where applicable, your thesis may be harder to locate, but because of the points made throughout your essay, it should be implicit. Where applicable, you must incorporate secondary sources into your essay.

- “D” essay: To receive a “D” you have neglected at least part of the prompt. Because you have skipped through the first stages of the writing process, your ideas and structure lack cohesion.

Your essay is likely short or repetitive, evincing lack of development. Grammatically, it is inconsistent. Where applicable, you have neglected to form a satisfactory thesis statement.

- “F” essay: To receive an “F” you have neglected at least part of the prompt. Your essay is likely to appear as pre-writing, lacking clarity, structure and correct use of grammatical forms. It is replete in mechanical and usage errors. The “F” essay will be without focus and, inevitably, without a thesis statement. Secondary sources will not have been effectively incorporated into your essay.

Grading Information:

- Essays will be marked in accordance with the grade descriptions listed above.
- There will be NO options for extra credit in the class.
- Unless otherwise clarified with me, NO late work will be accepted.

You will receive up to 100 points for participation. Points will be awarded based on your contributions to: class discussions, in-class workshops, and group work. Although attendance per se shall not be used as a criterion for grading according to University Policy F-69-24 located at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/F69-24.pdf>, it is nevertheless imperative that you are present to complete the participation requirements of the class.

Assignment Information:

Diagnostic Essay: This is a timed in-class essay meant to demonstrate your critical thinking and writing skills. It is the only piece of writing for the class that will NOT be graded.

Quizzes: Over the course of the semester you will be given five quizzes to ensure that you stay on track with your reading.

Movie Review: For the movie review you will be asked to determine and analyze the system of values represented in a given movie. You will then evaluate the movie for an audience of SJSU students. In preparation for this assignment, you will engage in a number of readings from The World Is A Text.

Multimodal Group Project: For this project you will be separated into groups. Using what you’ve learned about logical appeals as well as inductive and deductive reasoning, you will 1) pick an activist group to research and evaluate, 2) conduct a rhetorical analysis of the group’s website, 3) evaluate the effectiveness of the activist group’s argument/claims. You will present your analysis in a multimodal presentation. In addition you will compose a proposal in which you advocate or oppose the group’s presence on the SJSU campus.

You will be graded in two areas:

- Group Presentation:
  - o Does the presentation meet the requirements of the prompt, e.g. is it a complete, detailed rhetorical analysis?
  - o Does each group member contribute EQUALLY to the overall presentation? (*Note: Peer evaluations will reveal if someone hasn't done his/her share.)
    - o Is the presentation convincing, e.g. does the audience (instructor and classmates) believe in you and your claims?
- Proposal Essay:
  - o How effectively do you state and support your argument? Does your proposal appeal to your audience? If you're arguing for the presence of the activist group on campus, do you also acknowledge the potential pitfalls of student involvement? If you're arguing against the presence of the activist group on campus, do you acknowledge the importance of freedom of expression and student awareness and involvement?

Argumentative Essay: Having composed different analyses, you will now be required to defend your own stance. If "Everything's An Argument," you're used to making claims. But are you used to supporting them and convincing/persuading your audience(s)? Can you support your claims through emotional, ethical and logical appeals? Can you understand and acknowledge other points of view? Can you structure your arguments to gain interest, trust and support? And can you effectively cite credible sources to back what you're saying? You will be given a detailed prompt as the assignment approaches.

Grammar Presentation: You will give a presentation and provide a handout on one of the top twenty mistakes in student writing. Before delving into this assignment, we will go over all of the grammatical errors together as a class.

Portfolio: Your portfolio will include: each of your essay drafts and revisions (movie review, proposal, and argument) as well as your reflection (see below).

Portfolio: Reflection: This is a short written reflection in which you detail your writing process and walk your reader through one of your revisions.

Final Exam: This exam will cover topics from the five quizzes. If you have not done the readings and participated in class discussions, it will be very difficult to pass this exam.

Classroom Protocol

Cell Phones: I ask that you keep cell phones in your purse or bag. Cell phone usage during class time may lower your participation grade.

Leaving the classroom: You do not need permission to leave the classroom. Please note, however, that prolonged or recurrent absences during class may lower your participation grade.
