Course Format
This section of ENGL 100WB meets in person twice a week at the above days and times. The course requires access to a tablet, laptop or desktop computer and to the Internet. We use Canvas for course materials, activities, assignments and communication. You are responsible for regularly checking the Canvas course website, Canvas messages and your SJSU email. Your enrollment in the course guarantees your enrollment in our Canvas course website:
https://sjsu.instructure.com/courses/1486784

If you encounter technical difficulties, contact SJSU's eCampus technical support: 408-924-2337.

SJSU has a free equipment loan program available for students. For more information, please see the Learn Anywhere website: https://www.sjsu.edu/learnanywhere/

Course Description
This hands-on course is designed to simulate actual business communication scenarios (oral and written) that are encountered by business professionals daily during the course of their careers. Assignments will enable students to practice and immediately apply both practical and theoretical aspects of organizational communication directly in real-life work situations. Communication mechanics and style (practical), and the appropriateness of messages and methods based on specific organizational situations (theoretical) will be emphasized. NOTE: This written communications course for business majors includes a minimum of 8,000 words of writing over the length of the semester.

Course Goals and GE Learning Outcomes (GELO) for 100W

Upon successful completion of this GE course, students will be able to:

- LO1: Produce discipline-specific written work that demonstrates upper-division proficiency in language use, grammar, and clarity of expression.
- LO2: Explain, analyze, develop, and critique ideas effectively, including ideas encountered in multiple readings and expressed in different forms of discourse;
- LO3: Organize and develop complete discipline-specific texts and other documents for both professional and general audiences, using appropriate editorial and citation standards; and
- LO4: Locate, organize, and synthesize information effectively to accomplish a specific purpose, and to communicate that purpose in writing.

Additional Course Learning Outcomes for ENGL 100WB

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Create texts and make presentations that are appropriate for a variety of audiences and situations.
- Analyze organizational and rhetorical situations in business communications and employ appropriate strategies for communicating based on audience, purpose, and context.
- Identify and explain genres and written and visual conventions used in business communications.
- Participate in both intra-organizational communication as well as communications with others outside of the organization.
- Explain the role of ethics in business communications.
- Understand the role of collaboration in business communications.
- Use photos, illustrations and other tools as appropriate in business communication.
- Communicate complex data.
- Understand the basic principles for document layout and design.
- Adapt a text to meet the needs of varying audiences.

Expectations

Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally three hours per unit per week) for instruction, preparation/studying, or course related activities, including but not limited to internships, labs, and clinical practica. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.

Required Texts, Readings, Materials

Other Readings and Materials: Online readings, videos and podcasts will be posted in Canvas.
Highly Recommended (but Optional)

- Grammar usage reference such as The Everyday Writer by Andrea A. Lunsford, 5th edition, Bedford St. Martin’s, ISBN 978-1-4576-1266-4
- Dictionary AND Thesaurus
- Join Spartan Toastmasters http://2113833.toastmastersclubs.org
- Join a professional career development and/or networking organization

Assignments

In this course, you’ll be responsible for online and in-class assignments, six major out-of-class assignments, including a final presentation. You’ll also be completing drafts of work and participating in reviews of your peers’ work. Detailed assignment descriptions and due dates are on the Canvas class website.

Major Assignments

Professional Biography (400 words): 100 points (LO1, 3, 4)
Correspondence Packet (500 words): 125 points (LO1, 2, 3, 4)
Promotional Materials (1,750 words): 175 points (LO1, 2, 3, 4)
Employment Documents (1,250 words): 150 points (LO1, 2, 3, 4)
Elevator Pitch and Proposal Report (1,650 words): 175 points (LO1, 2, 3, 4)
Final Proposal Report Presentation: 100 points (LO1, 2, 3)

Peer Reviews: (3, 15 points each) 45 points (LO2, 4)
Chapter Quizzes: (15, 5 points each) 75 points (LO1, 2)
Grammar Quiz: 30 points (LO1, 4)
Final Reflection (250 words): 25 points (LO2, 4)

Assignment Submission

You will submit major assignments via Canvas. All work should be submitted on time, and you are responsible for ensuring that I receive work. To avoid a late penalty, submit your final major assignments by the due date and time.

