Course Description
Identification, discussion, and analysis of selected problems in justice studies. A major term paper on a selected topic is required.

Course Format
In person

Course Learning Outcomes (CLO)
Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to [CLO1-5] :
1. Demonstrate their ability to complete a formal research paper that (a) synthesizes relevant scholarly sources; (b) reflects professional formatting and writing standards (APA format); (c) addresses relevant policy needs (such as necessary reforms) to solving tangible social problems; (d) somehow contributes to our collective understanding of concepts and approaches to "justice," however defined (social justice, criminal justice, community justice, and so forth).

2. Demonstrate their ability to present scholarly work to an audience of their peers.

3. Demonstrate a working understanding of "evidence-based" approaches to social problems and public policy. As a culminating skill set in our program, students should demonstrate their ability to apply social scientific (and otherwise rational) forms of reasoning, argumentation, research, and support in forming any particular worldview or position in the pursuit of "justice" and addressing social problems in our communities/societies.
4. Demonstrate their ability to undertake a critical analysis of a contemporary problem relevant to justice studies.

5. Students should read, write, and contribute to discussion at a skilled and capable level that appropriately reflects the culminating experience of their justice studies major.

Department of Justice Studies Reading and Writing Philosophy

The Department of Justice Studies is committed to scholarly excellence. Therefore, the Department promotes academic, critical, and creative engagement with language (i.e., reading and writing) throughout its curriculum. A sustained and intensive exploration of language prepares students to think critically and to act meaningfully in interrelated areas of their lives—personal, professional, economic, social, political, ethical, and cultural. Graduates of the Department of Justice Studies leave San José State University prepared to enter a range of careers and for advanced study in a variety of fields; they are prepared to more effectively identify and ameliorate injustice in their personal, professional and civic lives. Indeed, the impact of literacy is evident not only within the span of a specific course, semester, or academic program but also over the span of a lifetime.

Course Requirements and Assignments

“Success in this course is based on the expectation that students will spend, for each unit of credit, a minimum of 45 hours over the length of the course (normally three hours per unit per week) for instruction, preparation/studying, or course related activities, including but not limited to internships, labs, and clinical practice. Other course structures will have equivalent workload expectations as described in the syllabus.”

“Faculty members are required to have a culminating activity for their courses, which can include a final examination, a final research paper or project, a final creative work or performance, a final portfolio of work, or other appropriate assignment.”

1. Presentations – 30%
   Each student will be responsible for “running class” with two other students for two class periods. On the CANVAS Calendar, you must select one presentation week. Each presentation date is assigned a policy to debate. The group must inform the instructor of the planned issues discussed and resources used at least one week before the presentation date. [CLO 2-5]

2. Policy Paper – 40%
   Each student will write a 10 – 12 page policy paper (not including the cover or references page) analyzing a justice-related topic as a requirement for this course. Students can choose their topic based on their own research interests, but the topic must be approved by the instructor. The purpose of the paper is not just to specifically test knowledge, but to also force critical thinking about a chosen policy.
Students may not write on a policy that has been used for a previous course, or currently being used for another course, or is the policy used for the group presentation. This paper will include a review of scholarly literature on an approved topic. Students will be required to not only analyze and critique an existing policy, but also propose new or amended policies. The research reviewed must come from high quality justice-related journals, which establish and examine relationships between and among variables, concepts, theories, and policies. Based on the evidence reviewed, policy implications will be drawn.

The paper must include the following:
1. Introduction: Description of the specific topic, importance of the topic, and thesis
2. Literature Review: Relatively concise coverage of prior research on your topic
3. Policy Critique and Implications: A critique of current policies, based upon the literature, in terms of the implications of their effectiveness/ineffectiveness, and suggestions about alternative policies. This critique should pull upon findings in the literature to support the presenter’s point of view.
4. Conclusion.

A. In preparation for the policy paper, students will submit a proposal (2%) a revised proposal with 5 sources, and an annotated bibliography with ten sources. A handout detailing the expectations, content, formatting, and submission requirements of all policy paper assignments will be provided in a timely manner. [CLO 1, 3-5]

5. Live and Reaction Participation – 30%
You must submit a 500-word reaction to the presentation that highlights and responds to each presentation’s most salient points. Live participation must include more than simple attendance and praise. It must include multiple independent insights, questions, or other responses that further the conversation. You will likely be called upon to orally explain or expand on your written comments.
