Required Readings:

Woods, Johanson, and Sciarini: Managing Hospitality Human Resources (5th edition).

American Hotel and Lodging Association.

Class Notes:

- The course will primarily focus on HR functions through readings, case studies, guest speakers, class activities and/or assignments. Writing and speaking skills will be evaluated on the basis of insight, synergy, and completeness.
- Most of the class sessions will be discussion-based with ample opportunity for students to provide their input to those discussions. Students are expected to stay abreast of current topics and events related to human resource management as found in academic and trade journals, newspapers, and magazines.
- Students must create an account at www.hotelbusiness.com to receive industry news.
- This course is designed to provide both classroom instruction and Case study analysis. We will meet one class per week for lecture and class discussion. The other day per week will provide an opportunity for you to complete group assignments and case studies.
- Classroom protocol: Students will be expected to conduct themselves professionally in the classroom. Students are expected to be prepared for class by having read the assigned materials and to participate in all discussions regarding the topic. It is expected that you will arrive on time for all class meetings and labs, come prepared with work done in advance when needed, take notes throughout lectures, put away and turn cell phones silent, and use laptops for course work only. If you need to leave early from class or lab, let Alice Southwell know in advance.
- You are responsible for regularly checking with the messaging system through Canvas.
- Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of forty-five hours over the length of the course.

This would include preparing for class, participating in course activities, and completing assignments/projects/labs. Generally this will amount to 3 hours a week outside of class.

Additional Notes on the Written Course Assignments

- A. Written assignments have students name on first page – clear & legible.
- B. Keep a copy for your records all assignments submitted for grading or review.
- C. Points will be deducted from all assignments for poor spelling, grammar, sentence structure, neatness, and lack of substantive content.
- D. Great learning experiences come from insightful reflection with text exercises and active and engaged dialog with peers. Class requires students to think critically and demonstrate professional decorum while examining HR issues.
- E. No assignments accepted via e-mail. Canvas required method of delivery.
- F. In fairness to students who submit work on time, late assignments will not be accepted without prior instructor approval.
- G. There will be no make-up assignments, or exams given.