Peer Reviews

For peer reviews, you should have a complete or almost-complete draft of the assignment. Peer reviews will take place during class times. If you do not bring drafts, you may still sit in on your review, but you will not receive points for that peer review workshop. I will not be taking up and commenting on peer-reviewed drafts, though I will make sure you have a complete draft. Your peers will truly be your colleagues in this respect. However, if you would like me to look over a draft and comment, you are welcome to meet with me during office hours or set up a time for Zoom chat.

Quizzes

Quizzes cover assigned readings and will be completed on the Canvas class website. All quizzes are multiple choice, open book and note, and are timed (15 minutes). You may take each quiz twice. Quiz questions are randomly drawn from a pool of questions, so every quiz is different. They are designed to encourage students to read the textbook and familiarize them with the materials. Canvas quizzes will close the night before we begin covering the material (Mondays at 11:59 p.m.). See Canvas for closing dates.
Final Evaluation

The final evaluation for this class is a 5-minute Final Proposal Report Presentation. Presentations will be given during the final examination period: December 9, 2:45–5 p.m.

Grading Information

The department of English reaffirms its commitment to the differential grading scale defined in the SJSU Catalog (“The Grading System”). Grades issued must represent a full range of student performance: A = excellent; B = above average; C= average; D= below average; F = failure.

Per university policy, 100WB must be passed with a C or better to satisfy the SJSU graduation requirement.

1,000 pts total
A: 940 pts and above
A-: 939-900 pts
B+: 899-870 pts
B: 869-840 pts
B-: 839-800 pts
C+: 799-770 pts
C: 769-740 pts > Meets the SJSU graduation requirement
C-: 739-700 pts
D+: 699-670 pts
D: 669-640 pts
D-: 639-600pts
F: 599 and below is a failing grade

It is your responsibility to check regularly throughout the semester for discrepancies between what you believe your grade to be and what I have official posted. Any concerns you have about your grade, including final grades, should be brought to my attention immediately and no later than seven days after a grade has been posted.

Grading Criteria

In your texts, I look at six major categories:

1. Rhetorical/Contextual Awareness: The criterion on which all others are judged. Students are expected to demonstrate a clear awareness of the rhetorical situation and the context into which they are writing. This includes a demonstrated awareness of purpose, audience, message, constraints (legal, ethical), power structures (hierarchy), etc. In all aspects of grading, awareness of rhetorical/contextual ideas will be most important. For example, a student may write a letter that uses several supporting sources. However, if the audience for that letter has reason to distrust those sources and thus would be not persuaded by them, then the student has not used appropriate support.

2. Focus: Students are expected to maintain a clear and specific focus in their texts, and that focus should be clear to the reader (in some cases, it is stated directly). All supporting details should adhere to this focus.

3. Structure and Organization: Students should structure and organize their texts appropriately. The appropriate structure and organization will depend on the type of text the student is creating and will sometimes be outlined by the assignment itself, or by the reading in the textbook.

4. Development and Support: Students should provide appropriate levels of development and support in their texts. Development simply means that there is an appropriate amount of detail for the rhetorical/contextual situation. For example, an average person may not need an explanation of the technical details of a new platform, but the UX designer for that new platform certainly would need those details. Support refers to backing up claims made in the text by using additional sources (i.e., not just asking someone to take your word for it). These sources could be anything from personal experience, photos or illustrations, to academic articles—the type of sources you use will largely be determined by your audience and purpose.

5. Style: Students should maintain an appropriate style for their texts, based on the rhetorical and contextual situation. Style refers to the way something is written, presented or created. Sometimes you’ll change or vary your style depending on your organization’s style or your relationship with the audience. Style may also refer to the way you present the information. If you’re going for a playful, informal style, you may include a meme in your presentation, whereas if that’s not appropriate for your formal presentation, you may stick with graphs and charts.

6. Formatting and Mechanics: Though formatting and mechanics is the last grading criterion, students are still expected to use appropriate formatting and mechanics. Readers in professional environments will expect texts to look the way they are “supposed” to. For example, when you send a memo to your co-workers, they might be confused if it doesn’t look like the memo. They may then throw it away, thinking it is just junk mail. Similarly, if you send a correspondence that is riddled with mechanical errors, a reader may become frustrated. Keep in mind, distracting mechanical errors are different than just a forgotten comma—these errors are consistent and often interrupt the flow of the text or impede the readers’ ability to understand the text.

An “A” text is excellent. It demonstrates mastery of the skills for that unit and exceeds expectations in each of the six grading criterion.

