

Isa Zhou

Student Ambassador

Isa is currently a second-year student pursuing a degree in biomedical engineering at SJSU. What intrigues Isa about bio-medical engineering is its dynamic and ever-evolving nature. It's a field where you must continuously adapt and revise your knowledge and assumptions. Speaking of adaptability, Isa has had the privilege of being a part of HonorsX, a completely new program where students' input holds significant sway in its development. Embracing this program requires a level of comfort with spontaneity, which, in turn, has equipped Isa with the skills needed for quick critical thinking and decision-making in various situations.
