Canvas
There is a Canvas site for this course and you will be automatically added. Some of your course assignments will be submitted in Canvas, and your grades will be posted to Canvas. You will have timely access to your grades throughout the semester. I will also use Canvas to post important notices and announcements, handouts and assignments, readings, additional information about assignments, and send group email messages should the need arise. I highly recommend that you check Canvas regularly for important messages and announcements and that the email account linked to your Canvas account is an email address that you check regularly. Course Description
This is an advanced seminar course emphasizing a sociological examination of the multiple meanings of "family, love, marriage, parenting, intimacy, and community" in the United States and transnationally. Beginning with the assumption that the meaning and practice of family life in the United States is mediated through multidimensional systems of gender, race, class, nationality, and sexuality, we will spend our time exploring these meanings and practices. We will investigate how social, cultural, political and economic contexts of inequality shape families in the United States and transnationally through discussion, film, writing, reading, and teaching

Catalog Description: Examines the historical development of family in the context of social, cultural, political, and economical inequalities, and how intersections of gender, race, class, nationality, sexuality, and age impact understandings of family and intimacy. Explores relationships within families and new family forms.

Course Goals and Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Identify the historical, social, political, and economic processes that have produced structured inequalities in family experiences in the United States.
- Identify and articulate how racism, xenophobia, classism, sexism, and heterosexism operate to exclude certain groups of people in the United States from equal access to family life.
- Identify, apply, and articulate the link between sociological theories of family and the manifestation of structured inequalities in the lives of families.
- Evaluate the multidimensional communication issues facing couples, parents, and kids.
- Evaluate social science information, draw on different points of view, and formulate curriculum appropriate to sociology of family.
- Use their sociological imaginations to evaluate the processes through which an individual’s age, gender, ethnicity, race, and/or sexual orientation can shape their experiences in a family.
- Understand and take ownership of their participation in a classroom community of teachers and learners.
- Acquire and/or continue to develop the skills necessary to meet the first seven CLOs, including (but not limited to): oral communication, problem solving, mediation, facilitation, active listening, observation, reading, writing, analysis, and critical thinking.

REQUIRED COURSE MATERIALS

Textbooks

Access to a computer with internet and printing capabilities (you will frequently need to access assignment instructions online and print assignments)

All other readings will be posted on Canvas

CLASS REQUIREMENTS

Attendance & Participation

Our learning in this class will take place largely through discussion, and much of the information will be presented only in class. Thus, your attendance and participation in class is vital to its success, as well as to the quality of your overall performance. You will get participation credit for coming to class. Your participation grade will be based on the frequency and quality of your contributions to large group and small group discussions and completion of in-class activities (see details under “Grading”).

Reading & Reading Responses

There will be a significant amount of material to read each week. With the exception of the first week, all reading should be done by our first-class meeting of the week. I will assign a reading response each week, which will be due by the first-class meeting of the week, they must be submitted in Canvas by Noon. These responses will require you to demonstrate your completion, comprehension, and engagement in relation to the week’s readings. Details instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Homework Assignments

In addition to the reading responses, I will sometimes assign short homework assignments that will ask you to reflect on course materials or prepare you for a class activity. Detailed instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Essay

There will be one essay due in the middle of the quarter. This assignment will ask you to use the course materials to think critically and deeply about a central course question and is in lieu of a midterm exam. Detailed instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Final Project

This assignment is designed to allow you to creatively explore a topic related to our course theme that you find particularly intriguing. I encourage you to work in groups on your final project, although this is not a requirement. The guidelines for this assignment are flexible. You will present your final project to the class, and you must make direct connections to the course readings. You will also turn in an annotated bibliography of your sources and a written summary of your presentation. Some suggestions for the final project include:

Sociology of the Family, SOCI 170, Spring 2020

- Stage a debate on family policy (or some other “family” issue)
- Create a photo essay or documentary organized around a course theme
- Test a claim from one (or more) of the readings
- Teach the class about a topic we haven’t explored

Several weeks prior to the final project deadline, I will ask you to submit a project proposal. I will distribute a final project prompt prior to asking for your project proposal.

Note: Attendance is mandatory on final presentation days (the last week of the course and our scheduled final exam period). Please do not take this course if you do not plan on attending classes during finals week.

Detailed instructions will be posted on Canvas and discussed in class.

Extra Credit

For extra credit you may complete a film analysis, details for this assignment are in Canvas.

Extra credit assignments will constitute a maximum of 5% of your course grade.

General Assignment Guidelines & Policies

Please pay attention to the submission instructions on each assignment; most will be submitted on Canvas, but I may require hard copy submissions of some assignments.

Hard copy assignments should be typed, printed, and (when appropriate) stapled.

Online assignments should be submitted in .doc or .pdf format. Please note that Canvas will not read .pages files. It is your responsibility to submit your assignment on time; if you wait until the last minute, you will not have time to deal with any technical problems that arise, so please give yourself plenty of cushion between when you submit your assignment and the final deadline.

GRADING

Assignment grades will be posted on Canvas. Your final course evaluation will be based on your performance on the above assignments. These assignments will be weighted as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Weightage</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Attendance and Participation</td>
<td>15%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reading Responses</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Homework Assignments 10%

Essay 20%

Final Project 25%

Final course grades will be assigned based on the following scale.

A+ = 98 – 100%  B+ = 88 – 89.9%  C+ = 78 – 79.9%  D+ = 68 – 69.9%
A   = 92 – 97.9%  B   = 82 – 87.9%  C   = 72 – 77.9%  D   = 62 – 67.9%
A-  = 90 – 91.9%  B-  = 80 – 81.9%  C-  = 70 – 71.9%  D-  = 60 – 61.9%

A Grades
Grades in the “A” range will be granted for exceptional work. Exceptional, or “A,” work refers to exemplary work that goes above and beyond requirements, demonstrating an outstanding understanding of course materials/concepts and deep engagement with these materials/concepts. For written assignments, exceptional work also involves advanced writing skills. This is work that could serve as a model for other students.