A “B” range essay demonstrates competence in the same criteria as an “A” essay, but it may show slight weakness in one of these areas.

A “C” range essay will complete the requirements of the assignment, but it may show weakness in a few of the major criteria (or some weakness in criterion 1).

A “D” range essay will neglect to meet all the requirements of the assignment or will completely disregard the rhetorical/contextual situation (criterion 1).

An “F” range essay does not fulfill the requirements of the assignment.

Classroom Policies

Over the course of your professional career, you will hone the communication skills you will learn in this class. My goal is that you complete the course feeling like a stronger writer, prepared for the many types of business scenarios and communications you’ll encounter in the future.

Participation: Participating in all course activities is required. Our class materials and activities comprise a course of study in the practice of business writing and communication. I ask that you take seriously readings and assignments, the work of your peers, and your own work. If you cannot attend class, please send me a note so I know you’re okay—and so I know if you need to arrange late work (see “Arranging late work” below).
Classroom conduct: Be kind to each other. You are to treat the instructor and your classmates courteously and with respect. Keep in mind that we likely come from different backgrounds, honor different belief systems, have access to different tools, struggle with different concepts, and excel at different tasks and responsibilities. And that’s okay. Sleeping, watching Netflix, checking Instagram, reading, working on assignments for another class, listening to music during class, etc., are not permitted.

Your preferred name and how you identify: Please let me know the name you go by so I will know to call you by that name. I also invite you to let me know the personal pronouns you use. I identify with the pronouns she, her and hers.

Arranging late work: In the event that extenuating circumstances prevent you from meeting a due date, send me an email up to 24 hours before an assignment comes due—I must receive your message at least 24 hours in advance. In your message, propose an alternative date that is no more than five working days from the official due date. Choose wisely. I will not accept work from you after the date you have set for yourself. Be aware that 1) late assignments will be given a 20% deduction from the final grade and 2) I may reject your proposal if I find that you routinely submit work late and are struggling to keep pace with the rest of the class.

No-questions-asked late pass: Each student gets one no-questions-asked pass for an assignment submitted up to three days late. If/when you wish to use this pass, please let me know. This pass does not apply to scheduled in-class peer reviews or presentations.

Questions about grades: I recommend that you regularly check your progress in this course and contact me if you have any questions, especially if you find a discrepancy between the record on Canvas and what you believe your grade to be. Send me any questions that you have about a specific grade no later than seven days after I have posted grades on Canvas.

Contacting the instructor: I am always happy to arrange a time to speak with you about assignments, grades or anything else. To contact me, you may use Canvas email or the email address listed above. These are the best ways to reach me. Please use proper email netiquette, including using an informative subject line and a clear articulation of your question, comment or concern. I will do my best to respond to emails as soon as possible. Emails received after 5 p.m. may not be answered until the next day.

University Policies

Per University Policy S16-9, university-wide policy information relevant to all courses, such as academic integrity, accommodations, etc. is available on Office of Graduate and Undergraduate Programs’ Syllabus Information page: http://www.sjsu.edu/gup/syllabusinfo/

Student Resources and Support

Jack Holland Student Success Center, Boccardo Business Center (BBC) 008

All Lucas Graduate School and College of Business students and interested students are invited to use the center for general education advising, help with changing majors, academic policy related questions, meeting with peer advisors, and/or attending various regularly scheduled presentations and workshops. Call or email for an appointment: 408-924-3435, jackholland-center@sjsu.edu. You may also visit the center’s website: sjsu.edu/lcobssc

SJSU Writing Center

The SJSU Writing Center in Clark Hall, Room 126 is staffed by professional instructors and upper-division or graduate-level writing specialists from each of the nine SJSU colleges. The writing specialists have met a rigorous GPA requirement, and they are well trained to assist all students at all levels within all disciplines to become better writers. More information available at sjsu.edu/writingcenter.

Library Liaison

Ms. Jane Dodge is your reference librarian. Her contact information is 408-808-2422 and jane.dodge@sjsu.edu. Bookmark the King Library website (http://library.sjsu.edu/) if you have not already. If Ms. Dodge is not available, use the Ask A Librarian feature (located at http://library.sjsu.edu/ask-librarian-0) to chat with an on-call reference librarian even when the library is closed. For immediate assistance with any research related question, call 1-408-808-2100 during business hours.
