Canvas
There is a Canvas site for this course and you will be automatically added. Some of your course assignments will be submitted in Canvas, and your grades will be posted to Canvas. You will have timely access to your grades throughout the semester. I will also use Canvas to post important notices and announcements, handouts and assignments, readings, additional information about assignments, and send group email messages should the need arise. I highly recommend that you check Canvas regularly for important messages and announcements and that the email account linked to your Canvas account is an email address that you check regularly. Canvas Learning Management System course login website at http://sjsu.instructure.com

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course explores major theories and concepts in the study of social psychology. While sociologists often focus on broad social structures, and psychologists tend to focus on the individual, social psychology merges these perspectives by examining the dynamic interplay between our social world and ourselves.

During our time together, we will examine the various effects of our “symbolic interactions”: the social construction of the most “personal” aspects of our selves, including how we view ourselves, how we feel about our self-conceptions, and how we feel in general; the unspoken rules that form the basis of our interactions with the people around us, including intimate relations as well as strangers; and how these interactions both shape and are shaped by broader social structures and conceptions of reality. In other words, how do we construct ourselves and our social world through our everyday interactions? We will also consider how patterns of privilege and oppression are created, reproduced, and challenged through these processes.

CLASSROOM PROTOCOL

Our class time will take a variety of formats, including lectures, large group discussions, small group discussions, and in-class exercises. I encourage you to ask questions during lectures. Because most of our time together with be interactive, your participation will be essential.
In order to make our class discussions and activities successful, you should complete all required readings and homework assignments before each class period, and bring these readings to class with you. To facilitate your respectful, engaged listening and active participation, cell phones, laptops, and other electronic devices must be turned off and put away during class time. If you do not follow this policy you will lose participation points. If you feel you need an exception to this policy, please meet with me individually. Additionally, to facilitate a respectful, safe and engaging classroom, no food or eating is allowed during class.

ASSIGNMENTS

Attendance & Participation

Our learning in this class will take part largely through discussion, and much of the information will be presented only in class. Thus, your attendance and participation in class is vital to its success, as well as to the quality of your overall performance. You will get participation credit for coming to class. Your participation grade will be based on the frequency and quality of your contributions to large group and small group discussions and completion of in-class activities (see details under “Grading”). Excellent (A-level) participation involves:

- Excellent punctuality
- Respectful, engaged listening during lectures and discussions
- Frequent contributions to large and small group discussions
- Contributions that make specific reference to course materials
- Thoughtful completing of in-class activities

Reading and Quizzes

There will be readings assigned for each class meeting and an assignment associated with each reading. Some of these will be traditional quizzes or short reflections. These assignments will be associated with the course readings.

Homework Assignments

I will sometimes assign activities that will ask you to reflect on course materials, participate in an activity outside of class, or prepare you for an in-class activity. Detailed instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Fieldwork Projects:

There will be several “Fieldwork Projects” throughout the quarter which will require you to engage in your own social psychology research/observations. This will be an opportunity to make the course concepts come to life and to practice social research methods. Your final grade will be based on your two highest Fieldwork Project scores. You may opt to complete only two of them or to complete three or more; either way, only your two highest scores will be calculated into your grade. Detailed instructions for the Fieldwork Projects will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.
Final Project:
You will have multiple options for this project, but each will involve conducting your own observations of social life, connecting them to the concepts and theories discussed in the course readings, and sharing your observations with the class. One option will involve completing a photo-autobiography (connecting course concepts to your own life in a visual format), and another will involve selecting a case study from the social world to illustrate an important course concept/theme. Detailed instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Late Assignment and Make-up Work Policy

There will be a one-day grace period for all other assignments. Please aim to submit your assignments early or on time whenever possible; this will help you stay on track with your coursework, and it will help me with grading. In those cases where you need a little extra time, you may use the grace period (no need to contact me for permission). If your circumstances warrant further extensions, please get in touch with me as soon as you can to discuss your options.

Canvas will automatically drop your lowest score in the assignment categories meaning that you can miss one of each with no penalty.

If you have an ongoing issue that will require multiple absences, it’s important that you let me know as soon as possible and stay in touch with me. In order to receive an extension on class assignments, you will need to contact me immediately (before the due date) and submit documentation of the emergency.

What to Do if You’re Absent
If you are a student who has frequent absences, this will not be an appropriate course for you: you will need to attend class in order to get participation credit, submit homework, and learn material that is not presented in the course readings. However, I recognize that absences are sometimes unavoidable. If you miss a class, you should:

- Check with a classmate for notes about what you missed.
- Check Canvas to see if anything has been posted.
- Make arrangements to submit any major assignments to me early.

Please note that you will NOT be able to:

- Make up any homework assignments or in-class activities (you may miss one homework assignment with no grade penalty).
- Receive a review of missed materials from me.
If you have an ongoing issue that will require multiple absences, it’s important that you let me know as soon as possible and stay in touch with me.

Submitting Papers

Papers must be submitted on Canvas. I do not accept e-mailed papers, and the Sociology office will not accept papers you try to turn in there. Most assignments will be submitted electronically (through Canvas or other online formats); when this is the case, it will be specifically noted on the assignment instructions.

Workload and Requirements

SJSU classes are designed such that in order to be successful, it is expected that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week), including preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf.

GRADING

Your final course evaluation will be based on your performance on the above assignments. These assignments will be weighted as follows:

- Participation 15%
- Reading Quizzes 15%
- Homework 10%
- Fieldwork Projects (2@15% each) 30%
- Final Project 25%

Final course grades will be assigned based on the following scale; grades below 60% will be considered failing (“F”):

- A+ = 98 – 100%
- B+ = 88 – 89.9%
- C+ = 78 – 79.9%
- D+ = 68 – 69.9%
- A = 92 – 97.9%
- B = 82 – 87.9%
- C = 72 – 77.9%
- D = 62 – 67.9%
- A- = 90 – 91.9%
- B- = 80 – 81.9%
- C- = 70 – 71.9%
- D- = 60 – 61.9%

A Grades

Grades in the A range will be granted only for exceptional work. Exceptional, or A, work refers to exemplary work that goes above and beyond basic requirements, demonstrating critical thinking, clarity, and sophistication in form (e.g., language use, structure, format) as well as substance (e.g., logically developed arguments, use of appropriate examples). This is work that could serve as a model for other students.

B Grades

Grades in the B range are earned with work submitted on time that is of good quality. B work meets all the requirements and involves clear, coherent, carefully edited writing; for oral presentations, it involves executing a clear, informative, and engaging presentation. The work has a clear purpose and appropriate development, but may lack in originality or insightfulness. Written work demonstrates careful editing and a solid grasp on grammar and mechanics.

C Grades

Grades in the C range are earned with work submitted on time that fulfills basic requirements and is of satisfactory quality. This work is competent: the author establishes a purpose and supporting ideas, but argument may be somewhat vague, unclear, or uneven. There may be structural issues and problems with the clarity of prose and incorrect use of grammar.

Grade Checks

In general, you should keep track of your own grade by keeping your returned assignments, noting the scores, and using the course grading breakdown listed above. If you need formal verification of your grade (for paperwork associated with a scholarship, student organization, etc.), you should e-mail me at least 24 hours ahead of time to let me know you’ll be bringing grade check paperwork to class. If you ask me in class with no advance notice, I will not be able to provide a grade estimate for you.