B Grades
Grades in the “B” range are earned with work submitted on time that is of very good quality. “B” work meets all the requirements and demonstrates a strong understanding of the course materials and concepts and engagement with these materials/concepts. For written assignments, “B”-level work also involves clear, coherent, carefully edited writing.

C Grades
Grades in the “C” range are earned with work submitted on time that fulfills basic requirements and is of satisfactory quality. This work demonstrates a developing understanding of course materials.

Participation Grading
Excellent (“A” level) participation involves:

• Excellent punctuality
• Completion of all small group activities
• Respectful, engaged listening during lectures and discussions
• Frequent contributions to large and small group discussions
• Contributions that make specific reference to course materials
Homework, attendance, and participation: I will not accept late homework assignments, as I will be assigning them for the purpose of facilitating in-class activities. There will be no way to make up attendance and participation credit for missed days of class.

Reading reflections: I will not accept late reading reflections; however, your lowest reading reflection score will be dropped. This means you can miss one reading reflection with no grade penalty.

Formal assignments: Your formal assignments will be graded down 10% for each day past the due date.

Grade Checks
In general, you should keep track of your own grade, particularly since assignment grades will be posted in Canvas. If you need formal verification of your grade (for paperwork associated with a scholarship, student organization, etc.), you should come to my office hours or e-mail me at least 24 hours ahead of time. If you ask me in class with no advance notice, I will not be able to provide a grade estimate for you.

KEY DATES

- Friday March 13th: by 11:59pm on Canvas: Essay Due
- Tuesday April 28th: Final Presentations Begin and Paper Due

Please be aware of all-important dates for the college by consulting the Academic Calendar.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS

Classroom Format
Our class time will take a variety of formats, including lecture, large group discussion, small group discussion, class activities, and time for individual written reflection. I encourage you to ask questions during lectures.

How to Prepare for Class & What to Bring With You
In order to make our class discussions and activities successful, you should complete all required readings before the first-class meeting of the week and bring the readings to class with you. I also encourage you to bring and informally present relevant news articles and other materials related to course themes and readings.

Electronics and Food Policy
In order to make our class discussions and activities successful, you should complete all required readings and homework assignments before each class period, and bring these readings to class with you. To facilitate your respectful, engaged listening and active participation, cell phones, laptops, and other electronic devices must be turned off and put away during class time. If you do not follow this policy you will lose participation points. If you feel you need an exception to this policy, please meet with me individually. Additionally, to facilitate a respectful, safe and engaging classroom, no food or eating is allowed during class.

Guidelines for Classroom Conduct
I am committed to fostering a learning environment that is respectful, productive, and inclusive. This requires each person in the class to behave in a way that is professional, respectful, and collegial. In order to achieve this, please observe the following classroom norms:

- Listen closely to what others have to say.
- Allow others to share their opinions and observations, even if you disagree with them. We can respectfully ask others to critically examine their assumptions and beliefs in the face of empirical evidence or faulty logic.
- Do not demean or diminish the experiences that other people are willing to share. We can ask individuals to contextualize their experience within a larger social pattern.
- Self-monitor your use of the classroom “verbal space.” Participate in discussions without dominating them. If you haven’t contributed to the discussion, make an effort to do so.
- Have a sense of humor about our social world. Be willing to accept other people’s blunders without assuming they are trying to be offensive.
- Be committed to grow and learn about your own social self and world.

What to Do if You’re Absent
If you are a student who has frequent absences, this will not be an appropriate course for you: you will need to attend class in order to get attendance and participation credit and learn material that is not presented in the course readings. However, I recognize that absences are sometimes unavoidable. If you miss a class, you should:

- Check with a classmate for notes about what you missed.
• Check Canvas to see if anything has been posted.

Please note that you will NOT be able to:

• Make up any homework assignments, in-class activities, or attendance/participation credit.
• Receive a review of missed materials from me.

If you have an ongoing issue that will require multiple absences, it’s important that you let me know as soon as possible and stay in touch with me.

Time Requirements

This is a 3-credit course. You should expect this to entail approximately 2.5 hours in class each week, and 5-7 hours outside of class. In order for you to be successful in this course and for the course to run effectively, falling behind is not an option.

CONTACTING PROFESSOR ROBERTS

Office Hours

I strongly encourage you to meet with me individually throughout the semester. You’re welcome to meet with me for clarification on any course materials/concepts, further discussion of course topics, guidance as you prepare for upcoming assignments, questions about feedback on previous assignments, or just to check in. Please note that I do not provide reviews of material you missed due to absences (check with your classmates for notes if you are absent).

My office hours this quarter will be by appointment, and I will generally be available to meet right after class; please let me know in person or through e-mail if you’d like to schedule an appointment.

E-mail

You are welcome to e-mail me, but please note that I do not provide assignment/draft feedback or grade checks over e-mail (see me in office hours for these purposes). Before you send your e-mail, please check to make sure that you have:

• Included the course (SOC 170) in the subject line.

• Followed general correspondence guidelines, such as including a salutation.

• Proofread your message.

• Reviewed the course syllabus and any relevant assignment prompts to make sure your question hasn’t already been answered in one of those documents.
I will respond to your e-mail within 24 hours on weekdays IF you follow the above guidelines. If you don’t, I may ask you to review these guidelines and send a revised version.
