

AN INTRODUCTION

In Fall 2004, the California Administrative Office of the Courts piloted the JusticeCorps AmeriCorps program in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County. Based on the success of JusticeCorps Los Angeles, JusticeCorps Bay Area members began serving in the fall of 2006, and in San Diego in 2007.

JusticeCorps Bay Area recruits undergraduate and graduate students as well as college graduates to serve in court-based legal access self-help centers serving individuals and their families who come to court without professional representation.

JUSTICECORPS BAY AREA

JusticeCorps Bay Area will recruit 70 students from the University of California at Berkeley, California State University East Bay, San Francisco State University, San Jose State University and Stanford University to work in self-help centers in the Superior Courts of Alameda, San Francisco, San Mateo and Santa Clara Counties.

JusticeCorps also has fellowship positions available for college graduates.

AS A MEMBER

JusticeCorps members' daily activities may include:

- Providing litigants with legal information
- Assisting litigants in completing legal paperwork
- In-court assistance to litigants
- Providing litigants referrals to appropriate legal resources
- Assisting in attorney-facilitated workshops
- Translation

JusticeCorps members will:

- Commit to serve 300 hours in one academic year (approximately 8-10 hours per week)
- Receive a $1,132 education award upon completion of their term
- Receive over 40 hours of training (included in the 300 hour service requirement) including specialized training in specific areas of law, professionalism, cultural competency, domestic violence and civic engagement

JusticeCorps fellows will:

- Commit to a year of full-time service (1,700 hours)
- Receive a $5,550 education award upon completion of their term.
- Earn a stipend of up to $20,000 plus health benefits.

Other special opportunities for JusticeCorps members may include:

- Shadow days with Superior Court Judicial Officers
- Career days
- Courtroom observation
- Letters of recommendation to law school and graduate school, and much more

THE NEED

California is experiencing an explosion in the number of individuals appearing before the Court without professional legal representation on a variety of matters from family law to housing. California courts report up to 90 percent self-representation rates in family law and housing-related cases.

In all, over 4.3 million California court users are self-represented. The majority of these individuals do not obtain legal representation because they cannot afford it.

Resources available to meet the needs of these self-represented individuals are sorely lacking. In fact, the ratio of un-represented litigants to legal aid attorneys in California is 10,000 to one.

Inability to resolve legal matters jeopardizes litigants' abilities to secure safe, affordable housing, to overcome barriers to employment, to obtain guardianships, and to avoid domestic violence and elder abuse.

FOR ADDITIONAL INFO CONTACT:

Dan Siskind, Bay Area Program Coordinator
dsiskind@alameda.courts.ca.gov
510-891-6406

or

Monica Porter, Bay Area Program Specialist
mporter@alameda.courts.ca.gov
510-891-6403

JusticeCorps Program
Superior Court of Alameda County
<http://www.courts.ca.gov/programs-justicecorps.htm>

JusticeCorps Bay Area
Offers Meaningful Community Service
Opportunities for students and college graduates interested in helping others while learning about law and the court system.