Course Description

This course will generally concern itself with examination of the drug problem, particularly as it relates to practitioners in criminal justice and health sciences. Class participants will be exposed to areas of drug classification, identification, pharmacology, and current trends. Current research in the field of chemical dependency will be presented.

This course will also deal to a large extent with the physical, psychological, social and legal ramifications of drug abuse and addiction; including areas of enforcement, education, recovery, and treatment. Students will be introduced to such treatment modalities as: local community based drug treatment programs, narcotic replacement therapies, and recovery peer support groups. Other areas of concern will include the study of decriminalization, harm reduction, and legalization

Course Objectives

Students will acquire a basic knowledge of drugs, their classifications, and identification of drug use. Students will become familiar with current social problems precipitated by drug abuse and addiction, including areas of intervention and treatment. Students will also gain insight into the reasons why people abuse drugs and how society and the criminal justice system respond to such abuse. Students will gain an understanding of contemporary drug laws, such as Proposition 36, designed not only to reduce drug abuse, but to also treat individuals who are chemically dependent.

A critique of the movie "Traffic" is also an option. Lastly, students may write a family alcohol and/or drug history. A detailed explanation is attached. The field papers will expose students to outside programs that greatly assist substance-abusing individuals in remaining clean and sober. The last two options will allow students to either reflect on Hollywood's view of the War on Drugs, or explore their own family history.

- ❖ Several times during the semester, there may be an opportunity to attend a Drug Court Graduation. Information will be distributed in class as to the date, time and location.
- ❖ At least one of the required papers must include actively participating attending a 12-Step meeting, a Drug Court graduation, or interviewing a Substance Abuse Program director or staff.

Spelling or grammatical errors will result in point deductions.
