Call for Applications:
SJSU HRI 2022 Aris Anagnos Graduate Student Scholarship for Human Rights Research
($2000 total - $1k fall and spring semester)

The Aris Anagnos Graduate Student Scholarship for Human Rights Research is a new, annual scholarship from the SJSU HRI meant to support graduate research in the field of human rights. Eligible applicants must be enrolled full or part time as a graduate student at SJSU in the 2022-23 AY, and must have an interest in human rights scholarship, advocacy and/or reporting.

How to Apply:

Please apply by April 1st, 2022 via the general Spartan Scholarships here:

https://sjsu.academicworks.com/users/sign_in. The scholarship recipient will be announced at the 2022 HRI/ISSSSC Spring Research Colloquium on Human Rights and Social Change, on April 28th (10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. PST). For more information on the Colloquium, including student submission and attendee registration, please see here: <https://express.adobe.com/page/y0EhA2C7ryUr1/>. Further, the recipient will be expected to present the findings of their research project at the following Spring Research Colloquium (April 2023).

Applicants will need to provide the following in their applications:

- A summary of your research design. This summary should include (a) your journalistic or scholarly research questions, (b) the relevance of your project to human rights scholarship/advocacy, (c) a brief description of research methods, (d) how you plan to disseminate or utilize your results to inform our understanding or solutions to a specific human rights crisis.
- Who is the faculty advisor for your human rights related research project? What will they offer and what role will they play in the process? Please note that all proposals must include an SJSU faculty advisor. Students might consider working under their Thesis Chair (or committee member) or a professor teaching coursework or conducting research that relates to their project.
- How will this work contribute to attaining your graduate degree at SJSU, and further your career goals following graduation?

Any and all questions and concerns regarding the Aris Anagnos Graduate Scholarship for Human Rights Research should please be directed to william.armaline@sjsu.edu and miranda.worthen@sjsu.edu.

Sincerely,
