"Our mission is to advance the field of global leadership and disseminate best practices to help students, managers and organizations function more effectively in today's international work settings."

Co-curricular Education

The Global Leadership Passport Program assesses global leadership skills in an undergraduate course open to all SJSU students and then steers them to campus courses, programs, speaker series, and experiences that will allow them to continue developing themselves. As Global Leadership Passport Fellows, outstanding students will participate in mentoring and internships with global firms and organizations.

GLLab

The Global Leadership Laboratory develops global skills in SJSU students, visiting university groups, and external groups via assessment, training, coaching, mentoring, experiential learning, and social innovation/business projects. The GLLab works in conjunction with external partners to research the best methods for training global leaders and will host annual Best Practices Workshops for HR personnel.

Social Innovation Initiative

This initiative leverages the symbiotic relationship among San Jose State University, social entrepreneurs, the city of San Jose, foundations, and other innovation organizations to encourage and train people to apply technology and innovation for the good of the local community.

Research

The center promotes cutting-edge research via annual symposia, best article and dissertation awards, and website resources. GLAC's web site presents a bibliographic resource list of global leadership research and developmental activities for researchers, teachers and trainers.

Global Leadership Advancement Center

Joyce Osland, Executive Director, Lucas Endowed Professor of Global Leadership

Jeffrey Gaines, Assistant Director

Richard Okumoto, Global Leader-In-Residence
