List all other university-level PSYC or STAT courses taken anywhere. The removal of one or more prior grades from the gpa computations may be considered in cases where the computed gpa would not otherwise meet the 3.5 threshold and where there is contextual evidence that the course is not a normal indicator of your performance (e.g., a repeated course that did not use grade forgiveness or a very old grade). Although such approvals are rarely granted, students who would otherwise qualify for honors should investigate this option.

Whether or not to award Departmental Honors in Psychology is determined by the Department of Psychology based on your record when you graduate. Submit this form to the department of Psychology (DMH 157) generally in the same semester in which you apply for graduation. If your graduation date changes, you must request that Psychology office staff change the date on this form. This form is used by the PSYC DEPT only.
